A Celebration Of Dairy

Lancaster Farming Salutes Producers During June Dairy Month

Bob Thomson of Tor Tamarack Farm in Bradford County makes sure the calves are treated right. Individual pens and curtain sides keep the calves healthy. Thomson and his wife, Olive, first moved to Bradford County ~~in the 1950s. Since then they have~~ made steady improvements to the land and their 700-acre dairy farm, including turning a swamp into beautiful 60-acre lake. See story page A34. Photo by Carolyn Moyer

Developing a recipe for goats' milk ice cream was a yearlong undertaking for Rick and Deneise Goss of Palmyra. Besides operating their own goat dairy and marketing the milk, they have recently begun selling six flavors of ice cream.

The couple — who calls their business "rewarding" and "gratifying" — considers goat's milk and ice cream production to be a labor of love and service to the community. Full report page A42.

Melvin Durrwachter shows off a cooler of fresh, glass-bottled milk at the Pure Country dairy store in Williamsport. Milk from 25 local farms is bottled and sold at the store as well as being distributed to other stores in the area. Durrwachter volunteers at the new bottling facility, keeping the dairy tradition in his family alive. His father and grandfather had dairies and milk routes in the Williamsport area from the early 1900s.

Pure Country offers its customers unhomogenized whole milk in addition to homogenized whole, 2%, skim and chocolate milks. All of the milk is pasteurized. Dave Duncan, president of the farmer's cooperative that supplies milk to Pure Country, said that the new cooperative and store were started out of a need for local dairy farmers to take their livelihood into their own hands. See story page A33.

Steve and Jody Martin recently began farming this 96-acre dairy near Schaefferstown. Steve, son of Gene and Linda Martin, recently began to operate the farm purchased by his father. Gene and Linda, who operate Swamp Valley Beef and Blue Lake Builders in Denver, went out of their way to ensure a start on the farm for their children. The ideal herd size for Steve and Jody is about 112 cows milking. The herd average has been improved through the use of good feed supplied to the cows. See story page A39. Photo by Stan Hall

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
May 30, 2001
Report Supplied By USDA

Daily National Grain Market Summary

Grain bids were slightly higher with light support from crop ratings figures and export sales. Wheat finished steady to 4 cents higher. Corn 1 to 4 cents higher. Sorghum 1 cent higher. Soybeans 1 to 3 cents lower.

Wheat bids finished higher as cheaper grain prices looking attractive to export buyers. Corn prices closed slightly higher as production and weather items remain negative with good top soil moisture, in the Corn belt areas. Soybeans bids lower after yesterday's planting progress showed no change from last week. Rain makes grain but dryer weather could be beneficial to soybean seeding and overall crop development. EXPORT SALES: PURCHASER COMMODITY TONNAGE DELIVERY DATE CCC Georgia Hard Red Winter 10,800 June Egypt Soft White 60,000 Jul/Aug South Korea Corn 110,000 Jul/Aug Corn 110,000 Aug/Sep China Soybeans 110,000 01/02 crop sea.

Totals: Wheat 70,800 tonnes, Corn 220,000 tonnes, Soybeans 110,000 tonnes.

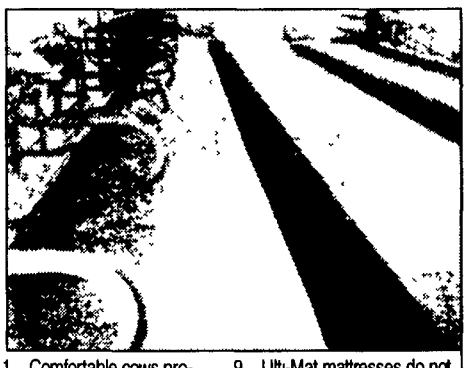
ULTI-MAT™
The Ultimate in Cow Comfort



THE ONLY All Rubber Mattress that recovers to original shape after cow movement

FACTS and FEATURES about Cow Comfort & the Ulti-Mat™ I.

- An all-rubber mattress that is rebuildable (no sewing to come apart, no material to tear).
- Choice of mattress covers.
- 3" nominal thickness
- Water & acid resistant polyurethane binder
- Uses PA reclaimed tire rubber.
- The most comfort for cows of any type of installation.
- Designed by farmers
- Mattress inert does not promote fungus or bacterial growth

New Farmer-Friendly installation allows changing cover or rebuilding mattress in minutes!

1 Comfortable cows produce more milk
2 Ulti-Mat all rubber cow mattresses provide excellent, confident footing
3 Cows stand in line to get on Ulti-Mat mattresses
4 Mattresses stay level
5 Comfort doesn't change after 3 years in barn
6 Rubber doesn't displace under cover.
7 All rubber Ulti-Mat mattress recovers to its original shape every time cows change foot position
8 No ripple effect of top cover
9 Ulti-Mat mattresses do not become thinner and harder over time
10 Ulti-Mat mattresses use only a specific cut of rubber that always keeps its memory
11 Ulti-Mat mattresses are totally protected by a patent-pending installation method, and the mattress cover
12 Warranty on Ulti-Mat mattresses is the same as whatever the cover is warranted for 13 Up to 5 year warranty with vinyl cover - patent pending on mattress installation method

SPECIAL NOTICE: Because of the success of the Ulti-Mat™ Zartman Farms is now introducing a complete line of new mattresses.

During June Dairy Month!

The OLD FARMER'S THIS WEEK WITH ALMANAC

JUNE 4–10, 2001

ST. BONIFACE, JUNE 5

STRAWBERRIES AND ROSES

June 4 is dedicated to Rosalia, marked by the Roman festival of the rose in honor of this native of Palermo, who dedicated herself to the worship of the Virgin Mary. June 5 is the Full Strawberry Moon, which the Europeans know as the Full Rose Moon.

Whether you celebrate with red roses or red berries, however, you can't go far wrong Strawberries are symbolic of "perfect excellence " To affirm your affections for a loved one, the appropriate gift is roses, of course. It is said that a woman can tell the strength of her admirer's feelings by snapping the stem of the rose he gives her The louder the snap, the stronger the affections. Dreaming of red roses is a sign of good fortune

From all the youths of Sicily, St. Rosalia retired to God.

–Sir Walter Scott Scottish poet (1771–1832)

TIP OF THE WEEK

STRAWBERRY MARMALADE

2 pints fresh strawberries, hulled and sliced sugar, to taste (about 1 or 2 tablespoons)
1/2 cup orange marmalade
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons balsamic vinegar

Mix berries and sugar and let stand. Mix marmalade, lemon juice, and vinegar Stir this in with berries, then chill. (Serve with pancakes, in crepes, or on vanilla ice cream.)

Makes 2 to 3 cups.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

When swallows in the evenings fly high and chirp, fair weather follows.

If clouds fly to the west at sunrise, expect fair weather.

OPINION

'Hands-On' Dairying

Throughout the course of the summer, many dairy farms in the Mid-Atlantic open their doors, so to speak, to outside visitors, farm and nonfarm alike, to see how a dairy operates.

It can be fun. It can also be a great challenge not only to educate the public about how dairies work, but dealing with the public itself.

Hats off, then, to Oregon Dairy, who every year conduct the annual Oregon Dairy Family Farm Days. The open house event is scheduled June 12-14 this year, from 11 a.m.-7 p.m., at the farm off Rt. 272 and 222 north of Lancaster.

Last year the event drew more than 8,000 people. Those visitors enjoyed a variety of dairy and agriculture activities in celebration of June Dairy Month. It's almost a "hands-on" event for the public.

Farm managers and volunteers take the general public on a short hay wagon tour, where exhibits from a variety of milk industry companies and agencies provide a great deal of information about the state's dairy industry.

And of course there are the free ice cream sundaes. This year they will have the chicken barbecue dinner, also, for a small fee.

Point is, in light of the recent scares about foot and mouth disease, and with a prolonged legislative concern about protecting the public from harms that can be stopped by the simple suggestion of washing your hands after you touch animals and before you eat — isn't it nice to know that the nonfarm public is welcome to the farm?

Let's hope others take these examples to heart. For others who are considering something similar to what Oregon Dairy does: please, don't keep the public away from knowing where their food comes from.

And happy June Dairy Month from all of us here at Lancaster Farming!

To Evaluate Uneven Corn Fields For Yield Impact

Dr. Greg Roth, Penn State corn management specialist, provides the following guidelines for evaluating corn fields with uneven emergence.

Many corn fields have good stands despite the earlier period of dry weather, but some fields have late emerging plants and uneven stands. This is most common in tilled soils in areas with clay knobs, poor soil structure, or cloddy soils which cause poor seed-to-soil contact. Since the recent rains, many of these gaps are filling in with late-emerging plants and the result is a mixture of larger and smaller plants. An important question to ask is how much will this variation impact yield?

A study conducted at the University of Wisconsin and University of Illinois several years ago addressed this question. This study showed that when one fourth of the plants emerged within the row about three weeks later than the others, yields were reduced about 10 percent relative to a uniform stand. When one half to three fourth plants emerged three weeks later, the yield loss was about 20 to 22 percent relative to a uniform stand.

The later plants in the mixed stands will have higher moisture content at harvest. They will also be subject to more silk clippings by rootworm beetles. If the original stand were destroyed and replanted three weeks later, yields were reduced by 12 percent relative to the original early planting.

As a result, replanting a mixed stand might result in a 10 percent yield benefit if more than half of the stand was delayed in emergence. There are costs and risks involved with replanting, however. Since most fields have much less delayed emergence than 50 percent, replanting is probably not justified in most cases.

To Prepare For Monitoring Worm Pests Of Sweet Corn

Dr. Shelby Fleischer and others in the Department of Entomology report that using pheromone lures to monitor for the three "worm" pests of sweet corn — European corn borer, corn earworm, and the fall armyworm — has been very effective.

Proper monitoring allows growers to increase spray frequency when populations are high and decrease spray frequency when populations are low. Using trap counts to adjust spray frequency results in fewer total sprays, offering a benefit in terms of both dollar savings on pesticide and time saved by not spraying.

A pheromone trap is designed to attract only males of the desired species using chemicals that resemble insect sex pheromones (sexual attractants). However, insect pheromones are very complicated blends of volatile chemicals and similar species are often attracted to similar blends.

If a lure does not have the exact chemicals in the correct proportions, it may attract insects other than the insect you want to trap. It is these unwanted (although often very similar) insect species that are called "nontarget captures." Nontarget captures artificially inflate the trap count, giving the appearance that there is more pest insects than is truly the case. When an error from nontarget captures is not corrected, it can result in recommendations to spray when sprays are not needed.

For both the European corn borer and the corn earworm, pheromone traps have been effective in accurately representing the population by mostly capturing the desired species.

Unfortunately, the current pheromone lure for the fall armyworm attracts a few species besides fall armyworm. In the past, the most common nontarget capture in fall armyworm pheromone traps was an insect called Leucania phragmatidicola, a moth without a common name. L. phragmatidicola feeds on grass and is not know to be a pest of sweet corn. When a fall armyworm pheromone trap erroneously captures high numbers of L. phragmatidicola, it gives the appearance that the fall armyworm population is greater than its true size. This case of mistaken identity can result in unnecessary spray applications.

Users of blacklight traps must be just as careful in their identification because the blacklight traps will capture most nocturnal insects and therefore almost certainly have look-alike species to the fall armyworm.

The Penn State Entomology Department staff has developed a Webpage with pictures highlighting some of the characters that can be used to identify the fall armyworm and distinguish it from L. phragmatidicola. You can find this Website at http://www.ento.psu.edu/vegetable/armyworm/armyworm.html.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE COST OF 'TOUGH' TALK

Background Scripture:
1 Kings 12; 2 Chronicles 10:1 through 11:12.

Devotional Reading:
Matthew 11;27-30.

In our society, especially in the media, our leaders are usually judged on the basis of how "tough" they talk.

"Tough" is good, a sign of strength. Less than "tough" is not good, a sure indication of weakness. This is true even of people who regard themselves as followers of Jesus Christ, even though, according to the gospels, Jesus rarely if ever talked "tough" per se.

Jesus spoke some hard truths, but he did not seek to intimidate his hearers. That's what "tough" talk is all about — coping by intimidation.

Until our own era, "tough" talk was pretty much the private property of the male sex. Men were, and are, expected to talk "tough." Women were not. Today, lots of women are sounding a lot like men with their own "tough" talk. What God wants from all of us, I believe, is wise, not necessarily "tough" talk.

Appeal To Reason

In 1 Kings 12, we see King Solomon's heir apparent, Rehoboam, confronted with a great opportunity to perpetuate the kingdom that his father Solomon and his grandfather David so carefully put together. This is a pivotal moment — the nation can just as easily break apart as continue unified.

Truthfully but respectfully, Jeroboam, the unofficial leader of the northern tribes (don't confuse him with Rehoboam), says to the heir apparent, "Your father made our yoke heavy. Now therefore lighten the hard service of your father and his heavy yoke upon us, and we will serve you" (1 Ki. 12:4).

It sounds like a strong plea for compromise. To his credit, Rehoboam, instead of replying immediately, asks for three days to reply. Then he consults with his advisers. Unfortunately, the advisers seem to form two distinct groups: the older ones who had served his father and the younger ones with whom he grew up. Old vs. new is not necessarily the best way to categorize counsel. Truth and wisdom are not the special province of either group.

The old advisers tell him: "If you will be a servant to this people today and serve them and speak good words to them . . . then they will be your servants forever" (v. 7). They are not advising him to grovel before the northern tribes, but to speak to them with good will and reason. But, because they were older men, he disregarded their wisdom. His superfragile ego demanded that he make the northerners grovel before him.

'In Your Face!'

Instead, he turned to the young advisers. Because they were close to the heir apparent, they were not very likely to give him advice he didn't want — and they did not: "Thus shall you speak to this people . . . 'My little finger is thicker than my father's loins'" (12:10).

Men seem to win points when they talk "tough," but if they use crude language, they score even more highly. They have appealed to his masculinity, implying that he will be less a real man than his father if he does not intimidate the northerners. How much of our behavior today is still based upon allusions to male genitalia?

So, instead of good will and a spirit of compromise, Rehoboam responds with the "tough" talk: "My father made your yoke heavy, but I will add to your yoke; my father chastised you with whips, but I will chastise you with scorpions" (12:14). In today's vernacular, he is saying "In your face!" One can almost hear his youthful advisers chorusing, "That's telling them, Rehoboam. Right on!"

Rehoboam pumped up his ego, but lost a golden opportunity. The northern tribes left the kingdom, never to return. What his father and grandfather had nurtured now lay in ruins.

That is the price of talking "tough" when we ought to be talking "wise."

Nutra-Flo FOLIAR PLANT FOOD ...the Yield Booster!

Completely Safe, Will Not Burn Plants

Nutra-Flo "foliar plant food" is completely safe for foliar application.

- made from 100% orthophosphate
- chloride-free
- 100% water soluble
- crystal clear, water-white liquid
- low-salt index
- neutral pH

Improves Soybean, Corn & Alfalfa Yields

Research shows foliar feeding boosts maturity, quality and yield. Plants get an immediate source of N-P-K when soil nutrients are unavailable. Large applications of nitrogen, high organic matter, high or low pH, dry conditions, excess moisture, extreme heat or cold can reduce macro or micronutrient availability.

CROP	BENEFITS OF FOLIAR PLANT FOOD	YIELD INCREASE
Soybeans	• Improves and increases pod set • Hastens maturity	Up to 12 bu/A
Corn	• Higher test weight • Drier corn at harvest	Up to 9 bu/A
Alfalfa	• Increased protein quality • Hastens maturity	Up to 4 ton/A

Easy to Apply with Post-Emerge Chemicals

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food can be piggy-backed with most insecticide and herbicide applications. It meets Monsanto's strict compatibility specifications for combining liquid N-P-K with Roundup® Ultra for application on Roundup Ready® soybeans.

Foliar Application Guidelines

CROP	FIRST APPLICATION	SECOND APPLICATION	AMOUNT FOR EACH APPLICATION
Soybeans	4th to 6th leaf trifoliate	60 to 80% pod set	3 to 6 gals/A
Corn	3 to 5 leaf collar	10 to 15 days before tassel	3 to 6 gals/A
Alfalfa	4 to 6 days after each cutting		3 to 6 gals/A

Lower Costs, Higher Yields

SAVE Up to 25%

Nutra-Flo foliar plant food costs less. You'll enjoy these other economic benefits when you foliar apply Nutra-Flo plant food:

- Higher profits
- High energy
- Faster maturity
- Drier crops at harvest
- Higher protein levels
- Better nutrient uptake
- Increased disease resistance
- More drought resistance
- Increased root growth
- No application costs when you combine with post-emerge chemicals

Why Be Sick And Tired?

America has more sick people than most countries, because they eat too much cooked food which lost all the enzymes and up to 80% of the nutrition. Most food you buy contains harmful toxins because weed killers, insecticides and many other chemicals were used to grow it, and in processing to increase shelf life. But there is a solution to the problem.

Why Not Be Healthy And Energetic?

Many doctors and people are now using a new and better way to remove toxins and poisons from the body, clean out the arteries and build up a good strong immune system with good nutrition. This is like ammunition for the immune system so it can fight off diseases with amazing results. The research and technology to produce these excellent products from "all natural and organically grown fruit, grain and vegetables" was supervised by doctors. The cost is considerably less than drugs, chelation, chemotherapy, radiation and operations. It does NOT interfere with medication. There are also viruses now that can not be stopped with antibiotics, but these all natural products are producing excellent results with supervision from doctors.

Doctors Are Switching

Ask for free information on why over 3000 doctors have already switched from drugs to alternative medicine in helping people recover from cancer, heart attacks, arthritis diabetes, lupus, fibromyalgia, allergies, fatigue and many other health problems without any side effects. We make no health claims. We work with doctors in giving the body what it needs, so it can heal itself. There is also a Prevention program to help you from getting sick. "An ounce of prevention costs far less, and is so much better than a pound of cure." Which would you prefer, $149 a year to help prevent a heart attack, or a $50,000 by pass operation? The choice is yours. Let us try to help you.

Weekly Dairy Market Outlook

Ken Bailey
Penn State

Global Butter Markets Tighten

- European butter stocks low because of foot and mouth disease.
- Australia and New Zealand production nearing seasonal end.
- U.S. cheese and butter prices remain firm.

The psychological barrier to higher U.S. butter prices may be tested sometime this summer as international sources tighten up. USDA reported this week in Dairy Market News that available supplies of butter in both Europe and Oceania are relatively tight.

The milk supply in Western Europe is expected to be reduced because of cool/wet conditions and animal slaughter because of foot and mouth disease. Cheese production will remain unchanged, with most of the reductions occurring in other manufactured dairy products. Thus, butter/powder prices are expected to be high this summer because of the milk shortage.

Milk production is nearing the seasonal end in both Australia and New Zealand. New Zealand is expected to finish the season 8 percent ahead of last year. Australia, however, will be 3-3.5 percent behind a year ago.

While the additional milk production in New Zealand will result in greater inventories of manufactured products, USDA reports that most are already committed. In fact, recent butter sales to the U.S. have "depleted most volumes that were additionally available." Other countries are avoiding Western European sources and are looking to New Zealand to fill their butter needs.

Oceania prices (Australia and New Zealand) for 82 percent butterfat were $0.59-$0.61 per pound for the week May 14-25, 2001.

U.S. prices for butter and cheese looked very strong this week. The Chicago Mercantile Exchange reported barrel cheese prices $1.56-1.58 per pound, and block cheese prices of $1.6075-$1.6175 per pound for the week of May 21-25. Grade AA butter prices remained steady at $1.91 per pound.

The futures markets at the Chicago Mercantile Exchange also remained firm this week.

As of May 25, settlement prices for Class III futures reached about $15 per CWT for the months July September 2001. Class IV settlement futures had a peak of $15.50 for August 2001. The May Class III price is expected to be $13.80 per CWT and the Class IV price is expected to be $14.90.

Maryland Dairy Scholarships Available

Two $4,000 scholarships are available to Maryland youth who are currently enrolled in or have been enrolled in a dairy project (all dairy breeds). Students must be pursuing a four-year degree in any agricultural program in the college of their choice. Scholarships are available to entering freshmen through entering seniors.

A recent picture and a current transcript must accompany the application. Applications must be postmarked no later than July 1. The scholarships will be presented at the Dairy Awards Program at the Maryland State Fair.

These scholarships are made possible due to the generous donation of a Friend of Maryland Dairy Youth and 4-H.

For applications or more information contact: Arthur and Peggy Johnson, Co-Chairs, 22520 Mt. Ephriam Road, Dickerson, MD 20842, (301) 972-8274.

The Ephrata National Bank

When we made our first dairy loan, our customers milked their cows by hand and bank deposits were hand recorded in a ledger.

Just as Dairy Farmers have embraced new technology, so has Ephrata National. Just as Dairy Farmers cherish their rural heritage so does Ephrata National. The Ephrata National Bank is eager to serve your financial needs.

Do you want:
- Fairly priced loans with no tricky interest rate calculations?
- An established community bank with local management?
- No minimum balance, no fee checking?
- An experienced Ag lender willing to visit your farm?

For all this and more, look to
The Ephrata National Bank.
We have what it takes to provide the financial tools necessary for you to successfully manage your farming business.

A Dry Cow Booster That Costs 7¢ a Day

Hoffmans Horse and Cattle Powder is an ideal tonic for cows over freshening. Feed 6 wks. before freshening. 1 Tablespoon a day. (Two weeks over freshening, feed 1 Tablespoon in the morning & 1 Tablespoon in evening)

Cows will clean better after freshening Cows have a lower somatic cell count and will have less mastitus problems Great for reproduction tract and cows will cycle better after freshening Will help rumen function over freshing Less feet problems and less stress

This is an over-all good booster if fed to dry cows, and it will pay you big dividends

National Holstein Convention June 27-30

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa — Holstein breeders from across the U.S. and overseas will convene here June 27-30, for the National Holstein Convention. The convention is the annual meeting of Holstein Association USA, the national Holstein dairy cattle breed organization based in Brattleboro, Vt. Approximately 1,500 breeders, spouses, juniors, and dairy industry persons will attend the convention. Also featured are a trade show, educational sessions, dairy farm tours and visits to several local attractions, including Deere and Co.'s tractor works in Waterloo.

"We've planned something for everyone, whether a person is new to the Holstein business or has been attending national conventions for years," said convention co-chair Leon Sigwarth, a Holstein breeder from Holy Cross. "This will be a great opportunity for breeders to get more involved in the industry and learn about the latest developments in animal identification, biotechnology, genetics, merchandising, and dairy management. There will also be time to socialize with fellow breeders and explore some unique Iowa attractions," Sigwarth said. Fellow members of the Iowa Holstein Association have joined him to coordinate the convention.

Convention highlights include:

Dairy Farm Tours

Two pre-convention tours to showcase the Iowa dairy industry are planned for Wednesday, June 27. Participants will have the opportunity to tour several local dairies, such as Regancrest Farms' modern 600-cow facility in Waukon, home to the famous "Dellia" cow family. Another tour visit is to the 800-cow Stardell Farms, Inc., owned and operated by Hadwen Kleiss, Fredricksburg. An early riser option, beginning at 6:30 a.m., and a normal riser option, beginning at 8 a.m., are available.

Host Day Activities

Dubbed "Host Day," Thursday offers visitors a chance to experience a variety of local Iowa attractions. A tour at Deere & Company's tractor works in Waterloo will include a picnic lunch and an opportunity to see the latest models of John Deere equipment. Other tour options include visits to the National Farm Toy Museum and the "Field of Dreams" movie site, both in Dyersville. A four-person, best shot golf tournament will also be held that day at Jones Golf Course, a new course in Cedar Rapids.

National Convention Sale

The annual National Convention sale will be conducted at the Hawkeye Downs Fairgrounds on Thursday evening. Activities begin with a pre-sale barbecue at 5 p.m. Bidding will begin at 6:30 p.m. John Hager, Waukon, and Burton-Fellers Sales, Berryton and Overland Park, Kan., will manage the sale, featuring quality cattle from across the country. One lot likely to gain attention is a Winchester daughter of Regancrest Debbie-Jo-ET (VG-88, EX-MS) with 2-year-old credits of 35,210 pounds of milk, 4.2 percent fat, and 3.4 percent protein. She is bred to Ricecrest Marshall-ET and is due to freshen on sale day. Another key offering is the opportunity to buy shares in a package of two Iowa-bred bulls leased to Select Sires Inc.

Sales managers estimate the sale of 100 lots will bring in a total of $1,000,000. Cattle can be viewed at the fairgrounds throughout the convention up to sale time. A raffle drawing sponsored by ABS Global will also add to the excitement of the national sale. One lucky winner of a heifer from the Dellia family will be drawn at the sale. Iowa Junior Holstein members will be selling raffle tickets.

Holstein Association USA Annual Meeting

Friday, June 29, marks the kickoff of the Holstein Association USA annual meeting. Delegates from throughout the U.S. will convene to discuss Holstein-related issues and elect officers. The meeting, which continues on Saturday, June 30, will also feature open forums for members at-large to bring issues to the floor.

The convention will also feature education sessions conducted by the following people:

- Jolene Brown, farm partner, mother, community leader and recipient of the National Speakers Association "Certified Professional Speaker."
- Brian Lowry, director of industry affairs and freedom to operate with Monsanto's Animal Agriculture Sector
- Dr. Thomas Bailey, technical service specialist with Monsanto Dairy Business.
- Dr. Lonnie King, dean of the College of Veterinary Medicine, Michigan State University.
- Dr. James R. Rhoads, II, from Grand Laboratories, Inc.
- Dr. Mark Kujawa, a dairy scientist at Diamond V Mills.
- Francis Childs, a champion corn farmer from Manchester, Iowa.

A trade show, ladies' day, banquet, entertainment, and junior activities will also be included in the event.

People interested in the convention should contact Leon Sigwarth at (319) 552-2843 or Karen Bernick at (319) 284-6804, e-mail kbernick@aol.com.

Environmental Meetings Set

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Penn State University extension, in cooperation with PennAg Industries, is conducting three environmental meetings for livestock and poultry producers.

These meetings kick off the Pennsylvania Environmental Agriculture Conservation Certificate of Excellence (PEACCE) program that is being pilot tested in three local areas before moving on to become an official statewide program.

All producers in the Chester, Berks, and Lancaster county areas are encouraged to participate.

The PEACCE program promotes environmentally safe agricultural practices among livestock and poultry producers and recognizes those producers who meet or exceed program standards.

In order to receive PEACCE certification, producers are required to complete three program components: an environmental literacy/awareness course, on-farm assessment, and on-farm certification.

Certification will require compliance with all pertinent state and federal conservation and environmental laws using a comprehensive checklist to reflect these requirements.

The following meetings will administer the first components of the program. Registration for a confidential on-farm environmental assessment will be available.

- June 11 at the Chester County Government Building in West Chester.
- June 13 at the Berks County Ag Center in Leesport.
- June 18 at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

All meetings will commence at 10 a.m. A complimentary lunch will be served at 12:15 p.m.

Register with Robert Meinen, Penn State University, (814) 865-2987 or with Amy van Blarcom, PennAg Industries, (717) 651-5920.

The PEACCE program is sponsored by Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, PennAg Industries Association, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Pennsylvania State University, and the State Conservation Commission.

Weaver Receives 2001 Rumler Scholarship

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Terry J. Weaver of Wilmington, N.C., is the 2001 winner of the Robert H. Rumler Scholarship, sponsored by Holstein Association USA.

Weaver, who received his bachelor's degree in dairy science from Virginia Tech in 1986, is pursuing an MSA from the University of North Carolina at Wilmington.

Weaver has worked for Brown's of Carolina, a wholly owned subsidiary of Smithfield Foods, since 1997. Weaver is manager of their 220-head boar stud and is responsible for meeting daily production quotas, quality control, staff and budget supervision, facility maintenance and repair, and customer service. Under Weaver's guidance this unit stabilized financially and was recognized for producing a quality product. Weaver has also managed the Brown's of Carolina 1,200 sow farrow-to-feeder unit, which increased from 65 percent budgeted production to 100 percent under his direction.

In addition to his work with the hog operations, Weaver worked with Smithfield Foods on the acquisition of dairy farms in Poland. He served as an adviser and consultant on all aspects of the project.

The Robert H. Rumler Scholarship, established in honor of Robert Rumler in recognition of his 36 years of service to the Holstein Association, is awarded each year to an individual pursuing their MBA/MSA and exhibiting the traits of leadership, management intuitiveness, and personal qualities through hands-on experience.

Farmers Can File For Tax Refunds

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Treasurer Barbara Hafer said this week that Pennsylvania farmers may file claims for liquid fuels tax refunds between July 1 and Sept. 30.

Hafer, who chairs the Board of Finance and Revenue, said claim forms must be returned postmarked not later than Sept. 30 to the Board of Finance and Revenue, Motor Fuels Section, 1101 S. Front St., Suite 410, Harrisburg, PA 17104-2540.

"Any person who uses liquid fuels in the actual production of agricultural products is eligible for refunds," Hafer said.The refund rates for gasoline purchased on or after Jan. 1, 2001 are 26 cents per gallon (from 25.9 cents if purchased in 2000) and 30.9 cents per gallon for kerosene and diesel fuel purchased on or after Jan. 1, 2001 (from 30.8 cents if purchased in 2000).

Each claim must include copies of paid receipts or a statement from the fuel dealer that shows the number of gallons purchased, purchase dates and verification that the state taxes (liquid fuels and fuel use) were paid.

"Since changes in the rates took effect in the middle of the claim period, claims filed this year will be for a split tax period. Claimants need to make sure receipts are separated by date to reflect the different tax rates. They should check any statements from fuel dealers to make certain the tax charged is properly reflected," Hafer said.

Claim forms are available from the Board of Finance and Revenue at the above address. Questions may be answered by calling (717) 787-6534 or e-mail at levergot@tre.state.pa.us.

Holstein Association Announces 2000 Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder Winners

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — Holstein Association USA's 2000 Distinguished Young Holstein Breeders, Scott Pralle and Pam Selz-Pralle, have successfully developed an outstanding Registered Holstein herd while managing a progressive dairy.

The 420-head herd has a rolling herd average of 27,244 pounds of milk, 1010 pounds of fat, and 844 pounds of protein with a BAA of 105 percent.

Scott and Pam explain that "we believe we have to be good dairy producers before we can hope to be successful Holstein breeders." This motto guides their work of producing high quality milk from cows with "above-average genetic indexes with high actual performance and outstanding type from udders that last and wear."

Their goal is to develop a herd that is in the top 10 percent of the nation genetically while maximizing the profitability of the dairy operation. This has forced them to make some tough decisions on identifying the profitable cows in the herd.

"Excellent scored cows that are open after a year no longer have a home here. For young people paying for a farm, profitability became a higher priority than BAA or classification statistics."

The breeding program at Selz-Pralle Dairy is based on the selection of top bulls for use on the strongest cow families in the barn. "We've concentrated on breeding above-average genetic indexes with high actual performance and outstanding type from udders that work and wear," they explained. "We prefer a slightly shorter cow with dairy strength, width, well-attached udders and excellent mobility. Our functional cow would score 83-87 points and have a high VG udder," they noted.

To date they have bred or developed 11 GMD and 16 DOM winners, 22 Leader List cows, and 52 Locator list cows. Scott and Pam have also bred or developed 87 Excellent cows — 32 2E, 8 3E and 1 4E — and have won the PBR and PGA awards a number of times.

Pam and Scott rank their customers as follows: dairy plant, bull buyer, female buyer, and embryos. This allows them to set priorities for their operation and their breeding program. A close look at the costs and risks associated with genetic marketing has led Pam and Scott to focus on live animal sales. They are also looking at the emerging "biosecurity market."

They have carefully managed and documented the health status of the herd and use it as a marketing point with other dairy producers. This "value-added" approach has already had a positive affect on their bulls sales. Selz-Pralle Dairy markets more than 100 bulls a year and is able to obtain a premium by selling sons of BVD and Johnes negative cows.

The Distinguished Young Holstein Breeder program is administered by the Holstein Association.

My Holstein ID — All The Tools For Genetic Progress

Software Suite Helps Manage Genetic Information

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. — The My Holstein ID Software Suite, from Holstein Association USA, offers all the tools necessary to develop, implement, evaluate, and maintain a successful genetic management program from animal identification to herd analysis and individual cow matings.

A sound, accurate identification system that can be easily maintained provides the necessary base for a genetic management program. My Holstein ID includes the EASY 2000 animal identification software to provide dairy producers with an efficient, flexible alternative to paper applications.

EASY 2000 can be combined with Tag ID to allow for complete electronic submission of identification files.

Like any enterprise on the dairy farm, the genetic management program must be continually evaluated and adjusted to stay progressive and on track.

The Dairy Vision-Trend Analysis Program (DV TAP) and the Dairy Vision-Current Herd Analysis Program (DV CHAP), both part of My Holstein ID, allow in-depth analysis of the breeding program, the progress that has been made and the status of the current herd. Using this information, managers can develop goals for the breeding program and a strategy for reaching those goals.

To meet the goals set, sire selection and matings must be managed carefully. My Holstein ID offers Red Book Plus and MultiMate to allow dairy producers to evaluate, select and sort sires, and conduct individual matings based on their criteria while managing inbreeding. To be effective, the breeding program must be based on the most up to date information, so Red Book Plus and MultiMate are updated with each genetic evaluation.

A successful genetic management program requires attention to details and careful planning. My Holstein ID offers all the tools necessary to manage the details and find success. For your free demo CD, call the Holstein Association Customer Service Department at (800) 952-5200.

National Pork Board Seeks CEO

DES MOINES, Iowa — The National Pork Board has officially begun its search for a chief executive officer (CEO).

The National Pork Board CEO will implement the budget as approved by the National Pork Board and USDA, communicate with producers, and oversee staff.

"Our plan is to have the new CEO on-board by early fall," said Dorminy, of Russellville, Ark. "We are committed to finding the right CEO to lead the organization so it delivers what producers want."

Persons interested in applying for the National Pork Board CEO position can find a complete job description and details on pork's website at www.porkboard.org or contact our retained executive search consultant, Evelyn Davis with EFL Associates at 913-451-8866.

BARENBRUG

BG-34 Perennial RYE GRASS

A winterhardy blend of the best late maturing diploid varieties of perennial ryegrass from Europe The combination of winter hardiness and late maturity has made this blend very popular Used pure or in a mix with White clover, it provides extremely high quality forage People who graze BG-34 report increases of milk production up to 10 pounds of milk per cow per day

- BARALFA 54 Proven track record
- BARALFA 42 IQ and BARALFA 32 IQ Extremely high feed quality

NEW BARAULA ORCHARDGRASS

Late maturing and winterhardy! Developed in The Netherlands and is listed in many European countries (including Germany and Switzerland). It is one of the latest maturing varieties available today. Not only is Baraula very winterhardy, it is also highly digestible even after the first cutting. It has proven to withstand severe winters and is also capable of enduring dry and hot summers.

CLOVERS

Alice White is a new variety in the US and is a truly improved variety It has large leaves and grows to medium height Alice has shown tremendous nitrogen fixing benefits for the grass that grows with it. Alice is persistent and winterhardy making it the perfect companion for pastures

Barbian White is a small leaved and very persistent White clover. This makes it a perfect variety for sheep, goat and horses. It also is the clover of choice if high traffic is anticipated.

A Better Milkshake Brings Chocolate Calcium To Schools

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

WYNDMOOR (Philadelphia Co.) — The words, "eat your ice cream" may soon become commonplace in many schools.

In partnership with Devine Foods, Inc., a small business in Media, Delaware County, the Dairy Products Research Unit (DPRU) of the Agriculture Research Service (ARS) is making strides toward getting calcium into students' diets in a tasty way — soft ice cream.

The project was facilitated by a Cooperative Research and Development Agreement (CRADA), which links businesses with ARS in a common purpose. The ARS is the principal research agency of the USDA.

"We're trying to make a product that is more acceptable to kids in the taste, color, and texture so that they'll eat it — despite the fact that it's good for them," said Richard Konstance, chemical engineer working in the DPRU.

The most important goal of the program, said Konstance, is to increase calcium consumption. America's population, as a whole, is not consuming calcium at recommended levels. This fact makes the risk of poor bone development and osteoporosis a major health issue in this country.

Unfortunately soft drinks — available in school cafeterias, street corners, and grocery stores — have become America's drink of choice.

"For many families, breakfast seems to be a meal of the past, so the milk consumption as a breakfast drink and with cereals has declined. Cheese on pizza may be someone's only calcium intake," he said.

The project builds on research on a reduced-sugar shake conducted years earlier by the ARS.

"The goal at that time, and now, is introducing a milkshake, soft serve, and perhaps hard ice cream options into the school lunch program," he said.

The research was aimed at creating a product that has the nutritional value per serving of an 8-ounce glass of chocolate milk.

Nonfat dry milk, 12 percent of the product, is the main ingredient.

Replacing Fats With Grains, Vegetables

Devine Foods, Inc. has partnered up with ARS to add the "low fat" part of the equation.

Owner Denise Devine has patented technology which creates a naturally fat-free product as ingredients replicate the "mouth feel" of fat with whole food, not synthetic ingredients, according to Devine.

Devine's technology replaces fats with grains in beverages, the secret to the changed nutritional value in the drinks.

Since Devine had the technology but needed additional re-

Penn State Dairy Science Club Winners Recognized At Banquet

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club conducts activities which help students gain community recognition and develop their potential to reach the goals they have given themselves.

Club members pictured here received awards for outstanding achievements at the club's annual banquet, conducted in April.

Olivia Courtney was presented with a plaque for her work as the 2000 Nittany Lion Fall Classic chair.

Nicole Over, Penn State Dairy Science Club president, congratulates former president Diane Glock.

Ken Raney of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association (PHA) presents the PHA Quiz Bowl Award to Angie Moschini, 2001 Contest Chair. Moschini also received the 2001 Davey Award for Outstanding Dairy Science senior.

search completed for the project, the two were natural partners.

The combination of grains, vegetables, and dairy in a naturally fat-free product, gives a "completely different nutritional profile than traditional milkshakes," she said.

"The business started because of my personal passion for children's nutrition," said Devine.

"I wanted to create products to address the nutritional needs of children by creating a good-tasting, convenient product marketed with pizazz.

"One of my missions was to create a product to let people follow the guidelines of the USDA food pyramid more easily."

As Natural As Possible

A challenge, said Konstance, is making the product tempting to students accustomed to heavily-sweetened drinks. At a career day hosted by the ARS one year ago, 500-600 students, ages 9-17, taste-tested the product.

Richard Konstance and Denise Devine, in this picture supplied by the Agriculture Research Service, are working together to produce the milkshake and soft serve ice cream.

"Generally speaking, they neither liked nor disliked the product," he said. "Some of them said they didn't think it was sweet enough."

Seniors at an assisted living center. on the other hand, have given the product high marks. "Great texture and great flavor were basically the comments we got," he said.

Konstance is looking at adding a low level of sweetener.

"We want to keep the product as natural as possible because of the negative perception of additives," he said.

The product checks in at six percent added sugar. In contrast most milkshakes, according to Konstance, contain 12-15 percent sugar.

"In my opinion, it is as good as any soft-serve out there. It behaves the same. The melt tests are as good or better as other soft-serve products," he said.

"The grain-replacing technology offers us the texture we're looking for," said Konstance. "It has absolutely magnificent texture. It feels just like a soft serve."

The ice cream was tested by placing a scoop on a plate with concentric circles and observing the flow of the melting ice cream.

"A lot of tests were run on he product to measure the quality," he said.

Production

The universal pilot plant pasteurizes and homogenizes the milk. The milkshake mixture can be prepared and heated in one tank before it is processed and then collected and chilled in the other.

Lactose-intolerance is an issue with milk products, so the lactase enzyme, which reduces the amount of lactose in the product, is added to reduce or eliminate the problem and make the product a little sweeter.

The additional sweetness is a must-have element to "sell" schoolchildren on the product.

The product also contains inulin, a natural product derived from a chicory root. Addition of inulin contributes to the fiber content of approximately 2½ grams per serving. The good fiber content may provide a market for senior citizens, said Konstance.

Marketing

The ARS' job, he explained, is to develop the process and prototype product, then hand it over for industry for final product development.

Additionally flavoring companies will need to lend their expertise to the product, said Konstance.

The next step in getting the product into the schools and

Free Trade Agreement Costly For U.S. Beef Market, Says NCBA

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) does not support an expanded Free Trade Agreement of the Americas (FTAA) NCBA President-elect and Cedar Rapids, Iowa, cattle rancher Wythe Willey, said today at a House Agriculture Committee hearing.

"We have felt all along that problems with NAFTA should be resolved and markets should be allowed to come into equilibrium before additional countries were added to the mix," Willey said.

"We believe that agricultural issues should be addressed in the context of comprehensive multilateral trade negotiations and we do not support including agriculture as a part of a regional FTAA agreement."

The U.S. became the largest beef exporter during 2000, Willey explained. However, the U.S. could export significantly more if other countries abide by the same rules as the U.S. beef markets.

Currently, in other developed countries, as in the EU, the market is virtually closed to U.S. beef. Other markets, such as Japan and Korea, protect themselves by relatively high tariffs.

"Access to the U.S. beef market is already relatively unrestricted and there is a perception throughout the U.S. industry that we have granted more access than we have gained during past negotiations," Willey said.

"NCBA will not support increased access to the US beef market until meaningful access and tariff reduction is achieved in other major beef importing countries."

Willey further explained that because many FTAA countries are major beef exporters and many major beef importers are in Asia and Europe, increasing the market for U.S. beef can only be achieved through comprehensive multi-lateral WTO negotiations -not regional FTAA negotiations.

Willey also commented on environmental regulations and dumping definition, along with science-based regulations to protect US herd health and how they relate to FTAA.

Lancaster Holstein Show July 11

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — The Lancaster County annual Black and White Show is scheduled Wednesday, July 11, here at the Solanco Fairgrounds at 10:30 a.m.

Entry fee is $5 by the deadline of June 11. Late entry fee is $10.

marketplace is modifying the process to enhance the flavor Before it moves to schools nutritionists will also study the product to measure the nutrition levels.

Devine, whose company will handle product marketing once the formula is satisfactorily completed, wants to bring it not only to schoolchildren but also to senior adults looking for a good-tasting source of fiber and nutrition.

One concern is how to dispense the product. A dispenser means capital investment and a machine operator, so the possibility of producing hard ice cream, served in a small cup, may be the preferred method of disbursing it.

Whatever the form of the product, nutrition levels will equal an 8-ounce serving of chocolate milk.

"The legwork is going to involve going to individual districts one by one." She hopes to distribute the project into schools nationally.

"The product is very needed. To the extent that we can get kids consuming calcium and staying away from sodas and empty-calorie drinks we will be so much better off."

Although there is still development work left to complete, Devine hopes that the product will be in the school lunch program in some way within the next year.

June Dairy Month Kicks Off With Giant Sundae At Capitol Building

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Pennsylvania's dairy promotion organizations will kick off June Dairy Month with the creation of a colossal ice cream sundae here on the steps of the Capitol Building June 5.

Dairy organizations are inviting consumers and dairy farmers alike to visit the capitol steps on June 5 from noon until 1 p.m. to partake in several dairy activities.

To kick off the celebration, Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes and Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess Melinda Wolfe, among others, will compete in a celebrity "milk mustache" contest.

The giant sundae will contain 126 gallons of vanilla ice cream, five gallons of chocolate syrup, five gallons of caramel syrup, and five gallons of chopped nuts. It will be topped off with whipped cream and a giant 12-inch ball of cherries.

Celebrate the fun and flavors of Hershey.

Milk Cooperative Makes Fresh Start With Old-Time Bottles

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — To meet marketing challenges of the new millennium, the Pure Country store and milk-bottling plant in Williamsport has taken a step back into the middle of the 20th century.

In early April, in about 11,000 square feet of available store space in a shopping mall and with 40-plus-year-old milk processing equipment, the facility began bottling and selling local milk in glass jugs.

Work toward this goal began in 1997 when two Williamsport area dairy farmers met and decided that they had to do something to take more control of their livelihood. One of them was Dave Duncan, founding president of what was to become Best Milk Producers Cooperative, the group of farmers that supplies Pure Country.

"We decided if we didn't do something for ourselves, nobody was going to help us," Duncan said.

He called a meeting of mostly Amish farmers, all living within 10 miles of each other in the Williamsport area, to talk about starting a milk producer's cooperative.

As an "English" farmer, Duncan said he was nervous about trying to convince Amish farmers of his idea. But he found them to be a receptive group. Today, Best Milk Producers Cooperative consists of 25 farms, the majority Amish.

Farmers in the "closed" cooperative are required to invest 10 cents per hundredweight of their milk until they have paid a total of 50 cents per hundredweight for all of the milk they produce in one year. For a typical herd of 40 cows, that equals a total investment of about $3,500, Duncan said.

Farmers are also able to contribute labor toward their investment in the cooperative, Duncan said. Some of them are already paid up from their work on the bottling facility and store.

In return, Duncan said farmers in the cooperative have greater control over the processing and marketing of their milk and receive some of the highest premiums of any producers in Pennsylvania.

Although the current 95-cent over-order premium received by farmers in the cooperative is less than Pennsylvania's total mandated over-order premiums of $1.65, Duncan said that smaller shares taken by the cooperative/processor amounts to greater net payments to the farmer.

Best Milk Producer Cooperative works under a marketing agreement with Allied Milk Producers. Allied provides trucking for a portion of the milk to the Pure Country facility and delivers the rest to other processors. Duncan said he expects about 10 percent of the milk produced by the 25 farms in the cooperative will be processed at the store.

Finding a bank to fund the facility was the biggest part of starting the bottling operation and store, he said. When that was accomplished, along with receiving market research help from the neighboring Union County Chamber of Commerce and a USDA Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE) grant, the project moved ahead.

Most of the farms in the cooperative have a pasture-based feeding program, though that is not required. However, milk from cows that have been treated with the hormone bovine somatotropin (BST) is prohibited.

Duncan said a survey he conducted on about 300 local consumers showed that hormone-free milk was a higher priority than freshness.

At the same time, plant engineer Chip Ruhl said that Pure Country milk is bottled fresh. Milk delivered to the plant in the morning is jugged and in the cooler by the same day.

"Much of the milk going into the bottle was in the cow that morning," he said.

As engineer and chief mechanic for the processing and bottling equipment, Ruhl said he's excited about making the operation flow, even though it's a big challenge.

"We're still fine-tuning the machinery," he said. "Every day is a learning experience."

Ruhl said he has been working double shifts, tweaking the separator, pasteurizer, homogenizer, and bottling machine to maximum efficiency.

Growing customer response to the milk helps keep morale levels high.

At this point, about 200 gallons per day of Pure Country skim, 2%, whole, chocolate, and unhomogenized milk are sold from the store and from other small grocery outlets in Williamsport and Lewisburg. Customers pay a 50-cent deposit for each returnable, half-gallon glass bottle.

The bottles are supplied by the Canadian company Stanpak, one of the last wholesalers of old-style glass milk bottles in North America. Stanpak also provides the Pure Country cap labels. Sell-by dates are hand-stamped on the label after the milk is bottled.

According to Duncan, demand is increasing by the day.

"We cannot keep milk on the shelves," he said.

Duncan said that the unhomogenized whole milk is a hit, especially among senior citizens who remember a time when cream floated to the top. The unhomogenized product also serves two other purposes.

"They want skim milk," he said. "But they want cream for their coffee, too."

At a 3.8 percent average butterfat content, Duncan said that the Pure Country chocolate milk is especially potent.

"It's powerful stuff," he said.

Although a long-term goal of the facility is to offer its own butter, cheese, and ice cream, the focus for now is on liquid milk.

"Each (new product) takes time, money, and a learning curve," Ruhl said.

Other goals include offering certified organic, local milk in the store and developing a Pure Country logo for the bottles, now plain glass.

The store features a delicatessen, local eggs and produce, in addition to its milk line.

With 16 employees working in the store and bottling operation, Duncan said more are being hired to meet the demands of a growing market.

Expansion Key To Future For Thomson Farm Family

CAROLYN N. MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

WYALUSING (Bradford Co.) — Climbing the mountain to Tor Tamarack Farm, you immediately know how it got its name. "Tor" means "high hill" in German and "Tamarack" is named after the 60-acre lake that has become the focal point of the farm.

Bob and Olive Thomson moved to Bradford County in 1956 and have been making steady improvements to the land and to their dairy ever since.

Turning what was Tamarack Swamp into the beautiful and useful lake is one of their crowning achievements. The area was full of poison sumac and other nuisance plants. But gradually, with the guidance of federal and state agencies, they cleaned up the area.

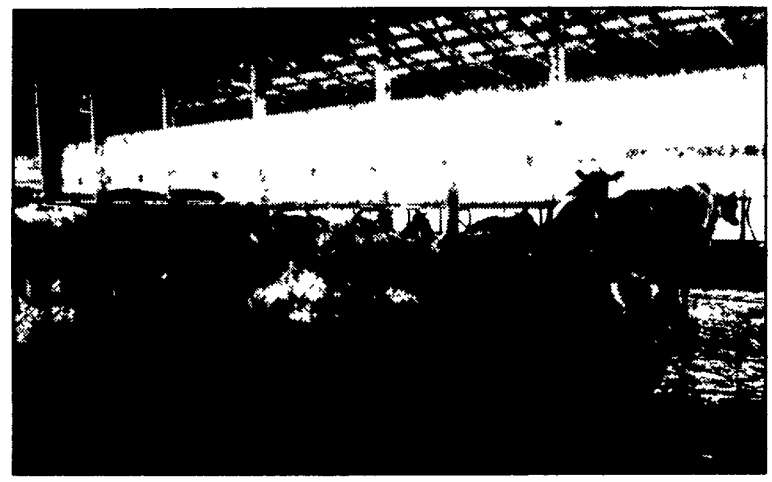
"It took 15 years of blood, sweat, and tears," said Bob, "but it was well worth the effort."

The barn and house underwent a similar evolution as the couple gradually fixed up the house, barn, and cropland.

Over the years, they have purchased surrounding farms. Today Tor Tamarack covers 700 acres, including 215 acres of woods and the lake. They rent an additional 200 acres of cropland.

Each year they put out no more than 200 acres of corn for silage and try to seed at least 60

(Turn to Page A35)



Eight waterers are located in the freestall barn and are designed to be easily tipped and cleaned. Stalls are lined with mattresses and rubber mats are cemented to the floor next to the feedbunk. The Thomsons opted to forgo headgates to keep the barns quieter and to boost feed intake.

acres of alfalfa and reeds canarygrass with an oats/cow pea nurse crop. Additional silage is purchased from a neighbor, and the majority of their hay is chopped for haylage — except for the steeper sloped fields, which they cut for dry hay.

"We probably made about 500 round bales last year," said Bob. "We grow reeds canarygrass because it handles wet soils well and it gets better regrowth than any other grass."

All silage and haylage is placed in bunkers, which the Thomsons strongly believe is the fastest and most convenient way to store feed.

"We live on top of shale. When the bunkers were dug out, we sold the shale to the township to cover the cost of digging out the area. All we had to buy was the concrete for the bottom," said Olive.

The bunkers are filled and packed by a custom operator. Other feeds are purchased in bulk and stored in commodity sheds.

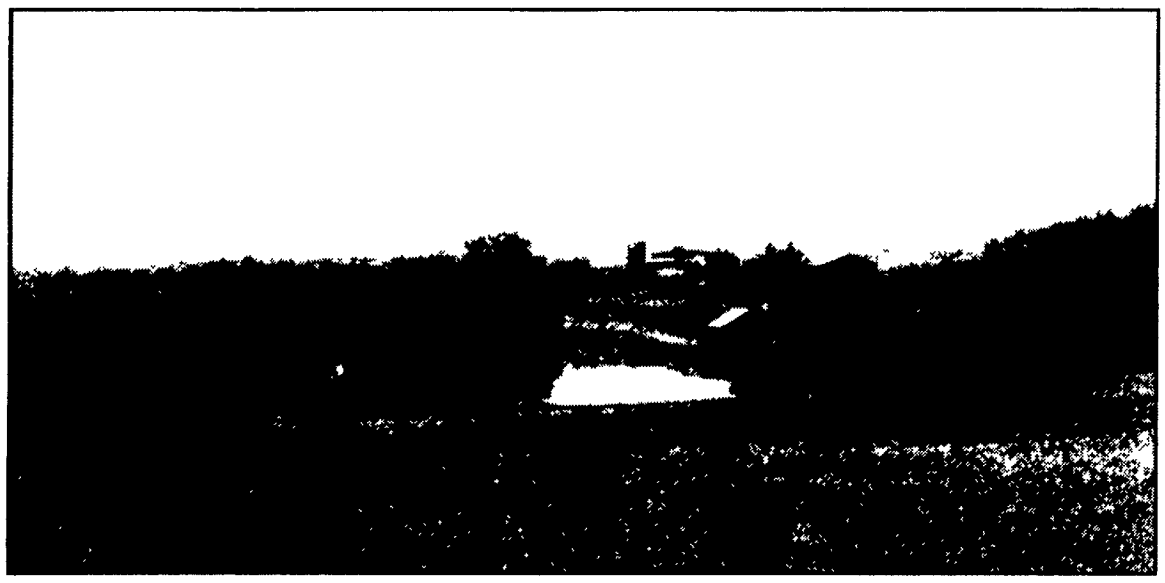
All the crops are used to feed their growing herd of Holsteins.

'We moved here with all Jerseys," said Bob. "I grew up with Jerseys all my life. After I got out of the service, I managed a farm in Ohio. We actually bought his herd and moved it here. The butterfat wasn't worth anything back then, and gradually we started bringing Holsteins in."

Bob also had the distinction of working with "Elsie" and the rest of the Borden's cows early in his career.

"My job was working with Ira Payne. It was my job to take out his show herd in the summer. We had lots of 'Elsies.' I had to keep the horns polished and the lockets on their heads shined. I would take them up to the planes. I didn't fly with them, I just got them up to the hotels or the airports or wherever they were going."

When the Thomsons got to Bradford County, the barn on the farm was a small stanchion barn. Next they built a walk-through milking parlor, taking the cows out of the stanchions and through the milking parlor and back to the stanchions. They then changed to loose housing and built a new parlor in the late '50s.



A 60-acre lake and well-kept buildings make the view of Tor Tamarack Farm breathtaking. Here you can see the new freestall barn at the top of the hill, as well as the original barn and homestead.

"My brother-in-law and I and one carpenter built the next barn. That was the original loafing barn and that's the part of the barn that the dry cows are in now," said Bob.

At first the barn was all bedded pack, but as time went on, they put in alleyways and freestalls. "We just kept adding on," he said.

Now Bob and Olive's son, Keith, is a partner in the business, and he helped decide to expand the dairy further by building a new freestall barn. Keith and Bob looked at many other operations before deciding how to build. Keith wrote up most of the plans, working with Vista Builders of New York for construction and First Union Bank for financing. Many of the inputs were purchased through Dairy Direct, which is offered through the cooperative.

"What we did this last summer was the first time we did anything sensibly," said Bob. "We went out and borrowed enough money to do it right instead of just adding on and adding on with poor ventilation and overcrowding. Everything before was just adding on to what we had."

The new six-row barn measures 112 feet by 244 feet, with space for four groups. Rubber mats on the floor by the feedbunk help ensure cow comfort, as do mattresses in the stalls. Waterers in each pen can be easily tipped, drained, and cleaned. The entire roof is lined with netting to keep birds from nesting in the rafters.

"We finished this barn last September. There's about 300

Penn State Cooperative Extension Capitol Region Dairy Team

Editor's Note: The Penn State Cooperative Extension Capitol Region Dairy Team has introduced its new column, "Focus on Dairy." As the title suggests, this column will focus on issues and topics that concern dairy producers.

The first article looks at the effect of heat stress on dairy cows. This will be followed by a few columns that discuss strategies for reducing heat stress and continue with other timely topics throughout the year.

The purpose of this column is to provide information to help dairy producers:

- Improve the productivity and profitability of their dairy businesses.
- Attain a desirable lifestyle for themselves and for their employees.
- Produce a quality product and market it at a favorable price.
- Be good neighbors, be an asset to their community and profession, be compliant with regulations, and be good stewards of our natural resources.
- Become more informed about issues and trends that can impact their lives and businesses.
- Develop an optimistic attitude toward the future of the their individual dairy businesses and foster a positive outlook for the Northeast dairy industry.

This column is the effort of the Penn State Cooperative Extension Capitol Region Dairy Team and other supportive organizations. The Dairy Team is very optimistic about the future of the dairy industry in Pennsylvania and in the Northeast. Each team member is dedicated to helping it thrive.

To help keep in tune with the needs of the industry, the team welcomes your ideas. Suggestions and comments regarding this column can be sent to Glenn A. Shirk, Extension Dairy Agent, Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Service, 1383 Arcadia Rd., Lancaster, PA 17601, or e-mail at gshirk@psu.edu. He edits this column.

In addition, the Capitol Region Dairy Team has a monthly newsletter edited by Vinton Smith, Adams County Extension Dairy Management Agent, 670 Old Harrisburg Road, Gettysburg, PA 17350. For an electronic subscription to this letter, e-mail him at vsmith@psu.edu.

Philip E. Wagner

The team also conducts a variety of other events, meetings, and workshops, all of which are publicized in the monthly newsletter.

HEAT STRESS ON DAIRY COWS
Philip E. Wagner
Penn State Extension Agent, Dairy
Franklin County

After several days of hot weather in May, the subject of heat stress on lactating dairy cows comes to the forefront.

Heat stress affects two of the most economically important segments of the dairy farm business: milk production and reproduction. Milk yield can be reduced by 3 percent to 20 percent or more. Conception can go as low as 0 percent in extreme cases. Feed intake can be reduced by 8 percent to 12 percent or more. This all translates into many lost dollars to the dairy business.

In simple terms, heat stress occurs when the cow's heat load is greater than her capacity to lose heat. Heat load is made up of her own body heat production and environmental heat, which includes air temperature, relative humidity, air movement, and solar radiation.

Cows react to heat stress in various ways. They will generally seek out shade, reduce feed intake, increase water intake, and stand rather than lie down.

Respiration rate increases, rectal temperatures increase, and sweating increases. These methods allow the cow to reduce her own heat production and to transfer heat more easily to the environment.

Along with reduced feed intake, heat-stressed cows have a lower rate of feed passage and gut motility. Rumen fermentation characteristics change. Total volatile fatty acid (VFA) production is decreased.

VFAs are the end product of carbohydrate microbial fermentation. Under normal circumstances, VFAs can provide up to 80 percent of the cow's energy needs.

When VFA production in reduced, milk yield will suffer. Heat stress increases maintenance requirements, which leads to decreased feed efficiency.

Panting can increase a cow's maintenance requirements by 20 percent. Heat stress has little effect on milk protein percentage. However, butterfat percentage is usually reduced because of a decrease in fiber intake.

As mentioned earlier, heat stress has a negative effect on reproduction. Heat stress may damage the ovum, sperm, or embryo. There may also be an indirect effect on the uterine environment caused by changing levels of hormones.

Heat detection is more difficult in heat-stressed cattle because they become much less active. The estrus period in heat stressed cows is 5-6 hours shorter than in cows under cool conditions. Early embryonic mortality is a major problem associated with heat stress. It appears that the majority of this embryonic mortality occurs within the first 7-10 days after conception.

The optimum temperature for milk production is in the range of 25-65 degrees Fahrenheit (F). However, it is temperature and humidity that determine the stress level on the cow.

Researchers at the University of Arizona developed the Temperature Humidity Index (THI), which is a combination of temperature and humidity. THI above 72 is usually considered the point at which heat stress occurs. As an example, the THI at 90 degrees F and 60 percent relative humidity is 83. This falls in the category between mild and severe stress.

To obtain a THI chart for dairy cows, call (717) 263-9226, e-mail pew1@psu.edu, or contact your extension agent or dairy industry consultant.

As dairy cows are bred, fed, and managed for increasing levels of milk production, heat stress-reduction management practices become a very profit-enhancing investment. In 1980, the average DHIA cow in Franklin County produced 15,000 pounds of milk. By 2000 that production level had risen to 20,000 pounds. We are asking cows to produce 80-100 pounds of milk per day. Let's be sure to do our part to help relieve the stress because of heat.

This article has been directed toward the lactating cow. What about dry cows? These animals are less affected by heat stress because they do not have to deal with the large amounts of heat produced because of milk production. However, they should not be overlooked, especially those animals in the late dry period. This will be a topic for another article.

In the future, other members of the dairy team will address various methods for reducing heat stress.

Prevent a Foot and Mouth Catastrophe

Watch for Signs of Foot and Mouth Disease

Clinical signs of Foot and Mouth Disease (FMD):

Early Signs may include:
- Fever
- Off feed
- Reluctant to move
- Excessive squealing when forced to move

Followed by blisters:
- Just above the hoof and on the heels
- Between the cloven hoofs
- On the snout

If you suspect Foot and Mouth Disease FMD in your herd:

1. Do NOT under any circumstances move any animals off the farm
2. Immediately report suspected case to either the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture (PDA) or the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA).
   Contacts:
   PDA - Dr. Phil Debok at 717-783-8300
   USDA - Dr. Lynne Siegfried at 717-782-3442
3. A veterinarian especially trained to diagnose foreign animal diseases will come to your farm to make the diagnosis.
4. Government programs are in place to reimburse farmers for the value of their animals sacrificed in the control program.

cows in there right now, and (Keith's) probably going to buy about 30 more."

Ventilation was a key issue in building the barn.

"We built this type of barn because we love the 14-feet-high sides for ventilation," said Bob, who explained that curtains on all sides of the barn allow for constant air movement.

"We wanted a cold barn," said Bob.

At milking time, cows exit the barn and walk down a covered path to the parlor.

"We put in steps and have no more than a five percent slope in the walkway," noted Keith.

They expanded their milking parlor from a double-six to a double-nine to increase milking efficiency. In the future they hope to build a new parlor directly behind the new freestall barn.

"We have a little over 20,000 pound herd average," said Bob Thomson, who also serves as a director for Dairy Farmers of America.

Their last test revealed 20,159 pounds of milk, 732 pounds of fat, and 619 pounds of protein on twice-a-day milking.

"We just put in another tank in because they were picking us up two times a day. Now we have capacity for 7,000 gallons of milk," said Bob.

Even though careful thought was put into every aspect of the expansion, there are still unforseeable difficulties.

"No matter how well you plan, you still have glitches," said Bob, who admits that some things could be better managed. Right now he explains that they have a lot of calves that are weaned and too big for their calf barn, but they have no other place to put them.

"We have calves everywhere," said Bob, who noted that they are thinking of contracting some out to a local grower.

Because there are no headgates in the freestall area, Keith is also building a parturition rail, where the cows can walk in single file just as they do in the parlor, for breeding and herd health checks.

Before building, they read an article that said it would take about a year and a half to have everything operational and to realize the potential. Though they did not believe that then, they now see that it can take a long time for everything to fall in place.

"We've really been operating the way we should be for only five months," said Bob.

Olive, who does the majority of the bookwork, is excited about new technology that will help streamline efforts.

"We bought a Palm Pilot. When Keith goes around the barn, he'll be able to enter information such as breeding dates and calving dates, and then he'll be able to bring it in here and download the information right into the computer," said Olive.

Another strategy the Thomsons use is forward contracting a percentage of their milk. Olive points out that as long as you contract at a price that is above your expenses, you really can't lose. "It all evens out," she said. "It gives us stability."

"Whether you use it or not, everybody needs to be knowledgeable about it," said Bob, who promotes risk management strategies through his work in DFA.

Bob and Olive are proud of their accomplishments but are equally proud of their sons, including Keith, who continues the farming tradition, and Clay, Nelson, and Robert, who have off-farm jobs.

For estate planning purposes, they have a family partnership which includes Bob, Olive, and their four sons.

"This is just for the land. We have it set up that we'll gift them the maximum each year, but we'll still keep 51 percent."

"Essentially it's owned by the six of us," noted Olive. "Then they can figure out what they want to do with it when we're not here."

Said Bob, "There is an agreement that nobody can sell without the agreement of all four."

Keith rents the land from the partnership and has purchased additional cows. Some cows are still registered in Bob's name and the partnership, and of course, Keith's two sons and Bob and Olive's other grandchildren each have calves to show.

The brothers haven't forgotten the farm either. Last fall, while working to replace a wall panel in the barn during a windstorm, Keith was seriously injured. The situation was further compounded because Bob was scheduled to have a knee operation.

"When their brother (Keith) got hurt last fall, without even talking to us, they got together and said one or more of us will come up every weekend," said Bob. "They helped until he got back on his feet again."

Their wives Traci, Andrea, Mary and Jo-Ellen and children also came along to help when possible.

They also cannot say enough about their hired help — Ronnie Bishop and Lyle Yates — who do fieldwork and other farm work, and Dawn Stump, who is the calf feeder.

Now they also employ two Mexican workers through Dairy Farmers of America.

"That labor really helped a lot," said Olive, who added that having additional milkers gives Keith more free time to manage the farm as a whole.

The Thomsons are comfortable about their decision to expand the dairy and are confident that their larger size will give them money-saving advantages, such as being able to buy feed in bulk.

Bob also points out that there's no one right way to run a farm.

"Everything isn't for everybody," said Bob. "When it's all said and done, we're very ordinary dairy farmers."

Northeast Order Uniform Milk Price For April 2001 Announced

BOSTON, Mass. — The statistical uniform price paid by milk dealers (handlers) regulated under the Northeast Order for April 2001 is $15.24 per hundredweight ($1.31 per gallon) for milk delivered to plants located in Suffolk County, Mass. (Boston). The April statistical uniform price is $15.14 for delivery to plants in New York, N.Y., and $15.04 for delivery to plants in Philadelphia.

The statistical uniform price is the benchmark minimum producer blend price paid to dairy farmers, prior to allowable deductions, for milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat, 2.99 percent protein, and 5.69 percent other solids. The price received by an individual dairy farmer will vary as the component composition of a farm's milk differs from the established benchmarks and by the location of the plant(s) to which the farm's milk is delivered.

The Class prices for milk pooled in April are as follows: Class I, $16.69 (Suffolk County, Mass.); Class II, $15.10 Class III, $12.06; and Class IV, $14.41. Comparable prices for April 2000 were: Class I $14.18, Class II $12.10, Class III $9.41, and Class IV price $11.38. The component values for April are protein, $1.5443 per pound; butterfat, $1.9483 per pound; other solids, $0.1081 per pound; and nonfat solids, $0.8745 per pound.

ASA Testifies FTAA Agreement Could Benefit U.S. Soybean Farmers

SAINT LOUIS, Mo. — The American Soybean Association (ASA) recently said that the Free Trade Area of the Americas (FTAA) negotiations could have a positive impact on the competitiveness of U.S. soybean farmers and the overall soy industry in Latin American markets.

During testimony before the House Agriculture Committee, ASA President Tony Anderson cited the importance of addressing key issues related to market access, biotechnology regulations, export taxes and more during the FTAA negotiations.

"Access to international markets has always been important to U.S. soybean producers," Anderson said. "Under the FTAA, it will be essential." ASA says the United States' first goal under FTAA should be to eliminate all tariff and non-tariff barriers to full market access. U.S. access to important markets in Latin America is currently restricted by the preferential tariffs and terms granted under the customs unions of Mercosur and the Andean Trade Pact. A "spaghetti bowl" of crisscrossing preferential trade concessions has developed under various regional trading systems in Latin America. ASA called for WTO-consistent policies that will eliminate these bands of price import protections and other trade distorting practices.

The second action that ASA called for is to use the FTAA negotiations as a vehicle to remedy the inconsistent enforcement of intellectual property rights and non-harmonized regulations applied to biotechnology products. For example, U.S. soybean producers are paying a licensing fee of $6 per bag of biotechnology planting seed, while Argentine farmers are not. In addition, Argentine law does not recognize the patents on biotechnology products that are registered in the United States. These inequities have resulted in Argentina's soybean producers using biotech varieties at one-half the cost faced by U.S. producers.

ASA's third key point was to eliminate Differential Export Taxes (DETs) during FTAA negotiations. Countries that use DETs place higher taxes on bulk commodity exports in order to encourage domestic processing and export of high-value products. For example, Argentina taxes exports of oilseeds at 3.5 percent while providing tax rebates of between 1.4 and 3.2 percent for exports of soybean oil. Some Brazilian governors are reportedly considering reinstating similar practices.

Anderson concluded his testimony by stating that ASA supports including Chile under NAFTA. He also urged Congress to act quickly to provide the President with Trade Promotion Authority to allow these various negotiations to move forward.

Young Couple Begins Dairying In Lebanon County

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

SCHAEFFERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — Breaking news: young couple starts up a farm in Lebanon County.

To those in the nonfarming community, maybe that wouldn't mean much. But to those who know and appreciate the high cost of land and how hard it is to start farming in either Lebanon or Lancaster counties, a young dairy is really big news.

Steve Martin, son of Gene and Linda Martin, recently began to operate the farm purchased by his father. Gene and Linda, who operate Swamp Valley Beef and Blue Lake Builders in Denver, went out of their way to ensure a start on the farm for their children.

Gene said he wasn't raised on a farm, but "always had the desire" to farm, he said.

Gene's dad, Daniel, operated a mobile grinder/mixer for Wenger's Feed Mill of Ephrata. Gene enjoys the farming lifestyle, working with his children all day long, he said.

"That's the greatest benefit to me," said Gene.

Many family members work on the multifarm complex owned by Gene and Linda. Steve operates the dairy in Schaefferstown. Dan, the steer "veterinarian," said Gene, helps keep the steers alive and healthy. Matthew is involved in real estate sales. Joshua, 16, in Terre Hill Mennonite High School, helps with the farm, as do Benjamin, 13; Bethany, 10; and Charity, 8, who are home-schooled.

The Martins also have 90,000 pullets under contract with Wenger's. In addition, the Martins finish out more than 4,500 steers per year.

Steve and wife Jody were married in November 2000 and moved on the dairy farm in Schaefferstown. They are the fourth generation of Martins to live on the farm. Steve's mother's grandfather, Elmer Martin, purchased the 96-acre farm in 1945. The farm was ready for 26 cows.

Robert (Elmer's son) moved on the farm when he married Mary Martin in 1954. Robert bought 14 cows and six heifers from Elmer and rented the farm from him until 1962, when he purchased it.

In 1963, Robert built onto the barn and increased the head to 30 cows. Robert and Mary lived on the farm from 1954-1987.

In 1987, Robert Jr. (Robert's son and Elmer's grandson) married Cheryl Martin and moved onto the farm. Robert Jr. took over the operation and bought the cows in 1990. At this stage, the herd size totaled 80 cows.

Robert Jr.'s brother Curvin also owned cows within.

Gene and Linda (Robert's daughter) purchased the farm in April 1999. In May, Robert Jr. and Cheryl moved to New York, where they purchased a farm and are doing cash-cropping. Gene and Linda built onto the barn again. It now has room for 112 registered Holsteins. The milk is sold to Farmland Dairies in New Jersey.

The Martins use a TMR ration supplied from a nutritionist from Orwigsburg. Steve owns the cows and his father owns the farm and supplies the feed.

The Martins, who milk twice a day to a pipeline, test out of Pa.DHIA at 26,125 pounds, with 3.7 percent fat (936 pounds) and 3.1 percent protein (802 pounds).

A top producer, Winkie, a 6-year-old bred at the farm, last tested at 32,124 pounds. The last DHIA test averaged 89 pounds per day per cow.

Steve said he "likes the schedule, the same every day," and also raises heifers and bull calves for the family beef enterprise. When he was younger, he helped feed the animals on his family's farms, and was soon interested in milking cows.

The ideal herd size for Steve and Jody is about 112 cows milking. The herd average has been improved through the use of good feed supplied fresh and in abundance to the cows.

Cows are on mattresses in the stalls. Feed is kept in front of them all the day. Steve, with help from his grandfather and Curvin, strives to keep the cows healthy, beginning with calving to freshening.

Being with his family, working on the farm, is a great benefit to Gene and something he really enjoys. He believes in the importance of families working together to ensure farm viability.

Steve's grandfather, Robert and his Uncle Curvin taught Steve the ropes of being a good dairyman. They both work on the farm, so Steve and Jody can have some time off from milking. Curvin still has some cows of his own on the farm.

Editor's Note: A young farm family working on yet another Martin enterprise is scheduled to be featured in an upcoming special dairy edition of Lancaster Farming.

FARMLAND: THE CORNERSTONE TO OUR GROUND WATER SUPPLY

We are fortunate in our region to have an abundant water supply, which has allowed the growth of many of our farming operations.

Although farms utilize a large amount of water, open farmland serves to recharge our community's ground water supply. One acre of farmland collects more than 400,000 gallons of groundwater recharge during a year. This is comparable to the amount of water that seven households utilize in an average year.

An average dairy farm with 60 cows on 85 acres provides more than 30 million gallons of water a year of net contribution to ground water above the amount used by the farm. In light of the vital role, farmland serves in the recharge of groundwater. We must closely study any formation of public policy that may regulate water uses for the farming community.

The consumptive use of water is a growing concern in the Susquehanna River Basin. It is estimated that from 1970-1990 the consumptive use of water in the Susquehanna River Basin has increased 100 percent. According to the Susquehanna River Basin Commission (SRBC), the largest consumer of water is the public water supply, followed by power production, agriculture operations, and general industry.

From the list of the largest consumers, only agriculture can show the volume of recharge that it provides to the water supply.

In an effort to provide water resource education and gather the public's comments on water resource issues and planning for the future, the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) is conducting water forums across the state, entitled "Water - Is Our Future Draining Away?"

DEP will conduct a Water Forum in Lancaster County June 4 at 7 p.m. at the Quality Inn along the Oregon Pike. It is essential that the agriculture community attend this meeting to show a strong voice in support of agriculture in water planning.

The forum is open to the public and they will gather feedback on two key areas: 1) What one water resource need or issue do you believe needs greatest attention in your community? 2) What tools do we need to help ensure adequate water supplies in Pennsylvania?

For more information on the upcoming forum or to see the results of past county forums, visit www.dep.state.pa.us and type "water forum" under the direct link caption.

Agriculture's water usage is an unregulated system. This could possibly change in the future, as water consumption becomes a bigger issue as more people are competing for a limited supply. As we enter discussion on the possible regulation of this precious resource, it is important we support a policy that recognizes and protects the unique contributions and uses of water in agriculture.

It is also equally important that Pennsylvania has a current state water plan that recognizes all water users and contributors. A farm that utilizes a proper conservation plan and nutrient management plan is a true asset to the groundwater supply and quality. It is also essential we support agricultural water use registration within the farming industry.

In 1995, the Susquehanna River Basin Commission adopted a regulation that requires all existing and new surface and groundwater withdrawals of more than 10,000 gallons per day (based on an average over 30 consecutive days) to be registered with the SRBC. There is no cost to register your water usage, and by doing so you are documenting your daily needs, which may put you in a stronger legal position should conflicts occur. Although this program does not limit or create property rights, it will provide evidence of a registered farm's established water use for future planning or if conflicts were to develop with competing water users.

Agricultural water use operations include water use associated primarily with the raising of food or forage crops, trees, flowers, shrubs, turf, fish, poultry and livestock. Typical farm operations that would exceed the 10,000 gallons per day include dairy operations with more than 200 cows, finishing operations with more than 2,000 hogs, poultry layer operations with more than 125,000 chickens, and poultry broiler or pullet operations with more than 250,000 chickens.

To register an agricultural water use operation or, for more information, contact Todd Hitz at the Susquehanna River Basin Commission, 1721 N. Front Street, Harrisburg, PA 17102-2391, (717) 238-0425 or fax (717) 238-2436. You may also register online at www.srbc.net/forms.htm.

Family Farm Days
June 12-14

The annual Family Farm Days sponsored by The Lancaster Chamber and the Oregon Dairy Farm Market will be June 12-14 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. Last year more than 8,000 attendees enjoyed the many agriculture exhibits and activities celebrating the agriculture industry and June as National Dairy Month. For more information on either water issues or Family Farm Days contact Brent Landis at (717) 397-3531, ext. 134 or blandis@lcci.com.

West Virginia Announces Star Dairy Producers

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The West Virginia Holstein Association recently announced top-producing herds and individual cows.

Individual high lifetime production went to WVU Ona Star of West Virginia University. She produced 236,087 pounds of milk in 11 lactations, totaling 167 months.

High individual for 3.5 percent fat-corrected milk was Dolly-Varden Elton Jacklyn, owned by Eddie and Todd Hough.

Producers with top herds milked twice a day are as follows:

1. Todd and Eddie Hough
2. Noel Boggess
3. Gary Deeds

Producers with top herds milked three times a day:

1. Francis Daniel
2. Linger Farms Inc.
3. James Hubbs

Groff To Host Eighth Annual Farm Field Day

HOLTWOOD (Lancaster Co.) — Lancaster County may be synonymous with farm production, but did you know some of today's most innovative and groundbreaking conservation and soil management strategies are developed right here on local farms?

Each year, nationally-recognized agriculture expert Steve Groff hosts Farm Field Day, a free, all-day educational event devoted to sharing these techniques with the public.

The eighth annual Farm Field Day will be Wednesday, July 25 at Groff's Cedar Meadow Farm from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This year's theme is "Beyond Conservation - Exploring the Soil Food Web." A number of local and national agriculture experts will demonstrate the latest farming techniques, including the debut of groundbreaking aerial photography techniques using remote helicopters.

The event is co-sponsored by the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce and Industry and the Lancaster County Conservation District. Groff's efforts to implement environmentally-sound farming practices continue to attract local and national recognition and media attention. In April 1999, Cedar Meadow Farm was featured in a three-part miniseries, "Journey to Planet Earth," a national PBS broadcast. Just this year, Groff earned the Pennsylvania Sustainable Agriculture Leadership Award. Groff was also selected as the 1999 National No-Till Innovator of the Year.

The day will be highlighted by the unveiling of a unique pilot project that utilizes wireless remote control helicopters and parafoils to shoot images of crops, fields, and farms. This aerial video photography can be used to detect the specific location of crop stress, insect infestations, and nutrient deficiencies. This technology will enable farmers to treat these affected areas, rather than the entire field. Bolar Heli Systems, Allentown, and Nutrient Solutions in Agriculture, Inc., Palmyra, will conduct this exciting demonstration.

This year's learning stations will feature a variety of fascinating demonstrations:

Andrew Sharply, USDA-ARS, will demonstrate the rainfall simulator to determine soil erosion rates and phosphorus runoff. Sharply will also discuss the region's excess phosphorus issue and how research is determining ways to manage it.

Don Reicosky, USDA-ARS will present information on how tillage affects soil organic matter and carbon sequestration, which is becoming a national political issue.

Mark Goodson, Penn State extension, will demonstrate the dynamics of living organisms in this year's soil pit. Goodson will discuss how the roles of these living organisms impact soil management strategies and explain the concept of the soil food web.

A backhoe excavation will be conducted immediately following deep tillage passes to determine the effectiveness of each type of deep tillage tool.

A number of agribusinesses will be on hand to demonstrate the industry's latest equipment.

Fiber crops, real - time soil moisture monitoring, no-tilled vegetables, and planting equipment.

Children won't want to miss an educational adventure with local naturalist Chotty Sprenkle as she takes them on a stream exploration. Kids can also crawl through an earthworm tunnel and assemble soil tubes to create a soil profile.

Mouth watering roasted sweet corn, watermelon, cantaloupe, and other refreshments will be available for purchase.

Partial funding for the eighth annual Farm Field Day has been made possible through a grant from the Northeast Region of the USDA Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education Program (USDA - SARE).

Cedar Meadow Farm is located at 679 Hilldale Road in Holtwood. For more information, contact Brent Landis, The Lancaster Chamber's agriculture services coordinator, at (717) 397-3531, ext. 134, or e-mail blandis@lcci.com or visit www.cedarmeadowfarm.com.

Goat's Milk Ice Cream:
A Natural Alternative For The Lactose-Intolerant

MICHELLE RANCK
Lancaster Farming Staff

PALMYRA (Lebanon Co.) — Many people enjoy topping off a warm summer day with it. Or enjoying it with sliced fresh fruit. Or watching it melt over warm waffles.

Now, because of the work of Rick and Deneise Goss, those who are lactose-intolerant can also enjoy the pleasures of ice cream.

The Gosses, who milk their own herd of goats and market the milk, have begun producing six flavors of ice cream on their farm.

The best part of producing ice cream, according to Deneise, is "dealing with customers when you see how happy they are when they learn they can use dairy products again."

A Service To The Community

The couple — who calls their business "rewarding" and "gratifying" — considers goats' milk and ice cream production to be a labor of love and service to the community.

"People who are lactose-intolerant are thrilled to find out that they can have ice cream," said Deneise.

"We're definitely a niche market," she said. "Most of our customers are people who can't eat or drink regular dairy products."

These newborn kids, just hours old, may someday join the milking herd, which consists largely of Saanen goats.

The couple is looking forward to this summer's business, since cream was introduced last September, unfortunately after the peak of ice cream consumption.

Rick worked on the formula for close to a year.

By modifying a cow's milk recipe, and with the help of others, he arrived at the procedure used today. "There were a lot of people along the way who were willing to lend their expertise," she said.

"No one made it that we could talk to," said Deneise. Rick educated himself by consulting a textbook and asking a food scientist and a neighbor who made ice cream for advice.

"It's a dying art," she said. "We experimented a lot. Rick probably adjusted it a dozen times before it was perfected."

"The first batch was so creamy, we couldn't even eat it," said Rick. "It was like butter."

Favorite Flavors

Three flavors of ice cream (chocolate, vanilla, and raspberry) and three flavors of sherbet (raspberry, orange, and lemon) round out the iced offerings. For a half-gallon of milk, stores' prices vary from $3.50-$4.25. The pints of ice cream sell for approximately $2.60.

Chocolate is the biggest seller. Rick is considering setting up a smaller machine on the farm to do small, custom-ordered batches of specialty flavors.

"We're the only ones that make goats' milk ice cream that we know of," said Rick.

Although goat milk sales are topping the charts for the Gosses, ice cream sales are quickly catching its own market share, something the Gosses believe will continue to grow once the public learns about its availability.

"It's a relatively new product," said Deneise.

"The challenge is to let customers know where to get it," said Rick. "It's an educational process to let them know that it works for lactose-intolerant people."

Besides doing a product sampling at a local grocery store, the Gosses are considering partnering with a local baker to sell their wares at a market.

Skim and chocolate milk are next on list to expand the farm's product line.

The Production Process

The couple receives 200-250 gallons of raw milk each week. At their operation, Red Gate Farm, they have downsized from 150 to 50 goats and milk 20 head.

The additional milk comes from three other local farms. With a tank on the back of his truck, Rick makes his rounds in the early morning to pick up milk.

At the farm's milkhouse, which Rick constructed in 1988, the goats come in three at a time and snack on grain while they are milked. "They have a pecking order and pretty much enter in a certain order," he said.

"The younger ones take a week or two until they are trained." One person can finish milking the goats in approximately 40 minutes. Deneise had milked at a nearby goat dairy which went out of business, so much of the equipment was purchased from that farm.

Since the Gosses bottle-feed the kids, the goats are extra friendly and curious.

On Thursday mornings he picks up the milk early to take it to the pasteurizers. Deneise picks up the processed, packaged milk, then takes some home and some to local markets.

Once a month the Gosses purchase a large amount of milk at one time to get enough cream to make ice cream. Since only 10 percent of the milk is cream, they must buy 300 gallons. After the cream is spun off, skim milk, a by-product, is custom-made into five nonfat cheeses.

Deneise also makes chevre and feta cheese, sold on the farm but also popular for salads at local restaurants. So far they have made 700 pounds of cheese.

'One Thing Lead To Another'

The adventure began in 1987 when they purchased a few goats to eat weeds. After reading about their milk and meat potential, said Deneise, the couple was intrigued and began milking their animals.

Today's herd consists of mostly Saanens, the Holsteins of the goat world.

Additionally their two children, now grown, participated in 4-H, adding to the family's expertise in goats. "It's been a learning experience," she said.

Although both enjoy animals and farm life, neither grew up on a farm. Rick is a full-time engineer for Tyco and Deneise works for a doctor.

Besides drinking milk themselves, the Gosses sold milk to a local clientele who brought their own containers. By 1989 they got their raw milk permit.

As is the case in many business ventures, "one thing lead to another" according to Rick, and in 1992 the couple bought packaging equipment for their raw milk. In 1996 they became a grade A dairy, pasteurizing their own milk.

The goat milk ice cream is enjoyed not only by local customers who stop in at the farm, but also the Lebanon, Harrisburg, and Lancaster areas. In addition residents of Baltimore, Philadelphia, and New York are supplied by the farm's distributor.

Health Benefits

"We call ourselves the natural alternative, because they (people who are lactose intolerant) don't have to take a pill to drink goat's milk." She said that the milk is also helpful for people with ulcers.

Babies who are troubled by allergies also respond to the milk. In chemical makeup, said Deneise, goat milk is closer to human milk than any other milk.

"The medical community is becoming more open to it in the area because of babies' responses to it," she said.

According to "Alternative Parenting" Website information, in infancy and early childhood the human body is unable to produce enough lactase, the enzyme needed to digest the lactose (complex sugar) found in the milk.

This results in lactose remaining in the gut longer, which can result in diarrhea and/or gas. In goat's milk the protein globules are smaller and more evenly distributed.

The infant's digestive system is able to process and digest it more rapidly and with greater ease.

This is thought to make reactions to goat milk less common. Infants being fed on goat's milk are less likely to experience colic and constipation.

"There is a need for it," said Rick. "People don't know that goat's milk is a viable option for them."

For more information, or a listing of stores that carry their products, visit www.redgatefarm.com.

Ridge Signs Law To Amend Pennsylvania Farmland Preservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Governor Tom Ridge Wednesday signed into law House Bill 101, amending the Agricultural Security Area Law, to allow counties to preserve tracts of farmland that extend into adjoining counties.

"This law will help to make things easier for counties that administer farmland-preservation programs," Ridge said. It empowers counties to work together."

"This law builds upon our work over the last six years to protect our farmland and to ensure that Pennsylvania can continue to provide high-quality food and agricultural products to nations around the world."

Gov. Ridge noted the support of House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee Chairman Raymond Bunt Jr. (R-Montgomery), and Senate Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee Chairman Michael L. Waugh (R-York).

House Bill 101, sponsored by Rep. Sheila Miller (R-Berks), authorizes the purchase of an agricultural conservation easement by a county even if a portion of the farm extends into a neighboring county; allows for the inclusion of a farm tract that extends into an adjacent township or borough into a proposed agricultural security area; and eliminates the $10,000-per-acre cap on state funds for the purchase of the easements. House Bill 101 also allows for the renewal of the Farmland Trust Program and the Long-Term Installment Program.

Earlier this year, Pennsylvania was recognized as the national leader in farmland preservation by the American Farmland Trust. Since 1989, Pennsylvania has protected 1,600 farms totaling nearly 195,000 acres.

Currently, 51 counties are participating in the state's farmland preservation program.

House Bill 101 passed unanimously in the House and Senate, and takes effect in 30 days.

Pennsylvania Veterinarians: Remain Vigilant For FMD

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — As the USDA lifts restrictions on some European Union (EU) countries' imports as the result of decreased instances of foot-and-mouth disease (FMD) in Europe, Pennsylvania livestock experts remain watchful of the potential threat.

David Wolfgang, Penn State field investigator and veterinarian, reported this week that England is identifying about three cases of FMD per day, down from 10 to 13 cases per day several weeks ago.

"The English are gaining the upper hand but I wouldn't say the battle is over," he reported.

No new cases of FMD have been cited outside of England for several weeks. Until a short time ago, many imports from the EU were prohibited because of cases in France, the Netherlands, and suspect sheep in Germany.

According to Wolfgang, there will be a three to six month cleanup and decontamination process after the last case is identified.

Wolfgang continues to encourage all to keep their guard up.

"My fear is that this storm will pass and something careless or intentional will occur in the future when our awareness is lowered."

In a May publication of the Penn State Dairy Digest, veterinarian Dave Griswold advised farmers: "If you see an animal with blisters or ulcers around its mouth, nose or feet, especially if there is lameness or excessive salivation involved, call your local or state veterinarian immediately."

Make It With Milk–Nature's Finest

Today's selection of recipes marks the beginning of the June Dairy Month entries. For the past month, hundreds of readers mailed in favorite recipes using a substantial amount of dairy products. The entries will be randomly printed during the month of June.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Melinda Sue Wolfe will select the winning entries through a drawing. So, just because your recipe appears in this issue or is the last to be printed doesn't mean that you have won or lost.

Many have written that they look forward to collecting the recipes each year and enjoy reading tidbits of information about other readers. This year's collection will not disappoint you.

Winners will be listed in the June 30 issue and prizes mailed at that time. Until then, enjoy these recipes celebrating June Dairy Month.

Make it milk for James, Heather, Kenny, and Kaitlyn, children of Rosemary Vandeweert and her husband, Geneseo, N.Y.

TACO DIP

8-ounces cream cheese
1 small bottle salsa
1 can chili (no beans)
1 small bag shredded cheddar cheese

Spread cream cheese in bottom of 6x10-inch glass pan. Spread chili as the next layer, then spread salsa as the next layer. Top with shredded cheese. Bake in 325 degree oven for approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tortilla chips.

Everyone who eats this, loves it! It's great for picnics, parties, or just to snack.

POTATO SOUP

1 quart potatoes, diced
¼ cup grated carrots
2 teaspoons onion powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 cups mashed potatoes
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
3 hard-boiled eggs, grated
3 tablespoons butter
3 cups milk

Boil potatoes, carrots, and seasonings. When soft, add mashed potatoes, eggs, butter, and milk. Heat and serve with crackers.

My family enjoys this soup and it is a good way to use leftover mashed potatoes. Since we live on a dairy farm, milk is a common product.

BREAD MACHINE ROLLS MIX

3 cups bread flour
3 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons instand nonfat dry milk powder
1½ teaspoon salt
1 cup water (70-80-degrees)
2 tablespoons butter, softened
1½ teaspoons active dry yeast
Beaten egg white and sesame seeds, optional

Combine the first four ingredients. Store in a resealable plastic bag. Yield: 1 batch (3⅓ cups).

To prepare rolls, place water in bread machine pan. Add roll mix. Top with butter and yeast. Select dough setting (check dough after 5 minutes of mixing, add 1-2 tablespoons of water or flour if needed).

When cycle is completed, turn dough onto a lightly floured surface. Punch down; cover and let stand for 10 minutes. Divide into 12 portions, shape each into a ball. Place on a lightly greased baking sheet or on stoneware. Cover and let rise in a warm place for one hour. If desired, brush tops with egg white and sprinkle with sesame seeds.

Bake at 350 degrees for 12-15 minutes or until lightly browned. Yield: 1 dozen.

Our family loves these rolls. We have four children, James, Heather, Kenny, and Kaitlyn. We hope your family will enjoy these as well.

Rosemary VanDeWeert

CHOCOLATE CHIP GRANOLA

6 cups oatmeal
2 cups brown sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoons baking soda
4 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup coconut (optional)
1 cup melted butter
1 cup chocolate chips
1 cup raisins (optional)

Mix first six ingredients. Add 1 cup melted butter and stir until well mixed. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Stir every 15 minutes. When cool, add chocolate chips and raisins.

We moved to a Snyder County farm 1½ years ago. Our six children range in ages from 5-15 years. They are enjoying farm life and chores. Since we are rainsing veal calves, veal often finds its way to our kitchen table.

HAM AND SOUR CREAM POTATO BAKE

2 pounds hash brown potatoes, thawed
1 cream of chicken soup
½ cup butter, melted
2 cups sour cream
2 cups cubed cooked ham
½ teaspoon pepper
⅓ cup chopped onion, optional
1½ cups shredded yellow cheddar cheese
2 cups corn flakes
¼ cup butter, melted

Mix everything together except corn flakes and ¼ cup butter. That is for the topping. I use country style hash browns because they're grated. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour in a 9x13-inch pan. Serves 10.

This is a casserole our family loves. It's something quick to mix when you have a busy day. It's a wonderful way to use up leftover ham.

We're Lebanon County dairy farmers. Our milk goes to Clover Farms Dairy.

Farm life is great. It can get rather hectic at planting time and hay making time., but I wouldn't trade it for anything.

I enjoy the B-section of Lancaster Farming. I enjoy cooking and baking and like to try new recipes. I also enjoy doing Creative Memories photo albums.

RAINBOW PUDDING

1 small package instant white chocolate pudding mix
2 cups cold milk
2 cups colored, miniature marshmallows

Add 2 cups cold milk to pudding mix and stir in colored marshmallows.

Let set and serve.

Variation: Substitute chocolate pudding for the white chocolate and white marshmallows for the colored ones.

My husband Lonnie Will Swanger is employed by PA DHIA and works in Lebanon, Berks, Schuylkill, and Lancaster counties. I'm employed by Penn State/Lebanon County Extension office but am on maternity leave.

My husband and I had a baby, Emily, in February and this was a dish that was brought to our house for a dessert. My children, Drew Bausher, 10, Danielle, 9 really enjoyed it and it is easy to make.

Norma Swanger

BAKED MEATBALLS

3 pounds ground beef
2 cups milk
2 cups oatmeal
2 beaten eggs
Onion, to taste
½ teaspoon pepper
2 teaspoons chili powder
½ teaspoon salt

Mix well, form balls, and place in baking dish. Pour sauce over top and bake at 350 degrees for one hour.

Sauce:

1 cup ketchup
1 cup water
1½ cups brown sugar (scant)
2 tablespoons liquid smoke
½ teaspoon garlic salt

I canned meatballs with this recipe one year and they sure didn't last long. Cooking and baking are my joy, especially when my family and friends enjoy it!

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

One of THOSE days.

You know the kind. When all the goofy little things, and sometimes the big ones, that could possibly go wrong, do. And some of the goofy things that couldn't possibly happen. And still do.

Sometimes we're to blame ourselves. Other times, it's just the quirks of fate, or the irregular alignment of the stars or the upside-down position of the moon, or whatever causes it to be one of those days.

The Farmer had an inkling that one recent early morning was going to turn into one of those days. He just didn't know it immediately when, at 4 a.m., he reached for a cup of freshly-brewed coffee to go with his breakfast.

And got a cup of steaming hot water.

Seems the coffee preparer who had started the pot going had forgotten to include coffee raw material. She was vertical and moving around, but apparently already tuned in that it was going to be one of those days. Which was why I forgot to add coffee to the coffee.

Actually, I wasn't "with it" enough that particular morning at that particular hour to comprehend right away why, when I went for a cup of coffee, the pot only had a little bit in. Hadn't I just made a full pot of fresh brew?

Having re-made some coffee, The Farmer opened the cereal cupboard to fill his waiting bowl.

And came face-to-face with a cupboard crawling with ants.

So, even before realizing that I had messed up my first morning chore — coffee brewing — I had to retrieve a container of ant dust from storage on a high shelf. Which, with incredible good fortune considering it was going to be one of those days, happened to be a full, new one I had just bought.

Therefore, even with coffeeless coffee and ants in the cereal cupboard (they amazingly never got into the cereal), it didn't seem yet like one of those days. The Farmer headed off to the barn and I logged onto e-mail to deal with the dozen messages waiting there.

A half-hour later, Derra Dog was at the back door begging to go outside. Opening it, I spied lights on in the milkhouse, milking equipment still hanging on the cart — and silence instead of the usual hum of the milking system motors. Not a good sign. Milking would be late.

After another 30 minutes had passed and still no milking, reality of it turning into one of those days was rearing its ugly head. This was a Saturday morning. For some reason, (Murphy's law?), a very large percentage of those days which involve milking system down time are either holidays or weekends or afterhours.

Two hours after morning chores start-up, The Farmer hadn't been able to get system startup or access repair service. Finally, he accessed a repair service backup, located more than an hour's travel from the farm.

Trying to counter the delay frustrations of one of those days, we tackled assorted chores until technology was up and running. Calves were fed, and what bedding and clean up could be started, was. Finally, not long before our normal finish time, milkers went on the first cows.

Milking was slow, with more milk than usual in cow's udders. Noisy, too, as the girls loudly voiced their unhappiness with the change in routine.

We wrapped up morning milkings by early afternoon, shut down, cleaned up, ate lunch. And returned to the barn to start evening chores. Midway through, neighbors housing some cows with our herd, following their recent dairy barn fire, arrived to help milk.

"Oh, one of those days," chuckled neighbor Darlene, on hearing our account of the day.

When I considered how our day compared with the business-uprooting they've faced dealing with fire and cleanup, having cows scattered among several herds and making rebuilding decisions, our one of those days shrank to a mere trifling inconvenience.

Suddenly the day became something we could laugh about.

Which, all things considered, is a pretty good ending for one of those days.

Mobile Mammography

WITMER (Lancaster Co.) — The mobile mammography unit from the Lancaster General Health Campus will be at the Witmer Fire Hall on Tuesday, June 19 from 4 p.m. until 8 p.m.

The mammography exam will be done in a private room by a certified mammography technologist. Films will be transported to the LGH Health Campus to be developed and read by a radiologist. Reports will be sent to the patients private physician and a summary will be sent to the patient.

The approximate cost of this study is $100. All billing will be handled by the Lancaster Health Alliance. They will bill insurance companies if information is provided. Contact the billing office at the Campus with any questions at (717) 290-4259.

If you have no insurance and need financial help, you may be eligible for assistance.

Call the local American Cancer Society and ask about the Imaging for Life Program to obtain financial assistance. That phone number is (717) 397-3744.

If you need financial help for this study, you will need to arrange it before the day of the study. There is no need to make an appointment. The study takes about 10 minutes, but you may need to wait if people are ahead of you.

If you are a woman age 40 or over, the ACS recommends a yearly mammography. Women with a family history of breast cancer may need a mammography before age 40 and should check with their physician to see if this study is recommended at this time.

Do not use powder or deodorant under the arms until after the study as it effects the films. If you refrain from caffeine, use several days before the study, it will be more comfortable for you.

Call Pat Spangler with any questions. Phone (717) 656-6122 (daytime), (717) 687-7434 (evenings).

Participation Urged In Lawrence County Dairy Promotional Festivities

NEW CASTLE (Lawrence Co.) — A day-long super dairy promotion is planned for June 9, beginning at 9 a.m. at the Wal-Mart Union Squire, New Castle.

Lawrence Countians are needed to help with promotional activities such as making milkshakes, helping with milk mustache pictures, trivia games, raffle, pet a calf, passing out informational materials, ask the doctor, and more.

The Lawrence County dairy princess pageant is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Call Betsy (724) 336-4300 to schedule any time you can volunteer.

Plan Vacations Together

The school year is soon over and our thoughts turn to summertime fun and vacations.

Summer is a time when families may be able to slow down, relax, and enjoy a variety of activities.

Vacations can be a time to get away from it all. When we think about vacations we think they need to be in another part of the state, at the beach or in another country, but vacations can be in our own backyard. Pennsylvania is a very historical state and has many beautiful and interesting places to visit. Visit your local library or use a triple A Pennsylvania travel guide to get an idea of the variety of places our state has to offer.

When planning your family vacation there are a number of things to consider: 1. Plan the time when it can be a family vacation. Review schedules - when are swimming lessons finished, when is little league over; families even need to review when fall band and sports practice starts. When children are in school, time can become limited.

2. Discuss how much you plan to spend on your vacation. This will help determine the possibilities. It can also help set a goal - if there is not enough funding for this year - it can become a family goal for next year. Don't plan a vacation that will put financial burden on the family. You can have a lot of fun without spending a lot of money.

3. Consider what family members like to do on vacation. Some families like the beach, some like to go to the cabin in the mountains, some like day long trips to areas of interest. I know families where the children are involved in band and sports and they have traveled with the band and team and have taken a couple extra days to visit the areas where the band marched or the team played.

4. Mark your calendar and make arrangements if needed. Once you have set the dates - try not to reschedule. Family time is a way families grow and share experiences with each other. Vacations are a time to create memories. Remember to take a camera and capture some of those unforgettable photographs.

5. While you are away make sure you have made arrangements with a neighbor or relative to let them know where you are, how long you will be away and how you can be reached in case of an emergency.

6. Enjoy your vacation - it should be a time for relaxation and stress reduction and family fun.

7. Finally, after your vacation take some time and put together a family scrapbook about your trip. Be sure to include your itinerary, photographs and have family members create a story about this vacation. It can be one or two pages - it doesn't have to be ten or more. Over time you can review and remember how special each vacation is and whether or not you want to return to the same vacation spot year after year.

Families that plan together, grow together and create many memories.

I wish you and your family many wonderful memories to go with the day trips and longer vacations you share.

Forty Percent Of Echinacea Products Fail Consumer Laboratory Review

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — ConsumerLab.com, an independent evaluator of dietary supplements and nutrition products, released results of its product review of echinacea supplements.

Echinacea is widely used as a short-term immune system stimulant to reduce the severity and duration of colds and flu.

Annual sales of echinacea products in the U.S. were estimated at $193 million in 1999, according to the Hartman Group, a market research company, although sales are believed to have dropped recently.

Twenty-five echinacea products were purchased for evaluation of their echinacea content and potential microbial contamination. Neither the FDA nor any other federal or state agency routinely test echinacea products, or other supplements, for quality prior to sale.

Eleven, or 44 percent of the 25, echinacea products did not pass ConsumerLab.com's review. Six products did not provide sufficient label information to identify the amount, species, or plant parts used (all of such information is required labeling by the FDA) and were dropped from further testing; four products had insufficient levels of specific marker compounds that would be expected from their claimed echinacea ingredients (including two products with no detectable levels); and one product exceeded the World Health Organization limit for microbial contamination.

The complete list of products that passed the review as well as ConsumerTips (TM) on buying and using echinacea are now available to ConsumerLab.com's online subscribers at www.consumerlab.com. General findings and examples of approved products are also available for free from the Website.

Similar information is available from ConsumerLab.com from its Product Reviews of Asian and American ginseng, calcium, chondroitin, CoQ10, creatine, ginkgo biloba, glucosamine, multivitamins/multiminerals, SAM-e, saw palmetto, St. John's wort, and vitamins C and E.

Jennings Crowned Bradford Dairy Princess

CAROLYN N. MOYER

East Smithfield (Bradford Co.) — Sara Lynn Jennings, Troy, was crowned Bradford County Dairy Princess at a pageant recently.

The daughter of Nancy Scott Jennings and the late Ronald Lynn Jennings, the newly crowned princess is studying accounting at Elmira Business Institute. She also loves to help on her grandfather's farm and served as the 2000 Bradford County Alternate Dairy Princess.

Named Alternate Dairy Princess was Raya Shores, Hornbrook. She is the daughter of Glenn and Patty Shores and attends North Rome Christian School, where she'll graduate in 2003.

Shores loves sports and works on her family's Holstein dairy.

Judges Lisa Driscol, Canton; Craig Williams, Wellsboro; and Connie Teel, Meshoppin selected the new princess.

Each contestant participated in a daylong dairy festival, which included a parade and dairy promotion activities. At the pageant, each had to present a skit and answer an impromptu question.

Jennings enlisted the help of the audience as she recreated a scene from "This is your Life," as she touted the benefits of milk and listed many dairy products.

"You can have a dairy great life too," said Miss Jennings. "and remember, milk is the one in 2001!"

True to her passion for sports, Shores used a basketball theme for her skit. She showed how missing her morning milk made her tired and listless — even causing her to miss practice. The next morning, however, she was in top form and ready to run extra laps since she started her morning with a tall glass of milk.

Helping the dairy promotion duo this year are nine dairy maids. Marlesa Coolbaugh, Canton; Timmerie Fletcher, Ridgebury; Courtney Kline, Troy; Abbie Kuhlman, Rome; Renee Shores, Hornbrook; Sierra Slater, Rome; Elizabeth Spencer, Troy; Tiffany Spencer, Troy; and Jenny Storch, Troy, will each help promote milk in Bradford County throughout the year.

Special guests attending the 38th annual pageant included 14 former Bradford County dairy princesses and several former alternates.

As 2000 Dairy Princess Samantha Barrett joined the ranks of the former dairy princesses, she delivered a farewell speech in rhyme, recalling the skit that started her on her journey one year ago.

"One year ago, Milky Mouse debuted in my pageant skit. Many performances later, my costume has tattered a bit. You might remember that Milky Mouse always talked in thyme? So, I've adopted her style as I appear as your princess for the last time...

"Representing our dairy industry has been my absolute pleasure. The people, the memories, I'll always treasure."

Alternate Dairy Princess for 2000, Corissa Coolbaugh, also thanked the crowd for many great memories and cheered on the new promotion team.

"To think back, you have a lot of memories. Some are sad, some are happy, and you wish it could go on forever," she said.

Braman Farm Gets Century Award

LINDA WILLIAMS
Bedford Co. Correspondent

BEDFORD (Bedford Co.) — Tom Braman of US Route 220 in Bedford Valley is proud of his farm's newly acquired century old award.

He likes farming and he is happy to be part of the Braman chain who has owned this picturesque farm with its hills, woodlands, and lush green pastures.

The Braman farm has 200 acres. Eighty are tillable and the rest is in pasture and woodlands. He rents an additional 175 acres.

The valley farm is a perfect setting for his 66 head of milking Holstein, 30 calves, heifers and a few beef cattle which are a 4-H project for Shannon, his 10-year-old daughter.

"The best part of farming is that I get to see my kids every day," Tom said. His wife, Karen, is a bookkeeper and computer guru for the Bedford County Library. She helps on the farm with the milking chores and keeps the large farmhouse in running order.

Two other daughters, Cassie, 8, and Shania, 5, do whatever they can to help with the farm chores. The girls all have pig projects for 4-H.

"I feed chop," said Shania. Cassie and Shannon tie cows, feed, and throw down hay.

When Karen goes to work, it is Tom who puts the girls on the school bus and is there waiting when the bus returns at the end of the day. In the summer, he keeps the girls while doing his farm work. "Where I am, so are they," he said. "If I go to town, they go along. If I am doing chores, they are usually right there helping me."

Tom's 92-year-old uncle and his 71-year-old dad also live on the farm. Dad helps on a regular basis and his uncle rides the four-wheeler to feed the beef cattle. "It keeps everyone busy and gives them a reason to get up in the morning," Tom explained.

The farm was bought by his great-great-grandfather in August of 1900 for a purchase price of $4,500. His dad leased the farm from his Uncle Herb from 1976 until 1992 when Tom became the new owner.

Tom's advice for having a successful farm is stay out of debt. "You read a lot about debt management," he said. "Staying out of debt is the best way to manage it. When we want something, we save up for it!"

Tom and Karen keep all of the farm records on the computer which makes it easier to track income and expenses.

The Bramans raise 100 acres of corn and 20 acres of small grain a year. The balance of the farmland is in hay. With Karen working, they find it more beneficial not to have a garden but do raise their own sweet corn.

A "jack of all trades" type, Tom does all of his own construction work and maintenance work on the machinery. "And I'm pretty good with the animals," he admitted. "I've learned to do a lot because doing it yourself is the best way to make a profit."

The woodlands are used by Tom's brothers who have bought and run a pinemill in Bedford. A lot of the wood comes from the Braman farm. During the winter months, Tom helps out with the mill and in the spring, his brothers lend a hand with the fieldwork.

"I don't have any real secrets for good farming," Tom admits. "I do have a lot of general knowledge and am always willing to learn. I learn something new every day. We are proud to be a farm family."

And despite all the work, Tom still finds time for a hobby. He owns and rides a Harley Davidson. "When I need a break, I get out on my Harley," he grins.

Too Much Calcium?

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Someone asked if they could get too much calcium by taking supplements and eating foods rich in calcium.

Generally, nutritionists don't talk much about too much calcium because the real problem is people don't get enough of it.

Still, you make a good point. If you take calcium supplements, and then get calcium from other foods, you could get too much of a good thing. That can cause kidney stones or calcium deposits in the joints.

The National Academy of Sciences recommends no more than 2,500 milligrams a day to prevent calcium build-ups. Still, getting enough calcium is important, especially during adolescence when bones are growing the fastest. That's why the minimum recommended amount of calcium for anyone 9 to 18 years old is 1,300 milligrams a day. People 19 to 50 years should get 1,000 milligrams a day, and those over 50 should get 1,200 milligrams.

If you're worried about too much calcium, examine your usual diet and do the math. Let's say you drink one 8-ounce glass of milk (about 300 milligrams of calcium) a day. You usually put a 1-ounce slice of American cheese (about 175 milligrams) on your sandwich made with wholewheat bread (20 milligrams each slice), and your lunch bag usually contains a cup of fruit-flavored, low-fat yogurt (about 300 milligrams). Broccoli is your favorite vegetable, so it's not unusual to have a half-cup of that with dinner (about 25 milligrams). Add another 50 milligrams for that orange you eat each evening.

Add all of that up, and you have less than 900 milligrams of calcium. Your total intake is probably a bit more — it's not unusual for a 3-ounce portion of meat to contain 10 or 15 milligrams of calcium. Still, a 500-milligram calcium supplement or calcium-fortified juice might not be a bad addition to this particular daily diet.

Local strawberries are being picked daily and the consumer has choices of purchasing them in the supermarkets, roadside stands or pick-your-own operations.

Encouraged by the new food guidelines, depicted in the food pyramid, we are trying to eat more fruits and vegetables. Fruit in season locally has some big advantages in cost, flavor, and accessibility. One cup of strawberries provides 150% of the USRDA of vitamin C. Fresh, frozen or sliced they make just the right topping for cereal, waffles, pancakes or French toast. Forget the syrup and orange juice for a while.

1. When you go to pick strawberries, select the best variety for freezing by asking the grower. An average of one pound strawberries makes one pint frozen berries.

2. There are several ways to pack fruit for freezing: Syrup pack or dry pack. The syrup can be either sugar syrup or pectin syrup and the dry pack needs to be with sugar. If these products are not used, the strawberries will change more in color, flavor and texture while in freezer storage, even if the strawberries are frozen quickly.

To make a sugar syrup pack, mix and dissolve 2½ cups sugar in four cups cold water. Stir well to dissolve. Add one cup of this syrup per quart of prepared fruit.

To make no sugar pectin syrup pack, combine one package powdered pectin in one-cup water. Heat to boiling and boil 1 minute. Remove from heat and add 1¼ cups of water. Chill before using. Add more water if thinner syrup is desired. Submerge fruit in syrup.

To make individually quick frozen (IQF) berries use a tray pack: Dip berries into either one of the syrup pack solutions, drain and place berries individually, not touching, on plastic wrap on a cookie tray. Freeze in coldest part of freezer (usually 1 hour), then package the individually frozen berries in freezer bags.

To make a dry pack, mix ½-cup dry sugar per quart of prepared fruit.

To package: Fill pint or quart size freezer bags to within one inch of top, squeeze out air easily by dunking bag in water, being careful not to get any water into bag, seal, label and freeze. Before freezing, bags may be inserted into reusable rigid plastic freezer containers for added protection against punctures and leakage.

QUESTION — The Sensenigs for Ephrata would like a good stewed tomato recipe.

QUESTION — About a month ago, Robert O'Leary, Clarks Summit, requested a recipe for Pepper Corn Soup, but no one responded. He writes that someone suggested that he change the request to corn chowder. He also writes that he attends occasional auctions in Pennsylvania Dutch country where he enjoys a tasty bowl of what he thinks is corn chowder. Editor's Note: Generally, chicken corn soup is served at auctions. So, readers, send in recipes that you think is what he tasted.

QUESTION — J. Liston, Preston Co., W.Va. requests a recipe for canning ramps (wild garlic). She wants the ramps to be firm and not soft when the jar is opened.

QUESTION — Stella Hager, Kintnersville, writes that she had the misfortune of losing two recipes that she had copied from this column. Does anyone have recipes for Never Fail Molasses Crumb Pie and one for Peanut Butter Pie, which included cream cheese in the ingredients? Please send in the requested recipes.

QUESTION — Mary Fisher, Paradise, is looking for a recipe for kiwi jam, preferably the cooked type.

QUESTION — E. Brubaker requests a recipe for making ketchup that tastes like the Heinz brand.

QUESTION — Rhoda Stauffer requests a recipe for Kosher dill pickles that had appeared on the Morton brand for Kosher salt.

QUESTION — Sarah Algoe requests a recipe for ice cream cake that has a decorative frosting like Carvel ice cream cakes.

QUESTION — This must be the season for ice cream cakes because Luci Essig also requests a recipe for one. She wants to use a boxed cake mix and a pint of ice cream.

QUESTION — Bethany Keeney, Seven Valleys, wants a recipe for baked macaroni made with Cheez Whiz.

QUESTION — Loretta Blaine, Stevensville, is looking for recipes to make Italian-style spaghetti sauce that tastes like that sold in supermarkets. She writes that her family likes a strong flavor. I'm not sure if she means strong tomato flavor or a spicy sauce.

QUESTION — Helen Krupski, Peconi, N.Y., wants a recipe for cabbage relish that is served at Plain and Fancy Restaurant, Bird-in-Hand.

QUESTION — Sometimes Helen's baked cheesecake rises to the top of the springform pan then collapses in the center, resulting in a one-inch high rim around the perimeter of the pan. What is she doing wrong?

QUESTION — Barb Peachey, McAlisterville, wants a recipe for teddy bear paws.

QUESTION — C. Kessel, Hanover, wants a recipe for a dessert called lime cooler, which combines lime Jell-O and finely grated lemon/lime peel. She believes the fluffy dessert is popular among Amish and Mennonite families.

QUESTION — Virginia Zimmerman, Lititz, wants a recipe for making beef or pork puddings.

QUESTION — A York County reader wants a recipe for Chicken-Peanut Casserole that tastes like that served at Hershey Farms Restaurant.

ANSWER — Lynn Rossi wanted a recipe to make homemade muesli. Thanks to Kathy Fliegauf, Oxford, N.J., who is happy to share her authentic Swiss recipe. Unfortunately, the directions are sparse.

Homemade Muesli

1 cup instant oatmeal soaked in water for several hours
Grind ½ cup nuts and mix with oatmeal
Add juice of 1 lemon
Add ½ can sweetened, condensed milk
Add fruits such as apples, plums, cantaloupe or whatever appeals to you.
Thanks to a New Oxford reader for sending this recipe that she writes originated in Germany.

Muesli

2 cups wheat germ
2 cups oatmeal
1 cup ground pecans
2 cups coconut
32-ounces plain yogurt
2 apples, grated
3 bananas, sliced
2 cups fresh pineapple slivers or other canned fruit
Rice milk to moisten, if needed
Stir ingredients together until evenly moistened. Serve with a little maple syrup drizzled on top.

ANSWER — A reader wanted to know of substitutions for chocolate to make for someone who is allergic to chocolate but loves the flavor. Thanks to Sulaiha Abdullah, East Fallowfield, for recommending carob powder. She writes, "We are a chocolate-loving household, but everyone loves this recipe.

Honey Carob Brownies

1 cup sifted whole wheat pastry flour (or ½ whole wheat and ½ white)
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
½ cup carob powder
1 cup honey
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup broken walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla
Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, and set aside. Melt butter in small saucepan over low heat. Add carob powder and honey; blend and remove from heat. In mixing bowl, beat eggs well; gradually add carob mixture. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Blend in vanilla and nuts. (I usually add ½ cup dried unsweetened coconut and ½ cup unsweetened carob chips). Pour batter into oiled 8-inch square pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 40 minutes, or until wooden toothpick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan and cut into squares. Makes 16.

ANSWER L. Hurst, Shippensburg, wanted a recipe for chocolate eclair pies. Thanks to Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, for sending a recipe.

Chocolate Eclair Dessert

1 box graham crackers, whole
8-ounces frozen whipped topping
6-ounce box instant French vanilla pudding mix
3 cups milk
Mix pudding with milk until thickened. Fold in whipped cream. Set aside.
Grease 9x13-inch pan. Put layer of crackers on bottom. Cover with ½ pudding mixture. Add layer of crackers, spread with remainder of pudding and layer of crackers on top. Frost with topping. Refrigerate.

Topping

5 tablespoons cocoa
3 tablespoons oil
3 tablespoons milk
3 tablespoons butter
1¼ cup confectioners' sugar
Combine ingredients and beat until smooth.

ANSWER — Jean Redmond, Mohnton, had requested a recipe for baked French toast, here is a recipe that Debbie Reynolds, Wrightsville, writes is delicious.

Peach French Toast

½ cup butter
1 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 loaf French bread, sliced 1-inch thick
5 eggs
29-ounce can sliced peaches, drain and reserve juice
1½ cups milk
Mix butter, brown sugar, and water in a saucepan to dissolve sugar. Pour into 9x13-inch baking dish. top with drained peaches and layer of bread. Mix eggs, milk, and pour over bread. Cover and refrigerate overnight.
Bake, covered, at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Remove cover last 5 minutes to brown.
Serve with warm, reserved peach juice.

ANSWER — The Sensenigs from Ephrata sent in this recipe for pork barbecue sandwiches, which had been requested by Dotty Gaul. Although this recipe serves 10, the Sensenigs multiplied the ingredients to serve more than 500 people, who enjoyed eating the sandwiches.

Pork Barbecue Sandwiches

4 cups chopped, cooked turkey or pork
¼ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
1 cup ketchup
½ cup water
½ teaspoon mustard
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
Cook onion and celery until soft. Add remaining ingredients and simmer 20 minutes. Stir in turkey and serve on bun.

ANSWER — Blair County Dairy Princess Diana Bigelow sent in this recipe too late to be included in the Memorial Day Cookout feature. However, this sounds like a recipe that can be used for any occasion.

Apple Squares

1 package yellow cake mix
3 medium apples, thinly sliced
1 egg
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter, softened
1 cup sour cream
¼ cup brown sugar
Combine dry cake mix and butter until crumbly. Press half of mixture bottom of ungreased 9x13-inch pan. Arrange apple slices on top. Blend sour cream and eggs, spread evenly over apples. Add brown sugar and cinnamon to remaining half of cake mixture and sprinkle over top. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Cool, refrigerate, and cut into squares to serve.

ANSWER — For our fishermen readers and all who love fish, here are the winning recipes from the Delaware River Fisherman's Shad Cook-off.

Broiled Shad Dijon

2 boneless shad fillets
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup Dijon mustard
2 teaspoon parsley flakes
Blend mustard, mayonnaise and parsley.
Spread the mixture in a thick layer over the fillets.
Broil the coated fillets for 5-10 minutes or until topping is bubbly and begins to turn brown.

Shad Fillets
Stuffed With Shrimp
And Mushrooms

2 boneless shad fillets (about 1 pound each)
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup dry white wine
¼ cup finely chopped shallots
½ cup finely chopped celery
¾ cup finely chopped mushrooms
¼ pound shrimp, shelled, de-veined and finely chopped
salt and pepper
¾ cup fine, soft bread crumbs
¼ cup heavy cream
½ cup chopped scallions
Preheat oven to 425 degrees.
Melt 1 tablespoon butter in a saucepan, add shallots and saute briefly (30 seconds). Add the mushroom and celery to the saute, stirring often, and cook for about a minute. Add the wine and continue cooking until almost all the liquid is evaporated. Scrape mixture into a mixing bowl.

Add the shrimp, breadcrumbs, add salt and pepper according to taste, and blend well. Use 1 tablespoon butter to grease the bottom of a shallow baking dish, large enough to allow some space around the two fillets and set out flat.

Lay the fillets, skin side down in the pan, and fold back the meat strips made when the fish was deboned. Season with salt and pepper. Spoon filling along the length of the fillets. Fold the meat over the filling. Brush the tops of the fillets with butter. Bake for 20 minutes.

Combine the cream and scallions, then spoon the mixture over the fish. Return the fish to the oven and bake for another 10 minutes, or until fish flakes, basting occasionally.

Broiled Shad With Herbs And Onions

2 pounds Shad fillets, skin on
¼ cup vegetable oil
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 teaspoon paprika
1½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon thyme, crushed
1 dash pepper
Parsley, chopped
Lemon wedges

Cut fillets into serving-size portions. Combine all ingredients except fish, parsley and lemon wedges to make sauce. Place fish, skin side up, on well-greased broiler pan. Brush with sauce. Broil about 3-inches from heat source for 5 minutes. Turn carefully and brush other side with sauce. Broil 5 to 7 minutes longer or until fish is lightly browned and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Sprinkle with parsley and garnish with lemon wedges.

Marinated Shad With Ginger And Honey

1 pound shad fillets, skin on
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 tablespoons soy sauce
3 tablespoons honey
2 tablespoons ginger, freshly grated
Pepper, freshly ground to taste

Combine oil, soy sauce, honey, ginger and pepper. Marinate the shad fillets in the mixture for about 2 hours. Broil, skin side down, about 5- to 6-inches from the heat source for about 12 minutes. Cook longer if the fillets are very thick. Keep basting the fillets with the marinade, but do not turn. Serve with rice and a spinach salad.

Louisiana-Style Shad

2 boneless shad fillets (about 1 pound each)
½ pound medium-sized shrimp
½ cup butter
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
3 tablespoons Louisiana hot sauce
½ teaspoon rosemary

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Peel shrimp. Remove thin and excess fat from under the skin of the shad fillets. Cut shad fillets into strips (½ by 2 inches). Arrange shad and shrimp in a single layer in a baking dish. In a saucepan, melt the butter and combine with hot sauce, rosemary, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Pour this mixture over the fish, making sure to cover all pieces. Bake for 20 minutes. Serve over white rice.

Six-Hour Baked Shad

1 whole shad, about 3 pounds
Juice of 1 lemon
Salt and pepper
1 large red onion, thinly sliced
3 to 4 sprigs of fresh thyme or marjoram
4 slices of bacon

Have the fish cleaned and scaled. The head and tail may be removed or left on, depending on preference. Cut open the fish, and remove the strip of red flesh lying inside the cavity along the backbone of the shad. Rinse the fish thoroughly inside and out until no traces of blood remain.

Preheat oven to the lowest possible setting (200-225 degrees is preferred). Layout a large sheet of aluminum foil shiny side up and oil the middle of the sheet lightly.

Season the fish inside and outside with salt, pepper and lemon juice. Spread half of the onions in the middle of the foil, lay the fish on top and stuff the cavity with the remaining onions and herbs. Lay the bacon strips on top of the fish and seal the foil tightly around the fish.

Place the fish in a roasting pan and bake for 5 to 6 hours. Transfer the wrapped fish to a deep platter and slit open one side of the foil (it will release a lot of juices). Carefully slide out the fish and discard the foil.

To serve, use a fork and a spoon to pull the pieces of meat away from the backbone and ribs; the remaining bones are edible. Spoon the juices over each portion.

Plan To Attend Lancaster County Dairy Princess Pageant June 9

Jill Hoover

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — What a difference a year can make! The doom and gloom prices of last year have been overshadowed by the unexpected pleasant surprise of current mailbox receipts. Most dairy farmers have come to realize the only factor that remains constant in the dairy farming equation of today is the superior nutritional quality of milk; the raw product they produce.

Fortunately, Lancaster County is blessed with an abundance of young women who desire to help promote this wonderful product. This volunteer promotion effort is centered around the dairy princess, her associated royalty, and the support team of her county promotion committee.

Jill Hoover, Gap, the reigning princess, will give up her title on Saturday, June 9, at the pageant, conducted at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center auditorium. Festivities commence with a milk punch and cheese reception at 7 p.m., with the pageant beginning at 7:30 p.m. After the pageant, attendees will enjoy an ice cream social and have the chance to meet both past and present members of the promotion team.

Having had a very enjoyable year as Lancaster County Dairy Princess, Jill participated in many promotions all over the county, as well as participating in state-sponsored promotions. She said, "One of my favorite promotions was called a Shopper Stopper, which was held at the Ferguson-Hassler Grocery Store, Quarryville. This promotion consisted of an ambassador and me going up to shoppers and offering to pay for all of the dairy products in their shopping cart. Many people eagerly accepted the offer. There were, however, some people who were skeptical, and it took some convincing to pay for their groceries."

This year has been a great year for dairy promotion. It has been an honor and a privilege representing the farmers of Lancaster County and their perfect product, milk.

In addition to Jill, this year's promotion team consisted of alternate princess, Kristi Unger, Quarryville; ambassadors: Nicole Benner, Landisville; Laura Blank and Lisa Blank of Gap: Stephanie Donough, Bainbridge; Cheryl Hershey, Ronks; Kari Martin, Ephrata; and Debra Young, Peach Bottom. Dairy misses were Tiffany Donough, Bainbridge, and Hannah Wentworth, Quarryville. Rounding out the promotion team were dairy darlings: Valerie Bollinger, Lititz; Leslie Hoover, Gap; and Stephanie and Toni Kauffman, Denver. These young women all helped promote dairy products at many functions throughout Lancaster County.

Two contestants are competing for the title of Lancaster County Dairy Princess. The princess and alternate will represent Lancaster County dairy farmers at various events throughout the county and state, promoting the benefits of drinking milk and consuming dairy products. Ten young women have also agreed to serve as dairy ambassadors, six as dairy misses, and seven as dairy darlings. This is the largest dairy promoting group in Lancaster County dairy promotion history.

Heather Brubaker, 20, is one contestants. Heather served Lancaster County as a dairy ambassador in 1997, and was a dairy darling in 1990. She is the daughter of Deb and Lowell Brubaker, owners of Hilltop Heritage Holsteins, a 220-acre dairy farm in Manheim. They milk 186 of the 340 Holsteins they own. Principal crops grown are corn and alfalfa.

Heather is employed full-time as a licensed cosmetologist at Regis Hair Salon in Lancaster. She is also a Mary Kay beauty consultant. She has been a member and officer of the Northwest Dairy Club, and a National and Pennsylvania Junior Holstein Assn. Member. Heather exhibits some of her 14 registered Holsteins at local and state shows, an event she and her two sisters, Crystal, 16; Candice, 10; and brother Blake, 14; enjoy with their parents as a family.

Bicycle Helmets: Difference Between Life And Death?

As warmer days make their comeback, more and more cyclists — an estimated 48 million of them — will be taking to the streets. Osteopathic physicians (D.O.s) urge that safety should be a top priority among riders, specifically the need to wear a bike helmet.

Cycling remains one of the most popular outdoor activities in the United States. However, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, nearly one million children are treated for bicycle-related injuries in emergency rooms and other health care settings each year. Plus, an estimated 97 percent of cyclists killed in accidents were not wearing helmets.

D.O.s strongly encourage their patients to wear bicycle helmets. National statistics show that head injuries cause three out of four serious injuries and deaths that occur in bicycle accidents.

The National Safety Council provides these tips to help find a properly designed helmet:

- A stiff outer shell designed to distribute impact forces and protect against sharp objects;
- An energy-absorbing liner at least a half-inch thick;
- A chin strap and fastener that keep the helmet in place; and
- It should be lightweight, cool in hot weather and fit comfortably.

Helmets can only provide the best protection if worn properly. A helmet will be most effective if:

- It fits snugly but not tightly;
- It sits on top of riders' heads in a level position;
- It does not rock back and forth or from side to side;
- The straps are buckled; and
- It meets or exceeds the safety standards of the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission.

Why Do Birds Sing?

Dear Twig:

Why do birds sing? And why do some of them do it so early?

Birds sing to attract a mate and to stake out their territory. Usually it's the males who sing, but some females sing, too. It's a way to say to a potential mate, "Hey, look at me! I'm old enough and wise enough to find a lot of worms!" or to tell a rival, "This field is mine! Mine! Mine!" Birds sing the most in spring and summer because that's when they're courting and feeding their young.

Did you know most birds have a special organ that allows them to sing? It's called the "syrinx" (sear-inks), and it's at the base of their windpipe. In some birds the syrinx is very complex, and it lets them sing incredible songs. Have you ever heard a wood thrush, winter wren or eastern meadowlark? I hope so!

Different birds sing at different times of the day, sometimes even before sunrise! In fact, scientists have shown that light levels dictate when many birds sing. Some start singing when it's still nearly dark out, like the northern cardinal. Others wait for the sky to brighten.

The starting time varies from species to species. Read Aldo Leopold's A Sand County Almanac for a wonderful description of how birds chime in as the sun comes up!

Melodically,
Twig

What's That Smell?

Dear Twig:

My family took a drive in the country last Sunday. My window was open, and I got a whiff of something nasty. My Dad said it was pig manure. Eesh, what makes it smell so bad?

Remember the perfume commercial on TV - where the guy says, "Ah, the smell of it!"

Well, the smell of pig manure sure is memorable, but it probably won't make you say "Ah!" In fact, it might make you say "Ew!" or "Ack!" or even "Boy howdy!"

Pig manure is what it is: pig poop, which means it doesn't smell like roses. But it does smell worse, or at least different, than other livestock manure, as you found out. The reason being, it has its own special blend of "volatile" chemicals that your nose responds to by saying "Whoa! That's an odor!" They include indole, p-cresol and skatole. Cow manure, for instance, may have them, too, but in different amounts. That's why cow manure has its own unique fragrance. ('Odeur d'Vache," available on fine farms everywhere!)

The good news? Composting can help. Bacteria "eat" the odor-causing chemicals, and the stink goes away. Yay! Plus compost is great for soil and plants. That pig poop may smell like roses after all!

Sweeter-smelling than skatole,
Twig

Back Yard Science Activities

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — "Exciting Back Yard Science Activities" is the title of the workshop being presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension at two different locations. All childcare providers and interested parents can participate in the workshop at 7 p.m.-9 p.m. on Thursday, June 21, at PSU Capital Campus at the Olmsted Building, Gallery Lounge, Middletown or on Thursday, June 7 at the Ag and Natural Resources Building, Dauphin.

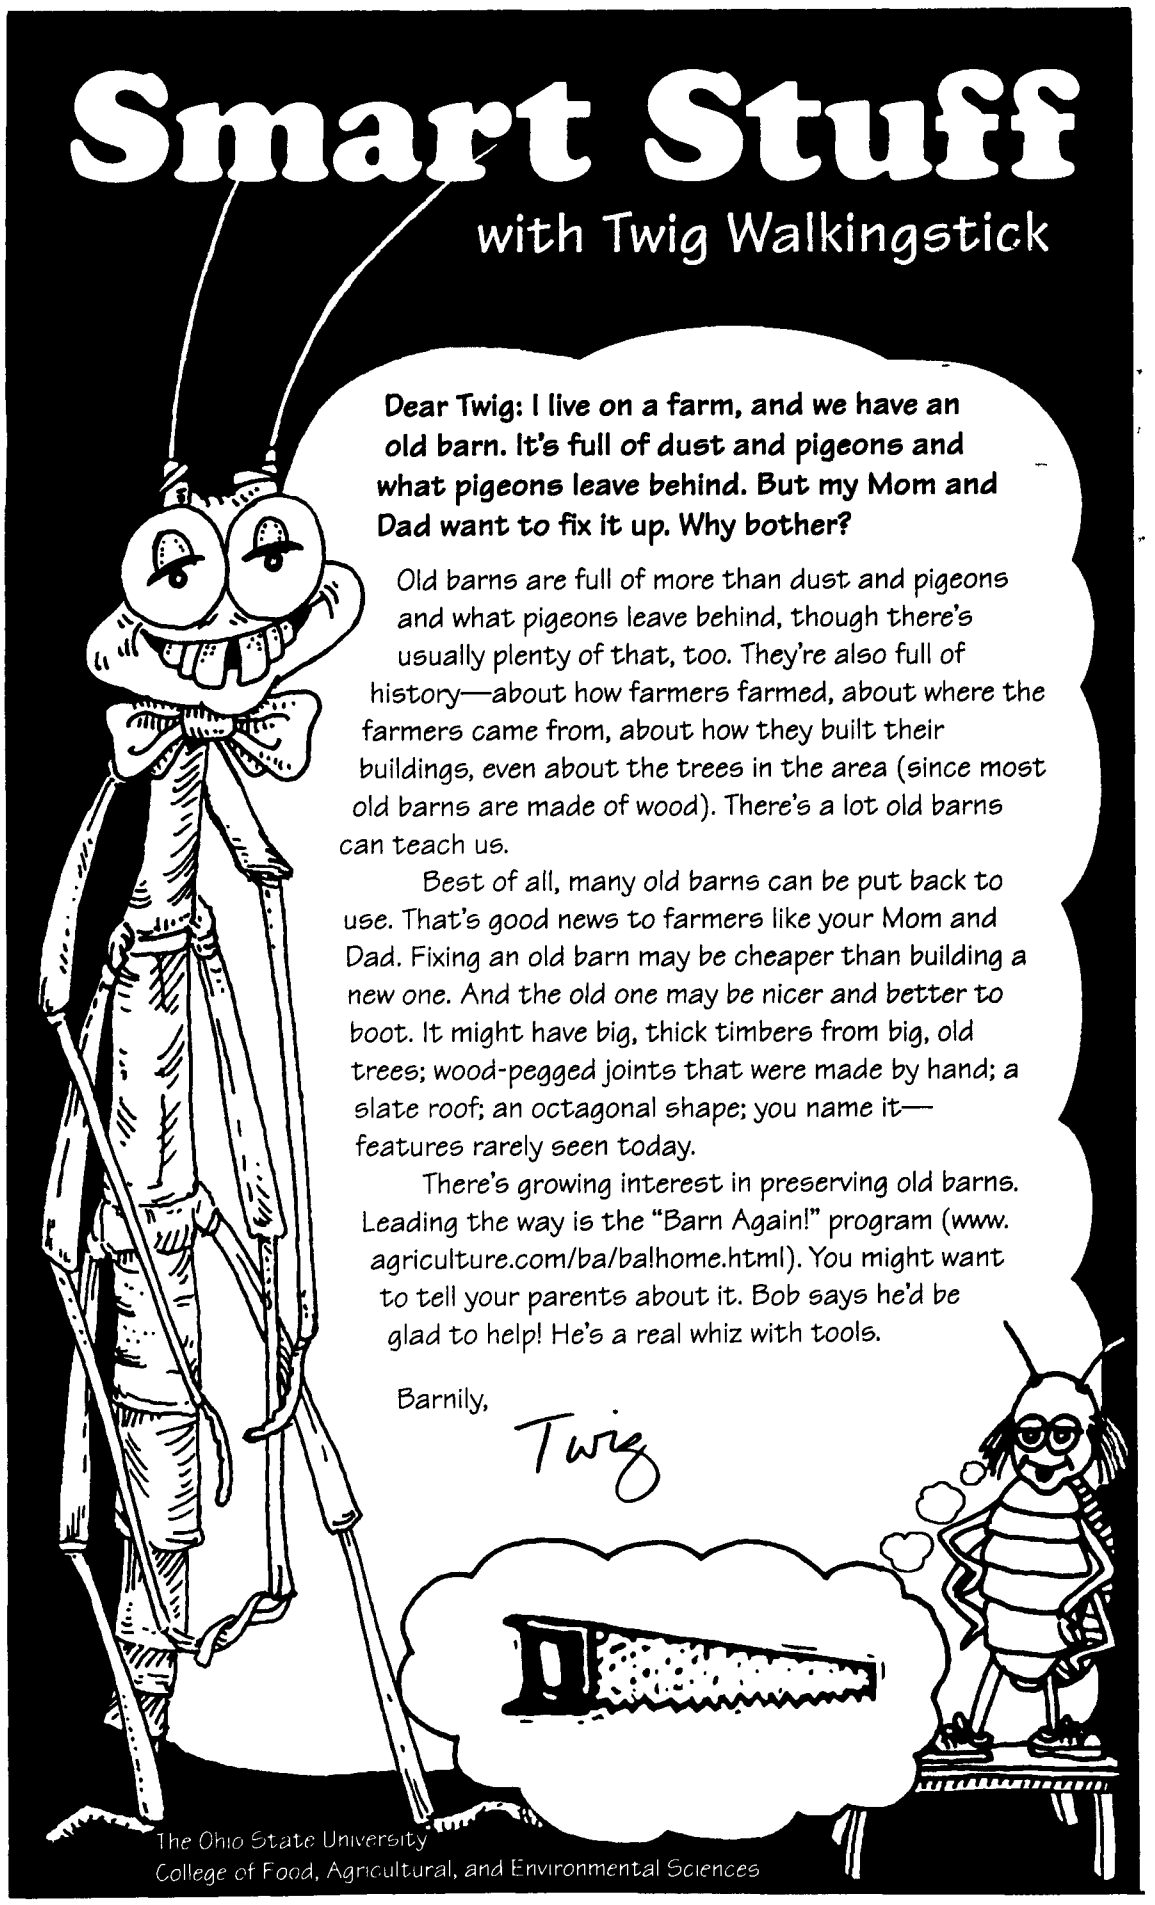
Jane Mecum, Penn State Cooperative Extension family living agent in Dauphin County, said the June satellite workshops will focus on children exploring gardening, insects, and composting. "We'll be visiting a childcare program where they do a complete cycle in the gardening process — harvesting seeds in fall, planting them in spring, and watching them grow over summer."

According to Mecum, those who come to the workshops will also find out about insects, especially bees and butterflies. Providers will get great ideas about getting children involved in composting and recycling and learn about the earth.

The workshops are part of a statewide Better Kid Care childcare provider training program presented by Penn State Cooperative Extension and partially funded by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare, and the Pennsylvania Childcare/ Early Childhood Development Training System.

Childcare providers can receive two DPW training credits for participating in the workshop. Continuing Education Credits (CEU's) are also available.

For more information on the program, support materials and other services from "Better Kid Care," call Mecum at (717) 921-8803 or visit the Better Kid Care Website at www.betterkidcare.psu.edu.



Smart Stuff
with Twig Walkingstick
Dear Twig: I live on a farm, and we have an old barn. It's full of dust and pigeons and what pigeons leave behind. But my Mom and Dad want to fix it up. Why bother?
Old barns are full of more than dust and pigeons and what pigeons leave behind, though there's usually plenty of that, too. They're also full of history—about how farmers farmed, about where the farmers came from, about how they built their buildings, even about the trees in the area (since most old barns are made of wood). There's a lot old barns can teach us.
Best of all, many old barns can be put back to use. That's good news to farmers like your Mom and Dad. Fixing an old barn may be cheaper than building a new one. And the old one may be nicer and better to boot. It might have big, thick timbers from big, old trees; wood-pegged joints that were made by hand; a slate roof; an octagonal shape; you name it—features rarely seen today.
There's growing interest in preserving old barns. Leading the way is the "Barn Again!" program (www.agriculture.com/ba/balhome.html). You might want to tell your parents about it. Bob says he'd be glad to help! He's a real whiz with tools.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

It's almost the end of May, and I'm still thinking about our trip south. Our children thought of many interesting things for us to do. We went to our grandson's soccer game and to a school concert where he played his cello. There were more than a hundred students in the school orchestra. One granddaughter is a ballerina and had her picture taken at a studio. Both girls played the piano for us.

Judy's housing development has a large lake and a swimming pool. Our son has a canoe and one evening before an outdoor concert, he took me for a ride. The music was loud and so we sat on the dock and talked with the music in the background.

Our children live several miles apart and we spent time at both homes. They prepared big meals for us. When we ate on the deck, they set up a canopy over the table to protect us from the sun. In a restaurant, I ordered fried okra, turnip greens, hush puppies, and fish — a real southern meal.

We took a rhubarb plant and some peonies for them to plant. They also bought flowers for their homes, and I was surprised to see that small sweet potato plants are now considered to be ornamentals.

One morning, we took a hike at a Nature Science Center. And, we drove around to see old houses in the area. There is a very large store, "Bass Pro Shops" that sells only fishing equipment and here our daughter bought life preservers for my husband's birthday. She gave me a beautiful lamp for my birthday as May is our month.

Now I must weed my flower beds as the weeds do grow despite our dry weather. We watered our strawberry rows so that we'll have some nice berries.

IMPOSSIBLE COCONUT PIE

½ cup flour
1½ cups sugar
¼ cup melted butter
4 eggs
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
7-ounce package coconut

Combine flour and sugar. Add butter, eggs, milk, and vanilla. Mix well. Stir in coconut, pour into greased 10-inch pie plate. Bake in preheated 350-degree oven for 45 minutes or until filling is firm. cool thoroughly before serving. This pie makes its own crust.

The recipe is quick and easy to make. It is enjoyed by our family. We live on a farm outside Lehighton which we named B-Z farms. It has been in our family over 100 years. We raise cattle, hay, and grain and have a small Agway store. We especially enjoy Lancaster Farming on Saturday. The menfolk read the mailbox first and I often clip recipes. We now also enjoy the antique section.

DELICIOUS PANCAKES

1¼ cups flour
1 teaspoon sugar
⅓ cup butter
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1½ tablespoon baking powder

Beat eggs slightly, sift dry ingredients. Add butter and milk to eggs, add dry ingredients. Beat only until all four is mixed. Serves 4-5

This is our favorite pancake recipe and is easy to make. You can triple this recipe if it is necessary. I made them a few times because they're so easy to make.

We have about 70 milking cows — 58 Holsteins, 12 Jerseys. I have seven brother and no sisters. We have a small fabric shop called Wooden Bridge Drygoods. Have a cool summer.

BANANAS FOSTER

1 ounce light cream
8 walnuts (chopped)
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons rum extract
1 cup cut up bananas
pinch of cinnamon
pinch of nutmeg
1 teaspoon butter
vanilla ice cream

Mix light cream, walnuts, brown sugar and rum over low heat. Add bananas and saute until warm and crunchy,. Add cinnamon, nutmeg, and butter. Pour hot over ice cream and top with whipped cream. Put a cherry on top if desired. Serves 2.

I am submitting a very inexpensive dessert, with four milk ingredients, for the June Dairy Month Contest. This dessert can be served at a luncheon, dinner, snack, or prepared on a grill on the patio.

We operate a dairy farm in Wayne County. At the present time we milk 60 cows, raise corn, hay, potatoes, and have a vegetable garden.

We are fortunate that our son and grandchildren all help to operate the farm.

Milk IS the real thing!

FILLING BALLS

10 cups bread crumbs
1 medium onion
3 to 4 bunches celery, finely-chopped celery
½ pound melted butter
1½ cups milk
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cups mashed potatoes
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Mix together in a large bowl all ingredients except butter. Form balls with ice cream scoop and place on cookie sheets. Dribble melted butter over balls. Bake 25 minutes at 350 degrees.

Hi to all Lancaster Farming fans. These filling balls are quick and easy to make, yet they look like you spent a lot of time making them. Try them, you'll like them. My grandma used to say, "Anything is good with brown sugar or butter."

From our outfit to yours, wishing you rain, and a happy and safe summer.

STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE

2 cups fresh or frozen strawberries
3 ounces strawberry gelatin
1 cup miniature marshmallows
2¼ cups flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter
1½ cups sugar
3 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

Slice berries and combine with gelatin. (Thaw frozen berries). Set aside until batter is mixed. Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cream butter and sugar. Add eggs, one at a time. Blend in dry ingredients and milk alternately. Add vanilla. Sprinkle marshmallows over bottom of 9x13-inch buttered pan.

Pour batter over marshmallows. spoon strawberries evenly over batter. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes or until golden brown. Serve warm or cold with whipped cream.

We live on a dairy farm and use a lot of milk and other dairy products. When I make this dessert it disappears in a short time. I hope you enjoy it as well!

SPAGHETTI PIZZA

1 pound spaghetti noodles
2 eggs
½ cup milk
1 cup shredded mozzarella cheese
½ teaspoon salt
28 ounces pizza sauce
3 cups shredded mozzarella cheese oregano
pepperoni, sausage, or toppings of your choice

Break spaghetti into two-inch pieces. Cook until tender, drain and cool. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Beat eggs, stir in milk and one cup of the mozzarella cheese and salt. Add cooled spaghetti and stir until well coated. Grease a 10½ inch X 15½ inch pan and spread mixture in pan. Bake for 15 minutes. Remove from oven and turn the oven back to 350 degrees. Spread sauce over top. Sprinkle with the three cups cheese. Sprinkle with the oregano and top with your favorite topping. Bake 30 minutes long or until cheese melts and turns slightly brown.

I enjoy making this recipe and taking it to summer picnics and family reunions. This is one dish you usually won't find at a picnic, pizza. Everyone loves it because it is a different twist to a favorite food. I usually have to give the recipe to several eager cooks at the picnics.

We live near Union Bridge, Maryland on a 260-acre dairy farm that my husband, Mike, is the third generation to farm. We milk 120 Holsteins and raise all our replacements. There are approximately 275 head total here on the farm. We have two wonderful children, Rachel, 4½ and Brian, 15 months. We also have a 3-year-old Border Collie, Bucky, who just loves to go out in the meadow and herd the cows for milking. However at times he is a little too helpful.

Rachel and Brian love to help their mom, Julie, feed the calves. Rachel especially likes to feed hay and dry feed to the calves. Brian, even at 15 months old, enjoys mixing up the milk and likes to help hold the bottle for the calves. Both children love to take ride in the cab tractors with their daddy whenever he allows them to.

VEGETABLE PIZZA

2 packages crescent rolls
16 ounces softened cream cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
1 envelope ranch dressing mix
1½ cups shredded broccoli
1½ cups shredded cauliflower
1 cup shredded carrots
1 cup mozzarella cheese
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Spread crescent roll dough on large cookie sheet. Pinch seams and bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until done. Cool.

Mix cream cheese and mayonnaise, then add ranch dressing mix. Spread over crust. Sprinkle with shredded vegetables and cheese in order given. Refrigerate leftovers. Note: this tastes even better the next day!

This delicious pizza is a family favorite. Even our youngest son, who hates raw vegetables, especially carrots, loves it. I make this often and it never lasts long.

My husband, Lavern, and I have three children: Jerry, 11; David, 9; and Mary Jane, 7. Growing produce and baking for our roadsides stand keeps us busy. We love dairy products, and I enjoy browsing through the dairy contest recipes.

CORN CHOWDER

2 quarts corn
4 medium potatoes
1 finely-chopped onion
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon dried, minced garlic
½ teaspoon cumin
4 cups chicken broth
½ cup wheat germ or potato flakes
4 cups milk
¼ cup melted butter

Peel potatoes and cut into bite-sized chunks. Combine corn, potatoes, onion, seasonings, broth and wheat germ and put into the crockpot. Cook on low for seven to nine hours.

Stir in milk and butter. Cook on high for one more hour. Recipe may be halved for smaller crockpots. This recipe is for a five-quart crockpot.

We have some sheep in our meadows and just recently enjoyed watching them be sheared for the first time. Landis and I have been blessed with four boys and two girls so it takes lots of food. I like to look for new and tasty dishes in Lancaster Farming.

PARTY POTATOES

8 large potatoes, cooked and shredded
2 cups sour cream
¼ cup melted butter
10¾ ounce can cream of mushroom soup
1 cup chopped onions
1½ cups shredded Co-Jack cheese

Saute onion in butter. Mix all ingredients. Cover and bake 50 minutes. Put buttered corn flake crumbs on top. Bake uncovered 10 minutes longer. Yield: 8 servings.

My husband Curt and our three daughters, Amber, 19; Amanda, 16; Ashley, 10, and I live on a dairy farm near Manheim. We are thankful to God to be able to contribute in our own small way to the farming industry. Besides our farm work we enjoy church activities and spending time with family and friends.

HIDDEN EGGS

4 tablespoons butter
bread
6 or 7 eggs
salt and pepper
shredded cheese

Melt four tablespoons butter in a pie pan. Save half of the melted butter for top. Break up bread to cover bottom of pan. Drop eggs on bread. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Break up one or two more pieces of bread on top of eggs. Drizzle with butter and dot with shredded cheese. Bake for 15 to 20 minutes or until eggs are done. This is a good country breakfast.

Our whole family likes this breakfast, especially on a cold morning when we come in from the barn, from our variety of chores like feeding calves and milking, etc.

CHEESEBURGER SOUP

½ pound ground beef
¼ cup onions
¼ cup shredded carrots
¼ cup diced celery
1 teaspoon parsley
4 tablespoons butter
3 cups chicken broth
¼ cup flour
4 cups diced potatoes
8 ounces American cheese
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup sour cream

Brown beef. Saute onions, carrots, celery and parsley in one tablespoon butter. Add broth, potatoes, and beef. Bring to a boil and simmer until potatoes are soft. Melt three tablespoons butter and add flour. Cook until bubbly, then add to soup. Bring to boil and cook two minutes. Reduce heat to low. Add cheese, milk, salt, and pepper. Add sour cream just before serving.

JEWISH COFFEE CAKE

1 cup sugar
3 eggs
1 cup butter
2 teaspoons vanilla
3 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup sour cream

Cream together butter and sugar. Add eggs one at a time. Alternate the flour and sour cream.

Topping:

½ cup nuts
½ cup brown sugar (light or dark)
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg

Mix together. Sprinkle on half of the batter and the other half on top, A 9- or 10-inch tube pan works best.

I love your cooking section so much. This cake goes over big around our house.

OATMEAL PECAN PIE

4 eggs, slightly beaten
2 cups sugar
1½ cups dark corn syrup
1 cup milk
1½ cups oatmeal
½ cup melted butter
¼ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons vanilla
4 cup chopped pecans

Mix everything together. Line two 9-inch pie pans with unbaked pie crust. Add filling. Bake at 350 for about 50 minutes.

IMPOSSIBLE QUICHE

3 eggs, beaten
½ cup Bisquick
½ cup (or less) softened butter
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ teaspoon chopped onion
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
½ cup ham or crisp bacon (or crab — sour in one tablespoon sherry)
Dash of tabasco

Blend first five ingredients. Add cheese and meat or crab and dash of tabasco. Pour into 10-inch greased baking dish. Bake at 350 for 40 minutes. Enjoy!

We have four grandchildren and two great grandchildren. We celebrated our 60th anniversary. We enjoy the Lancaster Farming. When it comes I get the women's section and he reads the rest. However Karl doesn't miss the recipe pages, he usually finds a recipe he would like me to try.

CHEESY BROCCOLI SOUP

20 ounces frozen chopped broccoli
½ cup chopped onion
4 tablespoons butter
1 can cream of chicken soup (undiluted)
1 can cream of celery soup (undiluted)
2 cups water
3 cups milk
10 slices white American cheese, cubed
Salt and pepper to taste

Using two cups water, cook broccoli and onion until tender, approximately five minutes. Add butter, soups, and milk and cook over medium heat for 10 minutes. Add cheese and simmer until cheese melts. Yields about 10 cups.

We enjoy the Lancaster Farming paper very much. My husband pretty much reads all sections. I look forward to Home On The Range, Cooks' Corner and Ida's Notebook. Our grandson grain farms about 1,000 acres and he especially enjoys the "C" section. I always enjoy all the recipes during June dairy month. Hope your families enjoy this soup as much as we do. Thanks so much.

EASY CARAMEL-PECAN ROLLS

1 cup pecan halves
⅔ cup packed brown sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
2 tablespoons butter, melted
4 cups reduced fat Bisquick
1¼ cups fat-free (skim) milk
2 tablespoons butter, softened
½ cup packed brown sugar
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Stir pecans, ⅔ cup brown sugar, corn syrup and 2 tablespoons melted butter in rectangular pan, 13x9x2-inches, spread evenly.

Stir Bisquick and milk until dough forms, beat 20 strokes. Place on surface dusted with Bisquick; gently roll in Bisquick to coat. Shape into ball; knead 10 times. Roll dough into 15x9-inch rectangle. Spread 2 tablespoons softened butter over dough. Stir together ⅓ cup brown sugar, and cinnamon; sprinkle over dough. Roll up dough tightly, beginning at 15-inch side. Pinch edge of dough into roll to seal. Cut into 12 1¼-inch slices. Arrange with cut sides down on mixture in pan.

Bake 25-30 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately turn upside down onto heatproof serving plate; let pan remain over rolls a few minutes. Serve warm. 12 rolls.

This is a very easy low-fat recipe. They can be made the night before and warmed in the microwave next morning for breakfast. They are just as good as fresh baked.

I grew up on a farm, and still like living in the country. I have a garden, and do canning and freezing for later use.

I am retired, but still work part time. I enjoy being with my grandchildren — all 13 of them, and spending time with my family.

⅔ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped onion
2¼ cups water
½ cup butter, divided
¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2½ cups milk
1 teaspoon dried dill weed
2 cups cheddar cheese
1½ cups corn
1 cup diced, cooked ham

Combine potatoes, celery, onion, water, and ¼ cup butter in a large kettle. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat; simmer 10 minutes. Remove from heat and set aside (do not drain).

In heavy 2-quart kettle, melt remaining butter. Stir in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually add milk; stir until thickened and smooth. Add dill. Stir sauce into potato mixture. Add cheese, corn, and ham. Heat thoroughly. Serves 8-10.

SOUR CREAM, RAISIN BARS

2 cups raisins
1½ cups water
1½ cups all-purpose flour
1½ cups old-fashioned rolled oats
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
¾ cup butter
1 teaspoon baking soda

Filling:

1 cup sugar
1½ cups sour cream
3 egg yolks
3 tablespoons corn starch

Cook raisins in water until soft and plump. Drain and cool. In large bowl, combine flour, oatmeal, sugar, butter, and baking soda. Mix until crumbly. Press 3 cups crumb mixture in 9x13-inch pan. Combine filling ingredients and cook over low heat, stirring occasionally until mixture comes to a boil and boil one minute. Remove from heat and stir in raisins. Spread over crumb crust and sprinkle with remaining crumbs. Bake 25-35 minutes at 350 degrees.

This is a recipe my family enjoys and it comes from my sister-in-law who always seems to find the best ones.

SOUR CREAM SWISS STEAK

⅓ cup all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons each salt, pepper, paprika, and ground mustard
3 pounds boneless round steak, cut into serving size pieces
3 tablespoons vegetable oil
3 tablespoons butter
1½ cups sour cream
1 cup finely chopped onion
2 garlic cloves, minced
⅓ cup soy sauce
¼-⅓ cup packed brown sugar
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour
Paprika

In a shallow bowl, combine flour, salt, pepper, paprika, and mustard; dredge the steak. In a large skillet, heat oil and butter. Cook steak on both sides until browned. Carefully add water; cover and simmer for 30 minutes. In a bowl, combine the sour cream, onion, garlic, soy sauce, and flour; stir until smooth. Transfer steak to a greased 2½-quart baking dish; add sour cream mixture. Cover and bake at 325 degrees for 1½ hours or until tender. Sprinkle with paprika if desired. Serves 6-8.

1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon butter
16-ounces cream cheese
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
4 egg yolks
4 stiffly beaten egg whites
1 cup light cream

Blend graham cracker crumbs with 1 tablespoon sugar and butter. Press into bottom of 9-inch springform pan. Soften cream cheese; blend in ½ cup sugar, flour, salt, and vanilla. Stir in egg yolks, one at a time, mixing well after each addition.

Add cream and blend thoroughly. Fold in egg whites; pour into pan. Bake in slow oven at 325 degrees about 1½ hours or until set in center.

Our family lives with my in-laws on the family farm. I enjoy cooking and decorating inside and outside. My husband T.M. Lillard and our son Andy, 13, keep me busy with things always going on. Andy is in FFA and stays busy with his own animals and showing. He shows beef heifers, steers, hogs, and horses.

We all enjoy the outdoors very much and Lancaster Farming.

TWO RASPBERRY CUSTARDS

1 quart milk
8 eggs
1 scant cup sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1½ cups raspberries
Corn starch
2 9-inch unbaked pie crusts

Heat milk to boiling point (do not boil). Beat eggs slightly in a bowl. Add sugar, vanilla, and salt. Beat slightly. Add milk and mix. Sprinkle raspberries with a little corn starch, and put into the crusts and add milk mixture.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake 25 minutes or longer, until silver knife inserted in middle of pie comes out clean.

Other fruits may be substituted for the raspberries. Rhubarb is good.

HAM CHOWDER

4 cups potatoes, peeled, shredded
¼ cup minced onion
1 cup ham, cooked, diced
2 cups water

Boil together until potatoes are soft. Do not drain. Add:

3 cups milk
Salt and pepper to taste
1 teaspoon chicken broth or bouillon cube mixed with water
2 cups shredded cheddar cheese
¼ cup flour for thickening (optional)

Heat, but do not boil, for 5-10 minutes. Serves 8-10.

We have four boys, Dominic, 14; Austin, 12; Kerry, 10; and Shannon, 7, and a girl, Cindy, 2.

This is a favorite Saturday evening supper.

GROUND BEEF SUPREME

2 pounds ground beef
1 package onion soup mix
10-ounce package frozen peas
2½ cups noodles, cooked
1 can cream of mushroom soup
¼ cup milk
6 slices white American cheese
1 can tomato soup
¼ cup milk
½ cup butter, melted
1½ cups Ritz crackers, crushed
½ cup cheddar cheese, grated

Brown ground beef and onion soup mix, mix in cooked noodles, peas, mushroom soup, and ¼ cup milk. Put in 9x13-inch pan and lay slices of cheese over top. Cover with tomato soup and ¼ cup milk. Mix melted butter and cracker crumbs to spread over top. Layer with cheddar cheese. Bake at 300 degrees for one hour.

This is a favorite dish in our house and I make it quite often for Sunday dinners as it can be made ahead of time and refrigerated.

We have a family of two boys, ages 4 and 15 months, and we live on a small farm just south of New Holland, which we just bought and moved on this spring.

We are building a new 50-cow stanchion barn and hope to start milking by mid June.

May you have a safe and healthy summer.

Crownvetch Industry Is A\ Perennial A\ Plant Itself

GAIL STROCK
Mifflin Co Correspondent

PINE GROVE MILLS (Centre Co) — Dr Fred Grau Sr discovered a pretty lavender flowered cover plant along a shale pit near Virginville, Berks County, in 1935

Little did he know that it would become one of the most sought-after ground covers for the highway department in the '60s and a sole source of business income for his son, one of only three or four major crownvetch producers in the country

By discovering crownvetch and developing the production and marketing of the crop Fred became the founder of the crownvetch industry

"He didn't know what it was," said Fred Grau Jr "He was an extension agronomist in turf at Penn State in 1935 He brought some back to Penn State and identified it He immediately saw the erosion control use for it

"In the late '40s and early 50s, Penn State picked up on the idea of using it. My father, Penn State, the Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Highways together conducted three years of research on crownvetch in the late '40s Then they released it as Penngift Crown

Fred Grau Jr. examines a 30-year-old stand of crownvetch near State College. Crownveteh grows to about two-feet high and is an excellent ground cover.

Seeleys' Milky Way Farm Reaps Benefits Of Grazing

CAROLYN N MOYER
Bradford Co Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co) — For the Seeley family of Milky Way Farm in Troy the call of springtime is getting stronger and stronger every day

It not only signals the start of a new growing season, but a shift in focus for their entire operation

We will rotate cows by mid April even though there is no grass, said Kim Seeley who has seen his farming focus change dramatically over the years 'The reason we do that is to get the animals out of the barn I think it's important to start grazing early just for our mentality The cows are excited, too They get spring fever just like we do

Seeley's grandparents purchased the farm in 1928 In 1962 Kim's parents, Lewis and Marie, expanded the operation by building a restaurant and jugging operation Their goal at that time was to earn enough money to put their four children through college, which they did Kim and his wife Ann, along with their two sons — Shon 18 and Dane, 8 — are an integral part of the operation

For many years the Seeleys ran a conventional dairy along with their jugging operation In fact, they hold the claim to having the oldest free stall barn in Bradford County After a barn fire, the Seeleys decided to move all the animals to a central location with the milking animals in total confinement

'We built a brand new barn in 1976 because of a barn fire For eight years we were in total confine

Whole milk chocolate milk is one of the Milky Way's successes Kim Seeley says that the whole milk and better ingredients set their product apart from the rest. The Seeleys have been operating a jugging plant since 1982.

You ask you answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to lgood.eph@lnpnews.com

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it.

helps out with milking and other tasks on the family farm.

Prior to graduating from Manheim Central High School, Heather was a member of choir and had been a varsity cheerleader. She is a member of FFA and has participated in dairy foods judging, dairy cattle judging, and served on various committees.

Andrea Fisher, daughter of Amos and Jane Fisher, Gap, is the second candidate for Lancaster County Dairy Princess. She is 17, and prefers to be called by the nickname, Anne. She will be a senior at Conestoga Christian School next year. Andrea is the oldest of Amos and Jane's four children. Samantha, 15; Brooke, 12; and Shawn, 9 are Anne's avid supporters. Amos is part owner of Fisher and Thompson Equipment, and has always been a great supporter of the Lancaster County Dairy Promotion Committee.

Heather Brubaker

Andrea Fisher

Hobbies and interests of Anne include reading, sports, drama, and chaperoning and participating in outdoor activities with children. She is also a member of a choral group. Anne has participated in gymnastics and enjoys swimming. She is employed part-time at a market stand and as a young child-care provider.

Volunteering to assist the princesses as dairy ambassadors are 10 young ladies. Returning for a third year as ambassadors are Laura Hess, daughter of Joe and Linda Hess of Mount Joy; and Kari Martin, daughter of Leonard and Joyce Martin, Ephrata. Jenna Martin, Kari's sister, is serving a second year as an ambassador. Stephanie Donough, daughter of Timothy and Brenda Donough, of Bainbridge; and Cheryl Hershey, daughter of Dale and Martha Hershey of Ronks are also returning to serve a second year.

Young women serving their first year as dairy ambassador include Apryl Becker, whose parents are Merle and Janet Becker, Kinzers; Crystal Brubaker, daughter of Debra and Lowell Brubaker, Manheim; Karen Shaub, whose parents are Kirk and Shirley Shaub, Leola; Alysha Royer, daughter of Lynn and Sara Royer, Lancaster; and Mary Zeng, daughter of Thomas and Victoria Zeng, Paradise.

The six dairy misses are Angela Becker, daughter of Merle and Janet Becker, Kinzers; Tiffany Donough, of Bainbridge, daughter of Timothy and Brenda Donough; Leslie Hoover, daughter of Carole and Gordon Hoover, Gap; Stephanie Kauffman, Denver, daughter of Harold and Anne Kauffman; and Katelyn Ursery and Adrianne Ranck, daughters of Eldon Ranck and Tammy Ursery, Lancaster.

Rounding out the Lancaster Dairy Promotion team are the youngest members, the dairy darlings, of which there will be seven this year. They include Amelia Jean Barley, daughter of Rob and Shellie Barley of Conestoga; Hannah Breneman of Washington Boro, the daughter of Jim and Renee Breneman; Candice Brubaker, also the daughter of Lowell and Deb Brubaker of Manheim; Toni Kauffman and Terri Kauffman, also the daughters of Harold and Anne Kauffman of Denver; Jennifer Royer, daughter of Lynne and Sara Royer of Lancaster; and Olivia Ursery, daughter of Eldon Ranck and Tammy Ursery of Lancaster.

NOW UPDATED WITH ROADS!

LOST STREAM MAP

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor.

The map is also known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible...a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand, the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 x 5 foot map.

The map sold extremely well -- until it was lost several years later. Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill.

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession. Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Holding an updated map, Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Why every fisherman needs these maps

It is estimated that 10% of all the fishermen catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into. . there's a sure way to up your odds... simply try new fishing waters. Fish where few fishermen ever fish.

Professor Higbee's Stream Maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind... showing virtually all of the streams, rivers and lakes in each state.

4-H HAPPENINGS

Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club

CARLISLE (Cumberland Co.) — The last meeting of the Cumberland County 4-H Dairy Club was held on April 9. Tim Blasco led the Pledge of Allegiance, and Morgan Creek led the 4-H Pledge. Roll call was answered with your favorite thing to do in the spring.

Under new business, the Team Leadership Project and the Cookie-Kickoff were discussed, and Duane Duncan told about Speak-Out Night. The club was reminded that the yellow cards need to be filled out with the names of the animals you are planning to show.

Under old business, the Secretary and Treasurer's Report were read and approved, followed by the County Council Report and the report of the Officers Training. The Harrisburg District Show and the Shippensburg District Show reports were also given. Most of the rules have stayed the same.

The program followed with members performing safety skits and explaining why they were safe or unsafe. Aaron Cornman taught the club about pole vaulting, and Mark Fulton gave a demonstration about the digestive system in a cow.

North Mountain Market Goat Club

The North Mountain Market Goat Club met May 5 at the Dresch farm. Dresch went over how to trim hooves.

Each member took a turn at trimming a goat's hooves with Dresch's supervision to make sure that the members knew what they were doing. He also answered any questions that members had about their goats.

The most recent meeting of the club was May 19 at the Dresch farm. At this meeting, Briana Shealer from the Blue Mountain Livestock Club explained how to prepare your goat for the fair. She had shown animals at the Schuykill County Fair for 12 years and went over different things you should and shouldn't do to your goat.

Briana showed the different members how to cut the goat's hair, trim hooves, and clean and groom it to show.

North Mountain 4-H Club

The last meeting of the North Mountain 4-H Club was held on May 1 at the Water Works Fire Hall.

New Business: The club will be making a fun tunnel for the fair and is also making light-up boards. The Water Works Fire Company is selling green fluorescent mailbox address signs that will be easier to see in case they would need to find your home. Bunny Day at the UCC home in Annville was reported a major success.

Old Business: April 29 at the YMCA, there was swimming party for anybody who sold cookies. April 20-22 there was a preteen retreat. Many of our club members that went learned a lot and had fun meeting new people.

New projects for spring will be back yard poultry, entomology, old tractor restoration, Pigmy goats, sewing and woodworking. The next meeting will be held June 25 at the Water Works Fire Hall.

Backtrackers Horse And Pony Club Offers Schooling Show

NAZARETH (Northampton Co.) — Backtrackers 4-H Horse and Pony Club of Northampton County is sponsoring an Open Youth Schooling Horse Show to be held Saturday, June 2. The show will be held at the Northampton County 4-H Center, Bushkill Center Road, Nazareth. It will start at 9 a.m.

This show is open to any youth between the ages of eight and 18 years. It will offer walk-trot, open, jumping and fun classes throughout the day. Each class is $5 per class or $20 per five classes. All entrants are required to wear a hard hat in all classes. Release forms, negative EIA status, and a rabies certificate are required before entry into the show.

This show is offered as a learning experience for the youth of the area. It will be an informal show, appropriate riding boots and hard hats are required, no T-shirts allowed; neat, but not formal dress required. Entrants will receive help and encouragement throughout the event. Ribbons and awards will be given in each class.

There are age restrictions on certain classes and restrictions throughout divisions in the show. This allows all exhibitors an opportunity to participate and learn.

For more information concerning this show, please call (610) 837-7294.

Cedar Crest FFA Stages Petting Zoo At Elementary School

The Cedar Crest FFA recently organized a petting zoo at the Union Canal Elementary School. This provided a chance for children to learn about farm animals and where their food comes from. Animals that were available were kittens, chicks, turkeys, goats, sheep, a horse, a calf, bunnies, and pigs.

Participating members were: Daniel Eberly, Billie Jo Atkins, Gretchen Artz, Nate Artz, Beth Kreider, Joel Krall, Erik Rheinheimer, Amanda Heffelfinger, Chet Brubaker, Jeremy Balsbaugh, Kyle Seifert, Matt Balmer and Carl Eisenhauer.

Conodoguinet 4-H Sheep Club

The Conodoguinet 4-H sheep club met on April 19. Vice president Austin Durf called the meeting to order. Mike Garman led us in the American pledge and Jeanette Bough led us in the 4-H pledge. The secretary report was approved as submitted. The treasurer report was approved as submitted.

Under old business, the club sold 13 cases of cookies and the county sold 156 cases. Members need to pick up on April 25. The Shippensburg Fair will be held July 22 to 28. The shirts were ordered. We were reminded of weigh in dates and round up. All other non-livestock project is due at the Ag Expo August 8 to 11.

Under new business, Ag Science Day Camp is June 20-21. Speak out night is June 18. The state poster art contest needs to be handed in by June 1. Teen leadership conference is July 10-13. The county is selling shirts and if you are interested, contact the extension office by April 23. The date for our June meeting is on the second. Sonya Rinker and Jeanette Bouch have the program for our May meeting, which is on steers.

Linnea Hoover and Austin Durf presented a program on facts about goats.

Steelman Announces Grant For 4-H Trees Camp

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Rep. Sara Steelman, D-Indiana/Cambria, announced recently the Indiana County Cooperative Extension 4-H group has received a $2,500 grant from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture for the summer day camp, "We All Need Trees."

"This day camp program will educate youth about the value of our state's 17 million acres of forests, which feature 70 different tree species," said Steelman. "Indiana County, one of the largest growers of Christmas trees in the state, will serve as a wonderful host to this program."

Campers will learn about forestry, trees, and related agricultural crops. Potential workshops may include: fruit products from trees, maple syrup production, forest products, careers in forestry, tree identification, Christmas tree harvesting, wood by-products, how to measure trees, and forest habitat judging and evaluation.

"The mentally handicapped children at Camp Sunrise will also be included in this fun and educational program," said Steelman.

"It is necessary to educate our youth with regard to importance of trees as a vital part of the ecological respiratory cycle that keeps us all alive," added Steelman. "The Indiana County 4-H should be applauded for this inventive program."

The grant will allow the Indiana County 4-H to offer three camps for 75 youth during July and August. Sixty youth will be involved as campers and 15 will be recruited as counselors.

Future Hope Schools Wins Envirothon

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — The Conservation Districts of Northumberland, Columbia, Montour, Snyder and Union counties sponsored the Susquehanna Valley Middle School Envirothon. The third annual middle school Envirothon was held on Tuesday, May 15, at PPL Montour Preserve, Washingtonville.

Twenty-five middle school teams from the five county area participated.

Future Hope Home School (adviser, Barb Angstadt) won first place. Mount Carmel Team A (adviser Stephen Bressi) won second place, and Shamokin Team A (advisers Bob Hartman and Jim Hostetter) won third place.

The focus of the Susquehanna Valley Middle School Envirothon is educational, intended to provide students with the opportunity to learn and apply concepts relating to conservation and to make knowledgeable decisions concerning the use of our national resources in the future.

The teams rotated through four testing stations consisting of forestry, wildlife, aquatics, soils and a non-testing station. Each of the stations are conducted by agencies such as the PA Game Commission, PA Fish Commission, PA Bureau of Forestry, and the USDA, Natural Resources Conservation Service.

At each of the testing stations, the agency representatives presents an educational activity or lesson relating to that station. After the presentation, the students take a short test. The non-testing station included an activity relating to deer populations. PPL Montour Preserve provided lunch for the participants and the activity at the non-testing station.

Three Mifflinburg FFA members have been elected to serve as officers of the SUN Area FFA. They are, from left, Lindsay Spangler, vice president; Clint Morris, secretary; and Daphne Catherman, chaplain. They were elected during the SUN Area FFA Leadership Conference April 30 at Christ's United Lutheran Church, Millmont. The team will also serve as officers of the Mifflinburg FFA.

Pa. Legislature Forms Bicycle Caucus

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Rep. Sara Steelman, D-Indiana/Cambria, has been elected co-chairman of the newly formed 19-member Bicycle Caucus. She will co-chair the caucus with Rep. Ed Krebs, R-Lebanon.

The caucus will promote the use of bicycles by all Pennsylvanians for fun, exercise and energy conservation. Caucus members plan to work with government agencies, such as the Pennsylvania Departments of Transportation, Conservation and Natural Resources, Environmental Protection and Community and Economic Development, to ensure that planned programs, such as road construction, take cyclists' interests and safety into account.

The caucus also plans to be involved in educational programs like the Bike/Walk to Work Day held May 18 in Indiana County, in which Steelman participated, as well as make the Keystone Bike Ride instituted by Gov. Thomas Ridge, a permanent event and support events sponsored by members' local bicycling organizations.

"Bicycling is a great way to enjoy the world around you while improving your own health and preventing automotive air pollution," Steelman said.

"This bipartisan caucus, with almost equal numbers of Republicans and Democrats, hopes to work together on an issue that should be completely nonpolitical and can benefit millions of Pennsylvanians."

For more information on bicycling in Pennsylvania, visit PennDOT's Website www.dot.state.pa.us and select "Special Interest Areas" from the menu.

Somerset County FFA Association Presents Awards

GAY BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

BERLIN (Somerset Co) — The Somerset County FFA Association on May 17, held its annual FFA banquet at the Berlin Fire Hall with some 95 members, advisors and guests.

In her address, guest speaker Kristen Phiefer, FFA state secretary, told the audience that no matter what they get involved in they will always be able to pick out qualities of leadership, dedication, determination, and teamwork.

"These are the qualities that will help you in life," Phiefer said, adding that she is a jump roper who started the challenging training in third grade. Years of preparation have gone into jump roping appearances with a group in parades and at other venues.

The G. Floyd Dye Memorial Trophy for parliamentary procedure was presented to the Berlin-Brothersvalley FFA. The Chapter team also won the regional competition and will advance to state competition.

The Berlin-Brothersvalley FFA Chapter also received the Edward P. Shoemaker Memorial Trophy for educational demonstration .

Jennifer Stahl, Somerset FFA Chapter, received the Somerset County Beef Producers Scholarship Award of $300. Annette Knotts made the presentation.

The Somerset Conservation District, represented by Keith Largent, gave checks to the top three Somerset County Conservation speakers, Jennifer Stahl, Somerset; Bobby Taylor, Berlin-Brothersvalley, and Bryon Ansell, Somerset County Technology Center (SCTC).

The skills judging contests included the following results: Dairy Cattle — Luke Horning, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Jennifer Stahl, Somerset;

Rebekah Fox, Berlin-Brothersvalley.

Wildlife — Dustin Kohan, SCTC; Woody Ritz, SCTC; Bryon Ansell, SCTC.

Forestry — Woody Ritz, SCTC; Charles Gindlesperger, SCTC; Rob Rigo, SCTC.

Interview Stephanie Hartman, Berlin-Brothersvalley; David Bittner, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Shauna Porter, Meyersdale.

Livestock — Bob Gomer, Meyersdale; Jenny Fisher, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Julie Weimer, Meyersdale.

Small Gas Engines — Mitch Lohr and Jim Kreger, Somerset; Jonathan Henry and Heath Lohr, Meyersdale; Sam Zorn and Joe Wyant, Berlin-Brothersvalley.

Ag Sales & Service — Stephanie Hartman, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Mike Hay, Somerset; Lacey Coleman, Berlin-Brothersvalley.

Agronomy — Jennifer Stahl, Somerset; Greg Stahl, Somerset; Joe Knotts, Berlin-Brothersvalley.

Land Judging — Kevin Miller, Somerset; Brian Bahorik, Somerset; Greg Stahl, Somerset.

Horse Judging — Stephanie Hartman, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Brandon Stern, Meyersdale; Becky Shaffer, Somerset.

Tractor Driving — Brad Pletcher, Somerset; Jeff Mishler, SCTC; Sam Weimer, Berlin-Brothersvalley.

The 2002 Somerset County Parliamentary Procedure and Public Speaking Contest as follows:

Parliamentary Procedure — Berlin-Brothersvalley, Somerset County Technology Center, Somerset. Chairperson was Doyle Paul and the judges were Jessica Landis, Joanna Wilson and Tiffany Robertson.

Creed Speaking — Crystal Shifflet, Meyersdale Steve Bush, Somerset; Stephanie Landis, Berlin-Brothersvalley. Chairperson was Tom Willey. Judges were Jay Shaffer and John Hartman.

FFA Junior Public Speaking — Ron Thomas, SCTC; Becky Hittie, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Jody Glessner, SCTC. Chairperson was James Harrold. Judges were Mel Kirk and Sarah Ecker.

Prepared FFA Public Speaking Contest — Stephanie Hartman, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Jared Hillegass, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Jennifer Decker, Meyersdale. Chairperson was James Harrold. Judges were Penny Stahl, Roger Platt, and Betty Brant.

Extemporaneous Public Speaking — Heath Lohr, Meyersdale; Joe Knotts, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Shauna Porter, Meyersdale. Chairperson was Jim Stutzman. Judges were Howard Nicklow, R. Dean Hillegass and Rev. Owen Preston.

Conservation Public Speaking — Jennifer Stahl, Somerset; Bobby Taylor, Berlin-Brothersvalley; Bryon Ansell, SCTC. Chairperson was James Harrold. Judges were Keith Largent, Cindy Brant, and Susan Moon.

Plaques were presented to the 2000-2001 officers: Todd Custer, SCTC, president; Lance Bittner, Berlin-Brothersvalley, vice-president; Lacey Coleman, Berlin-Brothersvalley, secretary; Steve Brode, SCTC, treasurer; Sarah Hoover, Meyersdale, reporter; Josh Slifco, Meyersdale, chaplain; Jason Paugh, Somerset, parliamentarian; Kevin Miller, Somerset, sentinel.

Officer installation for 2001-2002 selected David Bittner, Berlin-Brothersvalley, president; Dustin Kohan, SCTC, vice-president; Jenny Fisher, Berlin-Brothersvalley, secretary; Greg Stahl, Somerset, treasurer; Jennifer Decker, Meyersdale, reporter; Kevin Miller, Somerset, chaplain; Charles Gindlesperger, parliamentarian; Jarred Murray, Meyersdale, sentinel.

In sports Berlin-Brothersvalley was awarded the basketball trophy. Meyersdale was awarded the volleyball trophy.

Millionaire Characteristics Explained

Millionaires are getting a lot of attention these days with popular game shows and best-selling books. This article is based on the research results reported in three recent books. Each book discusses characteristics of households with a million dollars or more of net worth. The books are "The Millionaire Next Door" by Thomas Stanley and William Danko, "Getting Rich in America" by Dwight Lee and Richard McKenzie, and "Eight Steps to Seven Figures" by Charles Carlson.

Let's begin with some highlights from "The Millionaire Next Door." You cannot tell a millionaire necessarily by looking at one. Many people with expensive possessions are not wealthy, and many wealthy people do not own expensive items. Self discipline, or living below their means, is a common characteristic of millionaires.

Living frugally has helped many millionaires accumulate wealth. Stanley and Danko found that many were not interested in a lifestyle of consumption and high-status items. Instead, they tended to plan their spending and follow a "pay yourself first" strategy of regular saving. They are also goal-oriented, maximize tax breaks, and have relatively low expenses for housing.

In the book "The Millionaire Next Door," there is a formula to determine whether you're wealthy for your age and income. Simply multiply your age by pretax income from all sources except an inheritance. Then divide by 10. This is what your wealth should be. For example, a 35 year old with a $40,000 income should have a net worth of at least $140,000 (35 x $40,000 = $1,400,000 divided by 10 = $140,000.)

In the book, "Getting Rich in America," authors Lee and McKenzie studied government data about wealthy households, as well as actual millionaires themselves. Based on their research, they summarized the secrets of millionaires' success into eight rules. The rules include lifestyle decisions as well as financial ones. For example, they urge readers to get a good education and spend less than they earn.

Lee and McKenzie found a strong correlation between wealth and education. People who learn skills that are in demand by employers are in an especially advantageous position. Workers today should never consider their education finished. Instead, new knowledge and skills especially computer literacy are a must.

Another characteristic of successful millionaires is that they leverage the awesome power of compound interest to grow their money. Most people simply don't earn enough to become wealthy without compounding. Three key principles are to save part of what you earn starting early in life, achieve a reasonable rate of return, and be patient and allow money to grow over time.

Good physical health can also contribute to financial wealth. This means eating right, exercising, and getting adequate rest. Healthy people are more productive and are more likely to get promoted and earn more. They also live longer and get a better return on money contributed to savings plans and Social Security.

How To Plan To Make Retirement Savings Last

RUTGERS, N.J. — A common concern of retirees is outliving their income. Many people are unsure about how much income to withdraw each month to supplement their pension and/or Social Security. They are afraid to take "too much" lest they live to a ripe old age.

Tables exist in many personal finance books to assist with retirement withdrawal decisions. These tables show the number of years that a sum of money will last with a given rate of return and rate of withdrawal.

There are two key points to remember: If you withdraw money at an annual rate that is less than your rate of return, you will never deplete your principal (for example, if you withdraw five percent (1/20 of your retirement fund annually and it is earning seven percent). This takes some planning and aggressive investing, such as more stock in your portfolio, over a decade or more to achieve but is important if you want to be sure not to outlive your assets or leave an inheritance or charitable donations.

If you withdraw money at an annual rate that is more than your rate of return, you will eventually run out of money. The table below from Bruce Webber, Inc. shows how long $100,000 will last given the withdrawal of constant monthly income amounts. The illustration assumes a four percent annual inflation rate and shows rates of return ranging from 6-11 percent. The period over which money will last is shown in years/months.

	Rates of Return
	6%	7%	8%	9%	10%	11%
Monthly Income (Inflation Adjusted)	Period In Years/Months
$ 500	20/7	23/3	27/3	34/4	56/0	forever
$ 600	16/6	18/2	20/4	23/5	28/5	40/0
$ 700	13/10	14/11	16/3	18/0	20/6	24/3
$ 800	11/10	16/3	13/7	14/9	16/2	18/2
$ 900	10/5	11/0	11/8	12/6	13/6	14/9

USDA Reports Benefits Of Farm-To-School Alliances

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently issued a report on "How Local Farmers and School Food Service Buyers Are Building Alliances."

The report summarizes the discussions and findings of the USDA-sponsored Small Farm School Meals Initiative Southeast Regional Workshop, held May 1, in Georgetown, Ky.

The report notes that 94 percent of all farms in the United States can be categorized as small or limited-resource farms, grossing less than $250,000 annually. To enhance the earning potential of these farms, AMS has taken steps to facilitate direct marketing between small and limited-resource agricultural producers and local school districts.

The report addresses the importance and benefits of farm-to-workshop marketing, product preferences of the school food service buyer, factors that influence a school food service buyer's choice of vendor, potential barriers faced by the small producer, recommended approaches for breaking into the school food service market, and case studies of successful farm-to-school marketing initiatives.

While the report's focus is on the experience of small farmers and school food service directors in Kentucky, North Carolina, the Florida Panhandle, and Southern California, many of their experiences may apply to other regions of the country.

Copies of the report may be requested from Debra Tropp, AMS transportation and Marketing Programs, USDA Stop 0266, 1400 Independence Avenue S.W, Washington, D.C. 20250-0266; phone (202) 720-2704; fax (202) 690-4948; or e-mail Debra.Tropp@usda.gov mailto:Debra.Tropp@usda.gov.

Creaky Farmhouse Becomes Real-Life Roach Hotel

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Far from the antiseptic and pristine campus laboratories of Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, an urban entomologist is looking for a good home for a thriving brood of cockroaches.

Don't worry, Glenn Holbrook, assistant professor of entomology, isn't coming anywhere near your neighborhood. He's already found his new roach hotel — er, laboratory — in an old house on Penn State farmland.

"This structure is perfect for studying urban insect infestations because it's off by itself with no surrounding houses," Holbrook says. "While not decrepit, this old farmhouse is in about the same shape as many of the homes where we find large roach infestations — it adds an air of realism to our studies."

Located on property near the University Park Airport, the house will be used to track a growing population of German cockroaches, the primary roach species found indoors in Pennsylvania.

Holbrook's research will concentrate on the social organization of cockroach populations. If researchers can understand the factors influencing where cockroaches live within a structure, then they can predict the best areas for pesticide applications or other control measures.

"People think roaches live in the kitchen, but the reality is much more complex," Holbrook says. "Structural pests are unpredictable. Entomologists are much more advanced in understanding the behavior of agricultural pests."

Holbrook's farmhouse lab will be specially equipped to allow researchers to observe its insect occupants. Cupboard doors will be replaced with clear plastic doors and most of the lightbulbs in the house will be replaced with red bulbs. "Cockroaches can't see red," Holbrook explains. "So we can work and see within the house and roaches still think it's dark."

Researchers also may use night-vision goggles and replace some interior walls with clear plastic materials.

Nearby housing developments do not have to worry about a migrating roach population from Penn State's farmland, Holbrook says. German cockroaches do not migrate outside of warm structures, so infestation from an isolated farmhouse is unlikely.

Holbrook says the farmhouse also will be used to study other urban insect pests, such as ants.

How Cockroaches Enter Houses, Where To Find Them

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Nothing inspires more disgust than the sight of a cockroach crawling across your floor, but an entomologist in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences says homeowners often inadvertently invite these critters into their homes.

"German cockroaches, which are the most common type of cockroach found indoors in Pennsylvania, do not travel outside of structures," says Glenn Holbrook, assistant professor of entomology. "Homeowners often bring cockroaches into their homes in containers from infested warehouses, stores or other homes."

Holbrook says the nymph stage cockroach is quite small and can be transported into homes in paper bags and particularly cardboard boxes. Cockroach nymphs often settle in the corrugated passageways in cardboard containers.

"Roaches love to live in small places where they can feel surrounding walls over their entire body, so cardboard is perfect for them," Holbrook says. "The best bet is to leave any boxes from stores or from friends outside."

Holbrook says roaches can hide in any kind of box, regardless of its contents. "They can hide in an electronics box as well as in a box containing food," he says. "Many warehouses and warehouse-style retail store food containers and other merchandise together."

Once cockroaches are in your house, Holbrook says there are several likely places to look for them.

- Kitchens. The availability of food makes this the first place to look for cockroaches. "Cockroaches don't need much — after all, they're scavengers," Holbrook says.
- Bedrooms. If homeowners like to eat in bed or keep glasses of water at the bedside, these habits might attract roaches.
- Pet areas. Holbrook says the most often overlooked food source for cockroaches is pet food. He recommends feeding the pet once, cleaning out the food dish every day and never leaving pet food out overnight. "We raise research cockroaches in our labs and do you know what we feed them?" he says. "Dog food. They love it."

Teasing, Bullying And Sexual Harassment

Teasing is not uncommon among both children and adults. It's different from bullying, however, because teasing is gentle, lighthearted, and intended in jest. Bullying is mean spirited and intended to hurt even when it's verbal.

Among younger children, boys tend to bully other boys, and girls subject other girls to bullying. However, when boys bully girls, it is very different from the teasing common between boys and girls when boys yanked on girls' braids. In those days, such behavior was thought to be the boy's bid for attention from the girl in question. Today when boys, and sometimes girls, bully girls, the behavior and the language used is increasingly sexually oriented.

Girls develop earlier and quicker than do boys as evidenced by 11-year-old girls who tower over their male classmates.

The onset of puberty with its obvious changes can be frightening for both the early bloomer and her classmates. It is not uncommon for these girls to become the targets of verbal taunting about their new appearance. The taunting may include "mooing" when a physically developed girl has to stand up in class or is being called names with sexual meaning.

When this is allowed to go on, both girls and boys think it's acceptable to make mean spirited remarks that call attention to physical appearance. All bullying is totally unacceptable and is well beyond pigtail pulling.

The bullying described here is considered sexual harassment today.

Teachers, camp directors, youth leaders and others who work with youth in groups need to be vigilant, note these behaviors, and take steps to ensure the group understands they will not be tolerated.

Bullying and sexual harassment are not only disruptive in-group settings, they are wrong and cannot continue. Sadly, researchers are finding a strong correlation between teasing or bullying in the elementary grades and sexual harassment in later school grades.

It would seem that the basic tenets of consideration for others and plain good manners, when taught and practiced, will do much to make classrooms, camps and other youth group setting comfortable, safe places for all.

Take Steps To Control Ornamental Plant Diseases

WOOSTER, Ohio — Homeowners and garden professionals should be taking steps now to control several ornamental plant diseases that can be problematic during wet spring weather, recommends an Ohio State University Extension agent.

Jim Chatfield, a northeast district horticulture specialist, said apple scab of crabapple, black spot of rose, and Volutella leaf blight of pachysandra (a ground cover plant) are major fungal diseases that typically don't kill the plants, but are damaging enough to be an eyesore.

Apple scab causes yellowing and discoloration of crabapple foliage, wilt, leaf drop, and scabby lesions on the fruit. Chatfield said apple scab can be controlled through fungicide applications, but the timing is critical. "The idea time to apply fungicides would be when the petals of flowering crabapples first begin to fall." In Wooster, he said, crabapples are beginning to flower now and will probably peak in early May. "If you wait until you see the fungus on the leaves, then it's too late, and you're not going to be able to get rid of it."

Though fungicides are available to treat crabapples against the disease, Chatfield said the best method of control is to plant disease-resistant varieties. "The disease is easily controlled, easily dealt with, with good genetic resistance," he said. "The key is to pick a crabapple with the desired characteristics and has good resistance to apple scab."

Research conducted last year at Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center's Secrest Arboretum in Wooster found that 33 of the 63 crabapple cultivars studied showed little or no susceptibility to apple scab. Chatfield said last year was a heavy year for apple scab due to the extremely wet spring. Cultivars found resistant to the disease include "Adirondack," "Camelt," "Dolgo," "Excalibur," "Foxfire," "Golden Raindrops," "Hamlet," "King Arthur," "Purple Prince," "Silver Moon," and "Strawberry Parfait."

Black spot of rose produces round-to-irregular black splotches and yellowing on the leaves. Leaf defoliation is common and repeated defoliation weakens the plant, leading to poor blooming and greater sensitivity to other stresses.

Chatfield said that some of the favorite varieties for rose lovers are prone to black spot, hence, fungicide applications may be a consideration. "The timing again is critical, though," he said. "You need to start spraying as soon as the leaves emerge and continue to spray throughout the summer. As long as it stays wet, the disease will be hard to control."

Good sanitation practices are also the key to keeping rose plants free of the disease, or at least, under control. Chatfield recommends removing diseased leaves and canes to help limit the black spot fungus. He also advises against using sprinkle irrigation to water the plants, as the wet condition leads to the spread of the disease. "Try to just water the base or use trickle irrigation instead," he said. "Also, if you do use sprinklers, turn them on in the evening so that the leaves can dry during the heat of the day."

Disease-resistant rose varieties include "Charlotte Armstrong," "First Prize," "Granada," "Pink Peace," "Carousel," "First Edition," "Goldilocks Impatient," "All that Jazz," "Baby Betsy McCall," "Gourmet Popcorn," and "Polyantha."

Volutella leaf blight of pachysandra causes leaves to develop brown blotches and eventual dieback of the plant. Chatfield said the disease is hard to control since pachysandra flourishes best in dense, shady areas where it constantly stays moist. "Good sanitation practices are important. Remove diseased leaves and stems," he said. "If the disease gets too bad, you can always mow the pachysandra bed to a height of about three-inches. It won't rid the plant of the disease, but it will help control it."

Chatfield said the best thing people can do to control for any plant disease is to devise ways to stop its development at a source that can lead to infection. "There are three things that are needed for an infectious plant disease to occur: a virulent pathogen, a susceptible host and an environment conducive to disease," he said. "If you can find ways to halt the development of the disease at any one of those sources, then you can effectively control it."

This curio cabinet made of solid mahogany dates to the late 1800s.

1890-1910 Piano Player Predates Player Piano

Saranna Miller, Marietta, said that most piano players, made between 1890-1910 disappeared. This cumbersome piano player needed to be rolled adjacent to a piano so that its back fingers could play the piano keyboard. It required music rolls similar to those used in player pianos, which soon became popular.

Take Another Look At Mahogany

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family
Features Editor

LITITZ (Lancaster Co.) — "We are selling nostalgia and memories and throwing the furniture in for nothing," said Chuck Hopwood of the resurgent interest in mahogany furniture.

Theoretically, furniture should be 100 years old to be considered antique, but mahogany from the 1930s-1940s is a growing niche at antique markets.

Hopwood and his son Gary specialize in mahogany furniture, buying, selling, and refinishing.

"We got into by accident," said the elder Hopwood. 'I was in retailing and as a hobby refinished furniture."

But retailing became less and less fun, and in the 1960s, Hopwood went full time into refinishing furniture, which eventually opened up other doors for him. Whenever customers came into his shop to pick up furniture, they'd notice other pieces he was refinishing for customers, and ask him if the pieces were for sale. To satisfy customers' request, Hopwood started picking up pieces, refinishing them, and selling them.

"We wanted something different. We didn't want to look like every other antique shop," Hopwood said of their decision to specialize in mahogany from the 1930s-1940s.

"The quality and style of furniture from that era is amazingly similar regardless of the company that made it," Hopwood said.

Although some people believe that veneer woods are a modern development, Hopwood said that veneer wood goes back to Egyptian times. "Some of the finest antiques are veneered. Wood was veneered for several reasons. Because availability of mahogany wood was scarce, veneering enabled a little to go a long way. Design work also required veneering. Many fine pieces of furniture incorporated a variety of woods, including mahogany, for inlaid design work.

Mahogany was used extensively in fine, ornate furniture during the 1700s-1800s. In furniture, as in art, there are no absolutely abrupt changes, but one style is overshadowed by another.

These shield-back chairs retain formality but are an example of mass produced chairs made of more affordable wood and covered with a thin mahogany veneer.

Victorian and Napoleon Empire styles are said to be Americanized because it was simplified for purposes of mass production. Bulky blocks of pine and other inexpensive woods were cut and covered with thin sheets of mahogany. The machine-made products using low-cost materials provided furniture for the masses at an affordable cost.

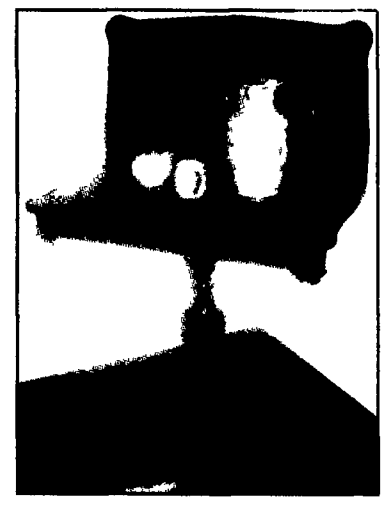
While market demands for cherry and oak woods have been popular for the past several decades, Hopwood said that he and several other dealers predicted that mahogany would make a comeback. "Some of those dealers began squirreling away pieces when you could practically pick it up for nothing," he said. "It's getting harder and harder to find a bargain."

Through trial and error, the Hopwoods have developed a finishing stain that matches the original mahogany pieces that need refinishing. But the Hopwoods have found that furniture can often be cleaned up without refinishing. Even badly scratched veneers can be repaired.

"In less than 10 percent of cases, a deeply scratched veneer must be re-veneered," Hopwood said.

The Hopwoods operate a shop at 321 N. Duke St., York, which is open daily 7 a.m.-5 p.m., and weekends from 9 a.m.-noon.

The Hopwoods call this their "Wazzup?" chair. "It's a puzzle," Hopwood said. The top part is definitely Victorian with its hand carved northwind face, but the bottom is a reproduction piece that doesn't match the ornately carved top piece. Although not an authentic antique, the unique chair is an eye-catcher at shows.



This fliptop table turns and opens to reveal compartments for holding cards and counters.

Fans Plain And Fancy Pleased The Ladies

There was a time when fans of every type were used for many occasions. These days they are, for the most part, expensive rarities, framed and displayed on walls. A single, dismounted fan leaf, c. 1720, listed in the 2001 Miller's Price Guide, is valued at more than $6,500.

Not only the age, but the exquisite paintings determined the price. Not all are so pricey. At a recent Skinner auction a 19th century Continental painted and carved ivory fan sold for $920. Others sold for far less.

The first known Chinese fans were made during the Han Dynasty (207 B.C.-A.D. 220). However, the Japanese supposedly invented the folding fan.

In China, both men and women considered the fan an important status symbol and accessory. Only the finest materials were used for the fan sticks and ribs such as wood, bamboo, and ivory. Those early fans were made of flat, woven bamboo, feathers or silk. The silk was stretched over a circular frame and embroidered or painted. These were known as screen fans. Another type was used for ceremonies. It was the same shape as the screen fan, but larger and mounted on a long handle.

Most familiar to collectors is the folding screen first made in the 10th century. By the Ming Dynasty (1368-1644), the fan was treated as a canvas by famous artists of the time. By the late 16th century, Europeans discovered fans, as trade developed between China and Europe. The Chinese influence on porcelain and furniture became fashionable as "Chinoiserie," Chinese motifs and subjects created by Europeans. The Chinese fans originally brought back by sailors as souvenirs became high fashion and were copied by French and Italian artists, but mounted on carved ivory fan sticks from China.

Clues: The 17th century fans made by the Chinese for export were painted with colors and motifs similar to the famille verte porcelain and Chinese Imari colors, painted silk and paper fans were exported by the hundreds by the 19th century. Subjects were often scenes from popular western prints, as well as Chinese insects, birds and nature themes. Landscapes were often of Chinese seaports.

A careful study of the quality of the painting helps identify whether the fan is Chinese or European. The Chinese fans have a delicacy of brushwork, that their Chinoiserie counterparts lacked.

Always examine any Oriental fan with a magnifying glass. You may be surprised to find "Made in Japan" printed in tiny letters on the fansticks.

From the late 17th to the early 19th century, the cockade-shaped fan (round) was made of pieced and sculpted ivory. The intricate carving of this pierced and sculpted ivory has the look of delicate lace.

Another type of fan is the "brise." It was made from sticks of ivory, tortoiseshell, lacquered wood trimmed with gold joined with silk ribbons. These were extremely difficult to carve and are among the most costly, especially when trimmed with silver gilt and enamel.

Beginning in 1868, high quality fans were made in Weymouth Landing, Mass. Fan make Edmund Soper Hunt made the first major improvement in fans, which he patented in 1869. The fanleaf and fan sticks were put together in one process including folding or "creasing" the fanleaf and gluing the leaf to the sticks. He also created a method of gold-leafing his carved wooden fan sticks. These were often made of silk or white satin trimmed with gold sequins. They were used by brides and social leaders.

In the 1870s, thousands of Hunt's fans were exported to France. Many have returned to the U.S. as visitors from America brought back what they believed were French fans.

U.S. Apple Industry Requests Greater Enforcement of Duties On Chinese Apple Juice Concentrate

MCLEAN, Va. — The U.S. apple industry recently requested that the U.S. Department of Commerce extend antidumping duties on imports of Chinese apple-juice concentrate to include so-called frozen concentrate imports, to prevent Chinese suppliers from further injuring the U.S. industry by illegally evading the duties.

The U.S. government levied antidumping duties of up to 52 percent on Chinese concentrate imports in May 2000, following the Commerce Department and U.S. International Trade Commission's rulings that Chinese concentrate was sold in the U.S. market at prices below production costs causing economic harm to U.S. concentrate producers — a practice called dumping.

The U.S. apple industry has been devastated in recent years by a flood of unfairly priced concentrate imports from China, which displaced sales of U.S.-produced concentrate and U.S.-grown juice apples.

"U.S. apple growers and concentrate producers are still being held hostage, first by Chinese dumping and now by the Chinese skirting U.S. trade laws," said U.S. Apple Association (USApple) President and CEO Kraig R. Naasz, whose group spearheaded the apple industry's antidumping complaint against China. "We want the U.S. government to enforce our nation's trade laws, and to require that China respect and adhere to those laws."

The U.S. government's ruling and subsequent levying of antidumping duties on Chinese imports have helped to offset Chinese dumping. However, some Chinese suppliers are avoiding the tariff by shipping chilled concentrate to the U.S. duty-free, or by chilling Chinese concentrate shipped to Canada and re-exporting it duty-free to the United States. U.S. trade law prohibits the "circumvention" of antidumping duties in this manner.

Imports of Chinese concentrate dropped 31 percent after the industry filed its antidumping complaint in June 1999, from 53.8 million single strength equivalent (SSE) gallons in 1998 to 37.3 million SSE gallons in 1999. While the volume of imported Chinese concentrate rebounded in 2000 to 50.2 million SSE gallons an increase of 35 percent compared to 1999, but still seven percent below 1998 — the value has increased substantially. The average value of Chinese concentrate was $4.14 per gallon in 1998, $5.81 per gallon in 1999 and $6.29 per gallon in 2000 reflecting the upward impact of antidumping duties on the cost of Chinese concentrate.

Prior to the antidumping case, U.S. concentrate producers were forced to slash their prices, and to drastically reduce the price they paid to U.S. growers for juice apples. Imports of Chinese concentrate increased by 1,200 percent between 1995 and 1998. During that same time period, the average price of Chinese concentrate imports declined by 53 percent from $7.65 per gallon in 1995 to a low-water mark of $3.57 per gallon in 1998.

The average price for U.S. apple juice concentrate fell by more than 50 percent between 1995 and 1998, while the average price received by U.S. growers for juice apples fell by 64 percent, from $153 per ton in 1995 to $55 per ton in 1998. U.S. apple growers lost more than $135 million in revenue from the decline in juice-apple prices, according to U.S. Department of Agriculture statistics.

In a related development, the U.S. apple industry filed a rebuttal brief with the U.S. Court of International Trade in New York City on April 6, joining the U.S. Department of Justice in defending the U.S. government's antidumping ruling against appeal. Chinese concentrate suppliers appealed the Commerce Department's antidumping ruling to the U.S. Court of International Trade in July 2000, and filed their plaintiffs' brief with the court in January of this year.

Chinese suppliers are arguing that the Commerce Department violated U.S. trade law in arriving at its antidumping decision; whereas the Justice Department and the apple industry are arguing that the Commerce Department's decision is firmly grounded in both precedent and U.S. trade law.

Appealing Chinese suppliers are required to submit their reply brief by May 7. Oral arguments, if required by the court, will likely occur this June. The court's final decision is likely to be announced this fall. In the meantime, the Commerce Department's decision remains in effect and the U.S. Customs Service will continue to collect antidumping duties on imported Chinese concentrate.

SNYDER COUNTY FARM REAL ESTATE AUCTION

SAT., JUNE 30, 2001
12 NOON

Located between Troxelville and Penns Creek on the Troxelville Road, Center Twp., Snyder County. Follow signs day of auction.

SNYDER COUNTY DAIRY & VEAL FARM

Tract 1: A 44 acre surveyed working dairy and veal farm divided by hardtop road with 25 acres level productive tillable farmground, 7 acres woodland, small stream and 8 acres hi-tensil fenced pastureland, erected thereon a large 2-story frame, 5 bedroom remodeled farmhouse with large modern eat-in kitchen, full bath, large living room, sunroom and laundry. Also erected a 40x80 38-stall bank barn with attached loafing shed, feed room and milkhouse. Barn offers comfort stalls, ventilation, gutter cleaner, feed room with stationary TMR, a 14'x60' concrete stave silo with unloader, exterior feed bins. Milking equipment includes like-new 800 gal. DeLaval bulk tank and a Universal 5 unit stainless steel pipeline milking system. Other buildings include a 200-stall center feed veal barn with attached implement shed, a 2-story chicken house and wooded corn shed with workshop. This property also has drilled well, on-site sewage, 2 Waste Management approved manure pits and additional 100 acres rented farm ground available and many other updated farming extras. Owners are moving, crops are planted for this year and available to the new owner. Plan now to attend.

BUILDING LOT

Tract 2 - A 3.069 acre rectangular, level building lot bordering state road. An excellent building site with beautiful view.

Showing Dates: June 9, 16 & 23, 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. or call (570) 837-0411 for appointment. Real Estate Terms: 10% down, balance due in 30 days.

PUBLIC AUCTION

Monday Evening, June 25, 2001
5:00 p.m.

LEITZEL & KLINE AUCTIONEERS

Located approximately 40 miles North of Harrisburg, PA. Near the Village of Seven Starts, PA (Juniata County), along Route 235, 1/10 mile East of the Seven Stars Store. Auction will be held along Route 235 at the start of the right of way.

REAL ESTATE

Approximately 54 acres +/- of land located in Juniata County, Greenwood Township. The land was timbered in the seventies making ideal cover for deer, turkeys, and other wildlife. It is located along and on top of a small ridge. The land is secluded but does have a deeded right of way off Route 235. Also, there was a perk test approved for a sand mound and is good until 2004. There will be a tour of the property available on June 9th and June 16th at 12:00 noon or call the following numbers for information (717) 589-7662 between 8:30 and 9:30 p.m. or call (717) 580-8856 (voicemail doesn't work).

Terms: 10% down with balance in 45 days. Other terms made known sale day.

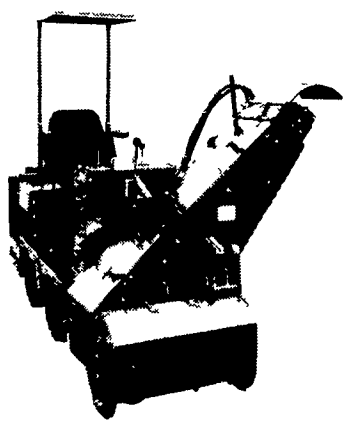
Automate Fly Control With The Shoveler

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — After three years of development and field testing, O'Mark, Inc., located here, introduces the Shoveler, a revolutionary machine which allows egg producers to control fly populations in high-rise layer houses.

Shoveling, one of the most effective methods of fly control, has now been automated.

The Shoveler is a four-wheel-drive, hydraulic-powered tractor that mechanizes the shoveling process. In less than one hour, the Shoveler can be maneuvered throughout all the pit walkways of an average sized house, consistently transferring dry matter onto the wet manure piles.

This process denies the fly its egg laying area, which results in a drastic reduction of the fly count. This decrease is achieved naturally, thus diminishing the use of chemicals.



The Shoveler allows egg producers to control fly populations in high-rise layer houses.

ErReR Hill Farms Hosts Second Annual Cattle Sale

BOSWELL (Somerset Co.) — ErReR Hill Farms, a division of Riggs Industries, Inc., hosted its second Performance Tested Angus Bull and Commercial Female Sale April 28. Close to 100 people from Pennsylvania and surrounding states attended the auction that took place at the farm in Lincoln Township.

Several of the bulls sold at the auction were headed for as far off as Kentucky. The auction, the only one of its type in Somerset County, featured performance tested Angus bulls, cows, and commercial bred females.

The sale was auctioneered by Col. John Spiker of West Virginia, and by the end of the afternoon, 34 bulls, 27 heifers, and 10 cows and bred heifers had been sold. Many buyers also took advantage of the farm's offer for free delivery within a 100 mile radius. The next two events at the farm will include a Pennsylvania Angus Field Day on August 11 and a "Striving for Perfection" Quality Female Sale on November 10.

ErReR Hill Farms, a well-known and respected breeder of Angus bulls, has been raising Angus cattle for over 40 years and currently has six bulls leased to AI stud cooperatives. The farm is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Riggs. Their registered and accredited Angus herd of cattle currently consists of approximately 10 bulls, 170 cows, and 70 replacement heifers.

For more information on ErReR Hill Farms, please contact Shahira Hoffman, 422 Riggs Road, Somerset, PA 15501, (814) 443-1691, ext. 355, (800) 262-6578, e-mail skh@lseci.com or visit the farm's Website at www.errer-.com.

The elite MVP Award (Major Volume Performer) recognizes the company's top dealers who have achieved bronze, silver, gold or platinum levels of sales and performance objectives during 2000.

J-Star Industries of Fort Atkinson, Wis. markets a complete line of Oswalt® and Roto-Mix® feed mixers; Waste Handler™ liquid manure pumps and liquid manure spreader tanks, Jamesway®, Van Dale® and Starline® silo unloaders, cattle feeders, conveyors, barn cleaners and roller mills and DigiStar® electronics scale systems for the dairy and beef producers of North America.

New Features Improve NH 70A Series Tractors

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Continuing in the tradition of the popular New Holland 70 Series tractors, New Holland's new 70A Series replaces the 70 Series with improved features that include electro-hydraulics on all models, new controls on the Sidewinder™ console, a new joystick control for more efficient front-end loader work and dynamic front fenders. As with the 70 Series, the 70A Series models range from 145-PTO hp to 210-PTO hp.

All 70A Series tractors have electro-hydraulic controls. The electro-hydraulic remote valves offer in-cab flow control adjustment and timed detents, which allow the operator to program the tractor to deliver oil for a specified period of time and switch off the oil supply. This gives the operator more control during seeding applications.

The roomy, comfortable cab is even more convenient with new controls on the Sidewinder™ console. The electro-hydraulic controls can now be operated with push buttons instead of a lever. Additionally, an optional joystick is now available as a dealer-installed accessory for more efficient front-end loader work.

As with the 70 Series, the Sidewinder movable console allows the operator to easily adjust controls for maximum comfort. The major controls, including the shift lever, throttle, three-point hitch, hydraulic remotes, PTO, EDC and other controls, are close at hand on the movable console.

The 70A Series features a new heavy-duty Carraro front axle. This axle provides optional full front axle differential lock for improved pulling power. New dynamic front fenders are designed to move along with the tires during turns.

Like the 70 Series, the 70A Series features a smooth, 16x9 powershift transmission with a large selection of timesaving programmable features. The New Holland engine produces an impressive torque rise of up to 55 percent for consistent pulling power in tough conditions.

The 70A Series also features New Holland's exclusive Super-Steer™ FWD axle with superior turnaround diameter. Super-Steer eliminates "lightbulb" and three-point turns, saving time and fuel. No other tractor can make a simple U-turn when working in 20-inch and 22-inch row spacings.

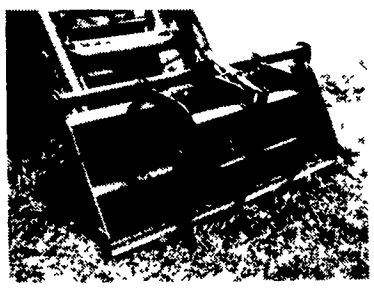
And, 70A Series tractors feature high hydraulic flow (31 gpm standard, 55 gpm with optional Megaflow™). Megaflow gives operators the ability to operate a high-flow, low-pressure system on one circuit and a low-flow, high-pressure system on another, to power air seeders, potato harvesters, beet harvesters, multi-tool implements and grain carts without the risk of overheating.

Grapple Kit For Use On Compact Tractor Loaders

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — ATI Corporation has introduced the GK-4866 Grapple Kit for use on compact tractor loaders, which permits a new class of tractor to take advantage of the benefits of a grapple.

The GK-4866 Grapple Kit from ATI Corporation lets operators work their compact tractor loaders easily with bulky materials such as brush, loose hay, leaves, bales, bark mulch, and manure. A full, 26-inch jaw opening (varies according to bucket) "bites" into big pieces.

The GK-4866 Grapple Attachment can be added to any standard 48-inch to 66-inch compact tractor bucket. It can be mounted or removed easily.



GK-4866 Grapple Kit permits a new class of tractor to take advantage of the benefits of a grapple.

Only eight bolts secure it to a bucket. Just drill four holes in each bucket end. When removed, no brackets are left behind. No additional modifications need to be made to the bucket or loader. For more permanent installation, the grapple can be welded in place. The cylinder requires power from a tractor remote valve.

The kit's torque tube is made from 2½-inch, schedule 40 tubing, for strength. Large, 3/8-inch-thick grapple hooks and greaseable, 1-inch hinge pins are used to insure long life. Clamping power comes from a 1¾-inch by 6-inch hydraulic cylinder, mounted in line with the grapple hook, for durability.

The GK-4866 is very rugged. However, it weighs only 137 pounds to conserve maximum bucket payload and be light enough for shipment by Fed Ex ground or UPS.

GIPSA Verifies Performance Of StarLink™ Test Kit

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA Grain Inspection, Packers, and Stockyards Administration (GIPSA) announced that it evaluated a test kit for the determination of StarLink™ corn in corn grain.

GIPSA performed its evaluation on the Strategic Diagnostics, Inc. GMO™ Bt9 Maize Kit (Part No. 7110030) and concluded that the performance of the kit meets the manufacturer's claims of the identification of one StarLink™ corn kernel in 10,000 corn kernels.

GIPSA's verification of tests is performed on grain only as opposed to processed foods. GIPSA verified the test detects the presence of StarLink™. The quantitative claims by the manufacturer were not verified.

GIPSA began offering official testing service for StarLink™ on November 15, 2000, after the grain markets expressed the need for government backed testing and to ensure that corn export markets that have specific restrictions on the import of corn containing StarLink™ are fulfilled. StarLink™ is a variety of corn developed by Aventis Crop Science that incorporates biotechnical modification to control insect damage. StarLink™ is approved for animal feed and industrial use only and is no longer available as seed for production.

GIPSA's acting administrator David Shipman stated that GIPSA's evaluation of rapid test kits helps grain markets make more informed decisions about the grain being bought and sold.

For more information on StarLink™ testing services, see GIPSA's Website at http://www.usda.gov/gipsa/biotech/starlink/starlink.htm. For information on test kit performance evaluation and laboratory accreditation services, visit http://www.usda.gov/gipsa/biotech/evalaccredit.htm.

Attachment Designed For Bobcat Excavator Attachments

WEST FARGO, N.D. — Bobcat Company, the leading designer and manufacturer of attachments for compact equipment, has announced the new Bobcat® Loader X-Change Mount, which allows a number of Bobcat compact excavator attachments to be used on Bobcat loaders.

Ideal for rental yards or contractors using both Bobcat loaders and compact excavators interchangeably, the new system improves utilization by allowing operators to mount the same attachment on either tool carrier.

The Bobcat Cutter Crusher and Hydraulic Breaker attachments are the first to be introduced using the Bobcat Loader X-Change Mount. Bobcat Company well expand the Loader X-Change Mount to other Bobcat attachments, including trenchers and augers.

Farm Credit Council Reports System's Success, Suggests Changes For Future

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "In addition to fostering competition for agricultural loans, Farm Credit gives producers and their cooperatives an opportunity to own their own lender," said Jay Penick, president and CEO of Northwest Farm Credit Services, in testimony before the Senate Agriculture committee on agricultural credit conditions. "Farm Credit has a specific, but critical mission: to help ensure the health and well-being of American agriculture by providing a dependable and competitive source of financing."

"We are pleased to announce numbers just received from the Farm Credit Administration on Farm Credit's service to young, beginning and small farmers. During 2000, Farm Credit made almost 27,000 loans that benefit beginning farmers and ranchers. As a point of comparison, over a seven-year period between 1993 and 1999, USDA's Farm Services Agency guaranteed a total of 5,342 loans to beginning farmers," Penick said.

"Farm Credit has been a success story. Congress authorized the nation's farmers and ranchers to build a privately-owned system linking the resources of Wall Street to agriculture and rural communities, and we are doing that. But U.S. credit markets have changed dramatically in the past decade. In addition to expanding the authorities of commercial banks, Congress awarded them with nearly unfettered access to funding from GSE's. In effect, commercial banks have become GSE's with virtually unlimited operating authority.

Meanwhile, Farm Credit's authorities have remained basically unchanged since 1971. Farm Credit's charter needs updating — and a few areas to consider include: value-added agribusiness lending, increased community size for rural housing, equity capital for rural businesses and cooperatives, and the elimination of unduly burdensome and costly regulations," Penick suggested.

"Vigorous competition between Farm Credit, commercial banks and other lenders is benefiting U.S. agriculture. Producers have choices, and that's critical. In short, pricing is competitive and service is better because the Farm Credit System ensures competition in agricultural and rural credit markets. The more intense the competition, the greater the benefit for American agriculture." Penick concluded.

FDA Approves UV Light Processing For All Juices

GENEVA, N.Y. — In a move that could be a boost to small and mid-scale juice processors all over the country, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved ultraviolet light (UV) processing to reduce pathogens for all fruit and vegetable juices.

The ruling is good news for Cornell University microbiologist and food safety expert Randy Worobo, who has been a long-time proponent of UV processing as a viable alternative to thermal pasteurization.

"The expanded approval of UV processing is a good thing for the juice industry," said Worobo, who works at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y. "UV is a cheaper, less complicated processing option that satisfies some cider producers' reservations about thermal pasteurization."

In taste tests at Cornell, a panel of 50 participants found no statistical difference for raw, UV treated, and pasteurized, he said. All cider was prepared by Cornell.

Worobo and his technician, John Churey, began working with UV processing in 1998 while looking for methods to reduce the bacteria E. coli 0157:H7 in apple juice. They teamed up with the engineer who developed the original design of the UV apparatus, Phil Hartman, from Rochester-based FPE, Inc.

The engineers needed a microbiologist and food safety specialist to assist in developing the technology necessary for a commercial unit, and to carry out all the microbiological tests using various pathogenic strains of E. coli. Worobo's laboratory also developed the death kinetics related to UV exposure, tested the different pathogenic strains, the effect of UV pasteurization on cider color and solids, possible UV quenching agents, and identified what government regulations to apply to cider producers. [A quenching agent absorbs ultraviolet light and reduces the germicidal effect.]

The UV apparatus they developed proved to be very effective, reducing E. coli 0157:H7 contamination from 100,000 microorganisms per ml to one organism per ml in a single pass. Worobo and Churey then expanded their research to test other juices and pathogens.

They have now tested UV technology on apple cider, apple juice, carrot juice, blueberry juice, grape juice, red and white wine, and orange juice. They have also tested the UV's performance at reducing such pathogens as Cryptosporidium parvum, Listeria monocytogenes and Salmonella.

Every tube manufactured by FPE is validated by Worobo's laboratory using a surrogate micro-organism that has similar UV sensitivity to E. coli 0157:H7. This validation certificate is provided with every CiderSure unit and must be shown to state or federal inspectors if requested. FDA approval took two years. Even though the petition was "fast tracked" by the office of pre-market approval, it was delayed because additional information was requested, said Worobo.

Approval is at least partially due to the validating factors of Worobo's research. When the FDA rented an apple cider mill in California for testing, Worobo and Churey were invited to test the CiderSure unit in the test facility. The results at the test cider mill reproduced those obtained in Worobo's laboratory. The CiderSure unit has now been validated to achieve a five-log reduction for juice. It can process up to 300 gallons of juice/hour and is approximately two-foot by two-foot by four-foot in size.

Cider makers are enthusiastic about the new technology. "I like the simplicity of UV processing, the extremely low operating expense, the efficiencies of turning it on and off without having to heat it up or cool it off, and its compact size," said John Halsey, of Water Mill, N.Y. The Halsey family operates a farm market and cultivates 20 acres of apples. They have been in the cider business for 32 years.

"I think that the technology and the unit will be an enormous asset to the apple industry. Phil Hartman should get more credit for putting his time, energy and savings into an invention aimed at the small-scale producer," said Halsey.

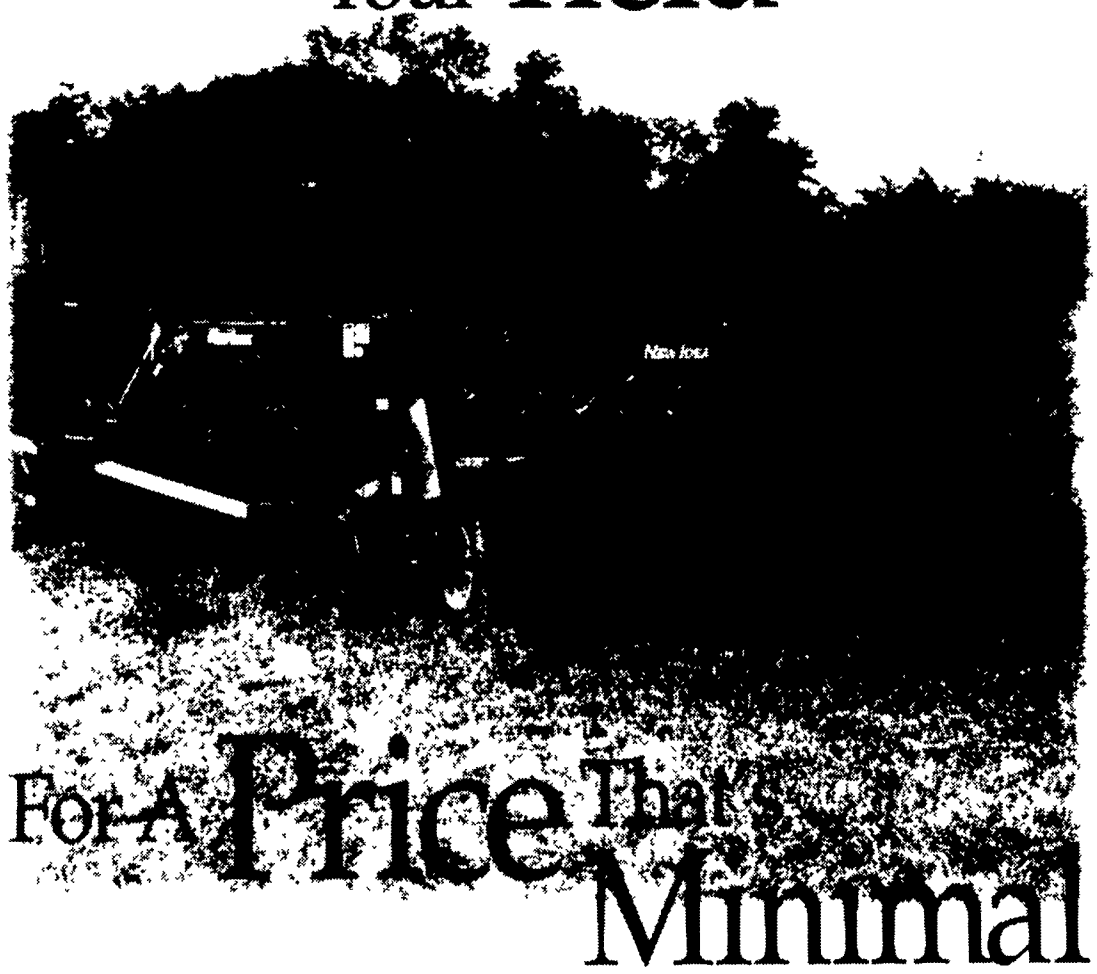
Maximize Your Yield Potential For A Price That's Minimal



When it comes to improving Relative Feed Value and maximizing the Crude Protein in hay, nothing outperforms the New Idea® 5209 Disc Mower Conditioner. Its high-speed disc cutterbar glides through fields with ease, even in extreme conditions. And the unique Ti-Cor® Conditioning Rolls gently condition the stems, speeding drydown.

The 5209's reliable design keeps you mowing and conditioning year after year. With the segmented cutterbar driveshaft, a New Idea innovation, the cutterbar is truly modular, which makes for easy maintenance.

To see the disc mower conditioner that'll exceed your expectations — not your budget, visit your AGCO® New Idea dealer today.

GEHL

QUICK. POWERFUL. COMPACT.

NEW GEHL 3000 SERIES SKID LOADERS

When the job calls for a highly compact - yet powerful - skid loader, Gehl's 3000 Series is the answer. In fact, the 3000 Series offers the best size-to-strength ratio of any skid loader in its class. Choose from two compact models that truly offer big loader performance.

Get More With Gehl's 3000 Series

- Lift - up to 1,260 lbs. load capacity
- Power-14.4 gpm hydraulic flow
- Maneuverability - slim 90"x48" frame
- Speed-travel speeds up to 7 mph

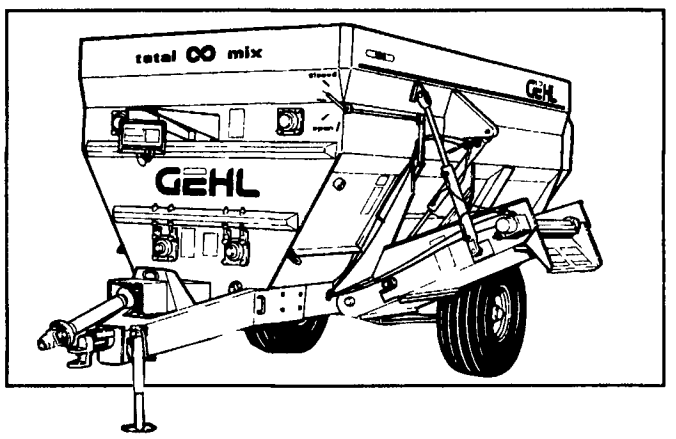
TMR "Total Mix" Mixer Feeders



"Total Mix" TMR mixer feeders let you mix more long-stemmed hay into your ration - up to 30% by weight depending on hay type and moisture content.

- "Hay - slicer auger" - Incorporates knife assemblies into the two bottom augers.
- Better mixing action - Four-auger design creates a double figure - 8 mixing pattern for fast and complete mixing of all feed ingredients.
- Energy efficient - Planetary drive system requires less horsepower.
- Built to last - Patented star couplers absorb shock loads by allowing the bottom augers to flex, providing long service life
- Five sizes - 150 to 455 cubic feet capacities.

Cut faster... condition better

For greater maneuverability and higher efficiency, nothing beats the Model 1431 Discbine® disc mower-conditioner from New Holland. It features a 13' cutting width, and operates at high ground speeds in wet, heavy grass without plugging. Fire anthills and gopher mounds won't stop the new Model 1431 either. Outstanding features include:

- A center pivot-tongue design
- Independent modular cutterbar with ten small-diameter cutting discs
- 102" wide conditioning rolls
- A full range of vertical and lateral flotation
- A torsion-bar, roll-pressure system
- A cutterbar driven from both ends

NEW HOLLAND

For maximum harvesting efficiency, check out the Model 1431 Discbine. It's the best in the field.

Quality 5x5 bales that stay in place

For everyone looking for New Holland quality and 5-ft.-by-5-ft. bales - now you can have both. Our Model 678 Roll-Belt™ round baler makes dense, square-shouldered bales that hold their shape, are stable on hillsides and stay in place when using a bale spear.

- Roll-Belt design makes uniform bales weighing up to 1,500 lbs.
- Optional Bale Command Plus™ monitoring system makes baling easier than ever
- Mechanical Auto-Wrap™ system provides automatic, trouble-free twine tying
- Fastnet™ net-wrap option lets you wrap bales faster and make bales that really stand up to the weather.

Pasture Walks Announced For Lancaster County

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Lancaster County Graziers are sponsoring five pasture walks this summer. Whether you are a seasoned grazier or just considering the concept, you are invited to attend. The walks are informal and every farm offers something interesting to see. You will leave with new ideas from either the farm that is hosting the walk or from other dairy farmers and related support industry folks that attend. Even if you are a conventional dairyman, these concepts can be applied to heifer raising, dry cow systems, or even once a day turnout programs to get cows off of concrete and onto high quality forage.

Thinking about expansion and can't afford both the facilities and the cows? Why not consider a grazing system to allow you to expand without as much cost? Don't just put up a fence and think it is going to work, however. Management is required and there is no better place to learn these simple techniques than on the farm.

All pasture walks are from 10 a.m. to noon unless otherwise noted, and are designed to be an informal way to learn and exchange ideas on grazing management. Refreshments will be provided. Clean clothes and disinfected boots or disposable boots will be required for biosecurity reasons.

Dairylea President To Speak At Upcoming Dairy Industry Convention

SYRACUSE, NY — Rick Smith, CEO of Dairylea Cooperative Inc. and COO of Dairy Farmers of America's Northeast Council (DFA), is scheduled to speak at this year's convention of New York State (NYS) Dairy Foods, Inc. The convention, held in conjunction with the Pennsylvania Association of Milk Dealers, will be held on June 10-12 at Turning Stone Casino Resort in Vernon, NY. Smith is scheduled to give his presentation on Tuesday, June 12 at 8:30 a.m. in the Mohawk Room at the Resort.

"We're looking forward to having Rick speak because he can accurately express issues and concerns of the economic situation and the production scenario for the dairy industry," said Bruce Krupke, executive vice president of NYS Dairy Foods, Inc.

Smith joined Dairylea in 1982 and has served as CEO for 13 years. Recently, he has assumed the position of COO of DFA and also serves as president of Agri-Services, LLC, Dairylea's insurance, financial, and farm services holding company. Additionally, Smith holds the position of CEO for two subsidiaries of Dairylea, Dairy One Cooperative, and Empire Livestock Marketing.

Krupke expects convention attendance representing between 100-150 dairy processing companies, primarily from New York and Pennsylvania. Also according to Krupke, "legislative questions will be addressed," during the convention.

Dairylea, based in Syracuse, NY, and DFA of Kansas City, Mo. are milk-marketing cooperatives owned by dairy farmers. A joint venture between the two companies produced Dairy Marketing Services, L.L.C. (DMS), which markets approximately 10 billion pounds of raw milk annually produced by thousands of members throughout the northeast.

USDA Removes Import Restrictions For Certain European Union Countries

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA recently announced it is removing the March 13, 2001 import restrictions placed on certain European Union countries, following the completion of a scientific risk assessment performed by the USDA's Animal Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

The restrictions are being lifted for the following EU countries where no cases of FMD have been reported in recognition that FMD has not spread to certain EU countries: Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Italy, Luxembourg, Portugal, Spain, and Sweden.

Import restrictions will remain in effect for the following countries: United Kingdom, France, Ireland, the Netherlands, and Greece, where there have been confirmed cases of FMD in recent months. The status of these countries continues to be evaluated and requires further risk analysis, evaluation, and site visits.

Although USDA has lifted import restrictions for certain EU member states that are unaffected by the current FMD situation, stringent measures continue to be taken to reduce the risk of FMD entering the U.S.

These stringent measures include prohibiting shipments of products from high-risk countries, increasing personnel at ports of entry, tightening regulatory enforcement, increased surveillance of incoming passengers and cargo, enhanced monitoring and surveillance of domestic livestock, strengthening federal, state, and industry coordination, implementing public education campaigns, and dispatching experts to the United Kingdom to assist in containment efforts.

USDA will continue its efforts to increase personnel at ports of entry and tighten regulatory enforcement. Earlier this year, Secretary Veneman authorized $32 million for the hiring of 350 new inspection personnel and the doubling of USDA's canine inspection teams. This is in addition to nearly 400 inspectors already being hired during 2001 and another 200 being reassigned from other APHIS program areas.

USDA will also continue reviewing current programs and work in coordination with other federal, state, and industry representatives to ensure all is being done possible to prevent FMD from entering the U.S. and make sure necessary resources are available should there ever be an emergency.

The lifting of restrictions associated with FMD does not alter other restrictions already in place on ruminants and ruminant products to prevent the introduction of bovine spongiform encephalopathy (BSE) into this country.

FMD is a highly contagious and economically devastating disease of ruminants and swine. The U.S. has been free of FMD since 1929. FMD is one of the animal diseases that livestock owners dread most because it spreads widely and rapidly and because it has grave economic consequences. Humans are not susceptible to the disease.

Current information on foot-and-mouth disease and traveler questions and answers are available on the Internet at www.usda.gov.

Land Pride Pulverizer Seeders

SALINA, Kan. — Available in 48-inch or 72-inch widths, the Pulverizer Seeders, models SPS20 and SPS30, aggressively rip into crusted soils with reversible ½-inch thick scarifier teeth. The fluted seed cups then precisely meter the desired amount of seed. The full width pulverizing roller then packs the soil down to encourage seed to soil contact. The seed cups can be shut off when pulverizing only.

Designed for 20-50 HP tractors, the Pulverizer Seeders feature 3/8-inch by 1-inch heat treated steel spikes with replaceable wear sleeves, 1 bu./ft. seedbox, heavy-duty lid with seed splash guard, roller cleaning brush and two pneumatic gauge wheels.

By incorporating two tools into one, versatility and efficiency are enhanced for the busy and productive landscaper.

Red And White Association Announces Convention Details

CRYSTAL SPRING (Fulton Co.) — The Red and White Dairy Cattle Association (RWDCA) recently announced their 2001 annual convention schedule and highlights, July 18-20, in Harrisonburg, Va.

Hosted by the Southeast RWDCA, the 2001 convention combines southern hospitality with the beautiful Shenandoah Valley. Within the recent issue of the association's publication. The Red Bloodlines, the convention plans and a preliminary schedule of events was posted as follows:

- Wednesday, July 18 — national board meeting, tours of local farms and points of interest, and Dairy Bowl contest for junior members.
- Thursday, July 19 — Summer Hummer Red and White Show, annual membership meeting, and awards banquet and craft auction.
- Friday, July 20 — Shenandoah Summer Hummer Sale.

Opportunities for elite genetics will be strong, as the Shenandoah Summer Hummer will offer leading genetics predicted to be the best in the history of the breed.

While consignments are still being finalized, early commitments to this sale include a Rainbow daughter backed for four generations of Excellents from the Helens, a showage Red Marker from the 1999 Reserve All-American 4-Year-Old, an embryo package from the Maud family in Canada, a Cliffhanger from the Helen family, and many, many more outstanding consignments.

Show heifers, leading cow families and leading index animals will be featured. Additional consignments will also be announced by the association.

Dairy Industry Success Depends On Unique Solutions

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If America's dairy producers are to be successful, the American Farm Bureau Federation told lawmakers recently that future dairy policy needs to address issues ranging from the continuation of the dairy price support program and reviewing dairy import/export concerns to animal health protections and proposed environmental regulations.

"We believe that the dairy sector provides unique situations compared to other sectors of agriculture, and therefore requires unique solutions," said AFBF board member John Lincoln.

"Since milk is highly perishable, does not store easily, and requires special handling, farmers must market their product virtually every day of the year, regardless of the market price at that moment. This has, generally speaking, required more government intervention than required of most other commodities."

Lincoln, a New York dairy producer and president of the New York Farm Bureau, told members of a House Agriculture subcommittee that the government has supported milk prices since the enactment of the Agricultural Act of 1949, and that "it is imperative that the dairy price support be reauthorized at $9.90 per hundredweight prior to October 2001. This would make the dairy program consistent with other commodity programs and maintain a safety net for dairy producers."

Among the other challenges faced by America's dairy farmers, Lincoln explained, is the basically unrestricted import of protein concentrate and casein into the U.S. Advances in technology now allow these products to be used in cheesemaking, thus reducing the need for domestically produced nonfat dry milk.

With no significant tariffs or quotas on milk protein concentrates, unlike other dairy products, imports have risen more than 600 percent in the six years since the creation of the World Trade Organization. While at the same time, Lincoln said, other nations are ensuring that milk protein products are not imported into their countries.

"U.S. dairy producers have large investments in their cooperatives' manufacturing, processing, and marketing activities in order to provide U.S. consumers with the finest quality cheeses," Lincoln stated. "Allowing dried forms of ultra-filtered milk (concentrate) to be used as an ingredient in cheesemaking could compromise the quality and nutritional component of our cheeses."

Lincoln also highlighted Farm Bureau's support for dairy export incentives, export market development, dairy promotional efforts, food programs, and state dairy compacts, all of which contribute to profitability and growth for the dairy industry.

Animal health issues are also of concern to America's dairy industry, the farm leader said.

"This past year we have seen heightened awareness of the problems and dangers that different animal diseases can have, not only on the livestock industry, but also on the consuming public," Lincoln said. He emphasized the importance of placing import restrictions on countries known to have disease problems as well as establishing a clearly defined action plan for the Agriculture Department to follow in the event of an outbreak in the U.S.

Lincoln said that Farm Bureau is also "extremely concerned" about new proposals to increase federal regulations on water quality rules pertaining to animal feeding operations. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, the proposed rules are aimed at correcting problems on less than 2 percent of America's waters.

"Farm Bureau is very concerned that these regulations will exact a heavy cost from U.S. dairy and livestock producers while having an extremely small benefit to the rest of society," Lincoln said.

Pennsylvania Ranks Fourth In Ice Cream Production In 2000

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Statistics Service reported recently that while ice cream production decreased by 18 percent, Pennsylvania manufacturers produced 49.0 million gallons of ice cream in 2000, fourth nationally. Lowfat ice cream production totaled 16.8 million gallons, up 21 percent from 1999. Pennsylvania ranks fifth in lowfat ice cream production. Milk sherbet production, at 1.8 million gallons, is eight percent lower than the previous year.

The state's processors churned out 84.9 million pounds of butter during 2000, a decrease of 23 percent from 1999.

Production of all cheese, excluding cottage cheese, totaled 379.7 million pounds in 2000, up 0.8 percent from 1999. Production of all types of Italian cheeses decreased one percent to 264.1 million pounds. Production of Swiss cheese, at 7.9 million pounds, was down seven percent from last year.

Manufactured dairy products use of milk falls by 11 percent: A total of 5.3 billion pounds of milk (on a whole milk basis) was used to manufacture dairy products during 2000. Butter accounted for 36 percent of this total, frozen products 15 percent; cheese and other dairy products used 41 percent.

U.S. Cheese Output In 2000 Up Five Percent From 1999

Total U.S. cheese production, excluding cottage cheese, was 8.25 billion pounds, 4.6 percent above the 1999 production level. Wisconsin was the leading state again, with 26.6 percent of total production.

Production of butter in the U.S. during 2000 totaled 1.27 billion pounds, 0.3 percent less than was produced in 1999. California, the leading state, accounted for 27.8 percent of this production, followed by Wisconsin with 22.6 percent.

Ice cream production in the U.S. totaled 970 million gallons, 0.3 percent lower than in 1999. Lowfat ice cream, which checked in at 382 million gallons, was up 0.2 percent and milk sherbet, at 52.9 million gallons, was down 2.8 percent from the previous year. Frozen yogurt production, at 87.3 million gallons, dropped four percent.

Whole milk for dairy products represented 62.0 percent of all milk marketed in the U.S., the same as in 1999. Whole milk used for manufacturing dairy products totaled 102 billion pounds, two percent more than 1999.

Dairy Industry Leaders Needed For CAFO Task Force

MIDDLETOWN (Dauphin Co.) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is proposing changes in the regulations that will affect animal feeding operations. Pennsylvania dairy producers will need to comply with the new Concentrated Animal Feeding Operations (CAFOs) regulations. EPA has extended the deadline for comment on these new regulations to July 30.

With the extension of the comment period, the Pennsylvania dairy industry has the opportunity to comment on the proposed regulations. The Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders is developing a task force to bring together interested dairy producers and industry leaders to review the proposed regulations and respond to EPA.

Dairy producers and industry professionals are welcome and encouraged to join the CAFO Task Force in a work and information meeting scheduled in Harrisburg on June 15. According to Bob Thomson, CAFO Task Force chairman and dairy producer from Wyalusing, "Pennsylvania dairy producers with 100 or more cows should be involved in this process. With some of the rules being proposed, a large percentage of Pennsylvania dairy farms could come under these regulations and therefore, we need to take this opportunity to influence the final outcome."

At the June 15 meeting, technical leadership and assistance will be provided by several organizations including the National Milk Producers Federation, State Conservation Commission, PennAg Industries, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, and Penn State University.

For more information about the June 15 meeting, contact the Pennsylvania Dairy Stakeholders, c/o Alan Bair at (717) 948-6328 or nab4@psu.edu.

Pa. Pork Producers Set Promotion Schedule

KUTZTOWN (Berks Co.) — Pennsylvania Pork Producers Council approved Penn State radio advertising for this season. Radio spots will be aired for each football and basketball game. The Pa. Pork Producers, National Pork Board, Giant Food Stores Inc. and Hatfield Quality Meats have formed a partnership that will provide a vehicle to increase consumer awareness and fresh pork sales. The program will provide an excellent opportunity for companies based in Pennsylvania to increase their pork sales by promoting products raised within the state.

Also approved was a Category Management Program. This program is an effective tool for the retailer to evaluate his fresh meat sales and to determine how he can increase his sales by adding new items or cuts and or eliminating slow moving items. It also recommends case space allocations according to consumer demographics. The National Pork Producers Council has found that Category Management is very effective in increasing pork sales.

A sausage promotion with Leidys Premium Pork Products has been approved for a new line of flavored pork sausage.

Two ARCA races are planned for this year. Pork Producers will sponsor a car, which features "Pork the Other White Meat." The first race is scheduled for June 16 at the Pocono International Speedway, and the second will follow in July.

Marketing programs have been set up with Giant and Weis and Acme Markets for these races. Included will be local radio advertising, circular ads promoting local fresh pork, consumer sweepstakes, meat manager incentives, special show car appearances, pork producer involvement and a day at the races for the retailer.

Weaver's Toasted Grains
TOASTED IS TASTIER

Four Ways We Deliver More...

#1 More By-pass, More Milk – Toasted Beans offer consistently higher by-pass protein cows need to make more milk

#2 More Production per Protein Unit – Toasting provides consistently superior protein release from every bean, without variations that can tie up amino acids

#3 More Rumen-Friendly Source – Toasting is gentle Digestibility is improved Energy (oil) is retained inside the bean to minimize impact on rumen environment
